Fancy cattle fill All-American lineup

BY DONNA TOMMELLEO

HARRISBURG — This week, the Keystone State opened her doors to those tireless globetrotters, men, women and children traveling the road of advancement, relinquishing their soft warm beds for one of straw and catering to the every need of their most important livelihood — purebred dairy cattle.

The All American Dairy Shows attracted exhibitors from as far west as California and as north as Canada. While several new names were inked in the champion record books this year, a few familiar faces stood in the winner's circle as well. Throughout this issue, Lancaster Farming takes you, page by page, to the exciting Pennsylvania All American.

At press time, the Ayrshire Show and one of the largest Holstein competitions in the history of the All American was still in progress. Next week's issue will bring complete results of both shows.

However, before Thursday's competition ended with Holstein bulls through dry class, show judge Bob Beauprez picked senior calf Raymondairi Boot Nick Candie as Junior Champion Female. Owned by Suzanne Imig of Oconto, Wisconsin, the junior champ is sired by Ripchen Boot Nick and out of an Excellent Chapel Bank Apache daughter.

Get Ready To Lock-In Record Feeding Margins

Have you foudn yourself in the past expanding your herd when margins were high and feed costs low, only to find that when it was time to sell the finished hog, prices had dropped significantly because all your neighbors expanded when you did? Clayton feels the 1983 hog situation could be very similar to this scenario with strong fall prices in 1982 resulting in herd expansion. This will likely be followed with significantly lower prices into 1983. We will give you the evidence in this report.

Time to clean up our act

Autumn is officially here in Pennsylvania. And, just as if Mother Nature was watching the calendar and noticed the fall equinox occurred on Thursday, the weather in Pennsylvania has certainly turned "seasonal."

This week, as we dug out sweatshirts and jackets to snuggle in and keep away the damp, bone-chilling air and incessant drizzle that dampened all but the participants' spirits at area fairs, it became apparent those sweltering days of summer have vanished for yet another year.

And just as the weather signals a change in apparel, it also provides the catalyst for farmers to change gears in our fieldwork routine. It seems those crisp fall mornings help us shrug off the doldrums of hot-weather haymaking for the year, revitalizing us for the challenge of long hours in the tractor seat, coupled with stiff necks, as the fall plowing season begins.

Just the other morning, one farmer, with sweatshirt hood tied snugly about his ears, clipped down the highway enroute to a waiting cropfield. His tractor's muffler was puffing out a cloud of exhaust as it broke through the crisp morning air.

Eager to begin turning under a worn-out alfalfa stand now that this week's rains provided the right "softening" action to change "concrete-hard" soils into workable land, the farmer set his plows.

As plow shares bit and tore through a tangle of deep-reaching roots, the farmer was met by the sweet, musty aroma of the freshly turned ground. Making his way around the field, he turned back toward the road. That's when he was confronted with a question of conscience.

"Where am I obligated to lift my plow out of the ground?" was the nagging decision this farmer faced. "Do I stay back away from the road or do I farm tight up against it?"

Wisely, instead of trying to stretch his field out almost to the centerline of the road, this farmer chose to leave a sod strip between his future winter grain crop and the blacktop's birm. But, many of his counterparts fail to see the wisdom in leaving the highway's right-of-way unturned as they plow and plant their crops, farming down over the banks and into drainage ditches.

These types of farming practices have prompted certain townships across the state to pass ordinances forbidding this right-of-way infringement. Repeated warnings to farmers to keep their crops in the field and not on the highway turned out to be ineffective. So now they've enacted laws that make the decisions about where to stop plowing cut and dry, leaving nothing to farmers' consciences.

Every township and state road has a 33 foot right-of-way — that's 16½ feet from the center of the road. And, although the highway's paved surface doesn't extend completely across the 33-foot span, that unpaved fringe still belongs to the highway departments and is their maintenance responsibility.

Although most farmers argue the highway departments don't hold up their ends of the bargain in maintaining these strips of land that border cropfields, the fact they neglect to spray the weeds or trim the trees doesn't allow farmers carte-blanche privileges to do it for them.

According to the Lancaster Conservation District, the ideal coexistance between farmers and highway departments would find grass strips bordering crop fields and road gutters. "Unfortunately, too often the field is plowed and disked and sprayed and no vegetaion is left, causing soil to erode onto the road. This presents a traffic hazard as well as the potential for water pollution," they say.

Another area of contention between farmers and highway departments is the transporting of sharp-edged equipment on macadem roads. Road superintendents don't hide their annoyance when they follow tell-tale tracks of sliced and broken pavement up to a farm lane. Turning steel-wheeled machinery on paved roads also stirs up trouble as the blacktop is spiked and scoured by the wheels.

One growing problem area that is becoming increasingly annoying to township road superintendents is manure spillage. Just recently one Lancaster County township heard complaints from local citizens on this very subject.

Luckily, most rural governments and residents understand the fact that farmers sometimes need to haul livestock waste to the fields via public roads. And most don't mind driving through the accidental dribbles and sioshes that inevitably spill from even the best of spreaders.

But farmers can't expect these same folks to put up with inches of manure slopped across the roadway through careless management. And there are regulations under the Second Class Township Code that can be enforced to prevent it. Farmers who track manure or mud out onto the road are responsible for cleaning it off. This is the same regulation that requires building contractors or any other guilty party to keep mud off the highways or clean it up.

So far, we know of no prosecutions or warnings that have been issued to farmers concerning manure spillage, but it could happen.

Getting along with highway departments and neighbors only takes a little time and consideration by farmers. And for our "better image" efforts, it will be easier for these same people to go that "extra mile" for us.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IN THE MIDST OF EVIL
September 26, 1982

Background Scripture:
Genesis 37; 42 through 45; 50.
Devotional Reading:
Genesis 37; 12-28.

They were both wrong and they were both right.

The sons of Jacob had every reason in the world to be furious with Joseph, their youngest brother and clearly their father's favorite. While they labored in the fields, he played and loafed. For their labors they barely received a word of appreciation from Israel, their father, while "that brat" was rewarded for his indolence with a coat of many colors. But the last straw was the arrogance with which he bragged of a dream in which they all had bowed down to him. Who could blame them for resenting this obnoxious brat?

All The Evil We Did

At the same time, who could blame Joseph for hating the brothers who almost killed him in jealous rage and sold him into slavery to get him out of the way? No matter what they held against him, nothing could justify their terrible conduct towards him. If Joseph had vowed that some day he would get his revenge, who could blame him?

And who would be surprised had not his family feud been carried on from one generation to another until, at last, the original reasons for it had become obscurred by new depredations in each generation? Once an evil deed has been done, it is easy for the evil to be perpetuated in an endless cycle of revenge.

Yesterday the Irish Republican Army detonated a bomb in London that killed and injured many innocent people. Although you and I cannot condone this act of senseless terrorism, we can at least understand the bitterness that gave rise to it: the Irish anger over what they consider to be centuries of British domination and subjection. "Who is right?" "Who is wrong?" we ask.

God Meant It For Good

Yet, reasonable as these questions are, they usually cannot solve the problem, particularly when the neutral observer concludes as we often do that "both are right and both are wrong." What kept the tragic enmity between Joseph and his brothers from being perpetuated was Joseph's recognition, not that what they had done to him hadn't been all that bad, but that in the midst of that terrible deed God had been working to turn the bad into good. God had not caused the evil—that rested squarely on Joseph, his brothers and even their father—but he did use that occasion to bring some good out of their human folly.

In every tragic human failure there are opportunities for God to bring forth some flowers from the rubble. Vengeance makes good sense to the human mind. Logic demands that we pay back in kind those who harm us. But the divine mind, working in the midst of the evil of human deeds, calls not for vengeance but forgiveness and reconcillation.

To Beware of Frosted Crops

Colder weather means frost. In fact this is good news to many of us who have had enough of hot humid weather this summer. Livestock producers who have fields of sudan-sorghum hybrids, should keep in mind that when frost hits these crops they could be toxic to livestock for seven to ten days following the freeze. After this period, and the plants are dead, they may be used safely. However, any growth coming from the plant after a killing frost might also be toxic.

Another frost hazard would be a permit livestock to graze alfalfa or clover stands while the frost is still on the plants. This can cause severe bloating. Allow the frost to melt and the plants to dry before grazing. Good management is needed on various forage crops after a killing frost.

For Increased Lamb Production

Proper nutrition and health is a must for increased pounds of lamb marketed per ewe. Ewes should be provided adequate energy and protein to insure breeding and lambing efficiency as well as desired levels of milk production. Ewes should be fed according to body weight and condition during breeding and gestation. After lambing, ewes should be sorted by number of lambs they are caring for and fed accordingly. The most up-to-date health management practices possible should be maintained on the farm. Increased lambing rates accompanied by increased lamb mortality defeats the purpose. Lambing rates should be increased to that level where management can properly care for and maintain a lamb mortality rate of less than 5 percent. Labor should be intensified in and around lambing time. Health costs at lambing will pay for itself in lambs saved, remarks Chester D. Hughes, Extension Livestock Agent.

To Consult Your Veterinarian

Being on excellent terms with your local veterinarian is a very good thing. Most producers need some veterinary assistance once in a while. The developing of a health program and sanitary practices for the farm operation is strongly suggested. Veterinarians are trained in disease prevention and treatment with the most important part being disease prevention. When this is successful there is little need for high veterinary costs.

We suggest that producers regard their veterinarian as a valuable resource person for their farm operation; there may be times when it might be expensive; however, the prevention of infections and the saving of animals are things that must be done in order to make the most profit. Give him a chance to help.

To Store Pesticides Safely

Most producers are about finished with their spray materials for the year. Many of these can be held over until next year with good results. However, it is always best to buy only enough for one season at a time. When storing spray materials, always keep them in their original containers and away from children, pets and livestock. It is best to have a separate room or building for pesticide storage. Wettable powders are easy to store; however, emulsions and liquids may be harmed by freezing weather. Producers are urged to follow the label and instructions in this respect. It may be necessary to keep some of them in a heated building. Be sure they are not near feed supplies because accidents can happen. Pesticides kept in a room or building under a lock is a good way to prevent costly mistakes and tragedies.

TO WHAT EASTERN FARMERS ARE SAYING ABOUT HOFFMAN SILAGE INOCULATOR.

"We find that by using Hoffman Silage Inoculator we have consistent high quality haylage eliminating hot spots and heating and sour smell, should it be too wet. It also improved the corn silage — no mold, etc. It produces a sweet smell and the cows relish it. We also like it because it doesn't eat up the equipment."

FULMER BROTHERS
Nazareth, Pennsylvania

"Normally, seepage starts about one week after silo filling. This year I had no seepage and the moisture was at least the same, if not higher, than in the past several years. Two of my neighbors tried it and think it's the best product they have ever used. They tried other products, but were not satisfied with the results. It really does what the literature says it will do."

BRUCE BRESEE
Ulster, Pennsylvania

"We've used Hoffman Silage Inoculator for two years. We put up high moisture ground shelled corn by spreading the inoculator on the corn in the bin on the combine and letting it get mixed that way. We found we could feed the treated high moisture corn right into the hot weather. We have also checked it on haylage. We are more than well satisfied with it."

Mechanicville, New York

Publications explain ethanol

NEWARK, Del. — Not too long ago it was easy to spot fuel pumps selling "gasohol," a mixture of gasoline and ethanol alcohol distilled from grains. The pumps usually pictured a fat ear of corn.

Those specially marked pumps have almost disappeared, but ethanol is still being used as a petroleum extender and octane enhancer, says University of Delaware Extension agricultural engineer Tom Williams. Major gasoline producers are selling premium unleaded gasoline that is 10 percent ethanol.

Williams says area farmers should consider ethanol as an alternative market for their corn. This would not interfere with food production, he says, since corn surpluses exist, and since ethanol can even be made from spoiled crops.

One bushel of corn yields 2.6 gallons of ethanol under well managed conditions. The U.S. can generate enough surplus grain to provide 8.5 billion gallons of ethanol each year, Williams says. That's equivalent to about eight percent of our nation's total gasoline use at current consumption levels.

Ethanol can reduce our dependence on foreign oil. And unlike oil, it is a renewable resource.

Williams does not advocate on-farm ethanol production for most farmers, because the last step in the production process, removing water from the alcohol, is impractical on a small scale. However, farmers may want to consider selling part of their crop to a commercial distiller.

A publication entitled Facts About Enthanol is available from the USDA National Agricultural Library, Room 111, Beltsville, MD 20725. The publication is free while supplies last.

In addition, a free publication explaining ethanol production is available from Extension agricultural engineer Tom Williams, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19711.

Compared to previous week's close, Slaughter Steers and Heifers ended the week 2.00-2.50 lower, instances 3.00 down. Cows fully 1.00 lower. Bulls 1.00-2.00 lower.

Declines of 4.00-5.00 in carcass trading. Liberal Slaughter rates and more than adequate salable receipts were all factors contributing to the week's sharp downturn. Yield grade 2 and 3 enjoyed the best demand, as numbers of Yield Grade 4 continued to increase and carcass discounts on these kinds ran at 12.00-14.00 per cwt. Overall quality fairly good and numbers of lightweight "short-feds" decreased from previous weeks.

Top Hornet daughter reigns as Guernsey champ

HARRISBURG — No one has to ask Russel Subject or Doug Panepento of Leroy, N.Y. if their July 1961 purchase paid off.

Shortly after they bought Burgess Farm Hornets Melanie, the 5-year-old freshened with a lone Palm TH Jupiter heifer to add to their Erinwood Farm string. Then, she collected a Reserve Grand Champion title at the New York State Fair.

But more recently, Wedr esday afternoon to be exact, the Clovelly Top Hornet daughter paraded her way to a National Guernsey Grand Champion honor during the All American Dairy Show.

Bred to Co Hill Farms TH Big Tex, Subject and Panepento's champ is projected at more than 20,000 pounds of milk and 1,000 of fat.

Don Alexander and John Merryman teamed up on a Reserve Grand Champion title for Bushy Park Farm of Wake, Virginia. Their Clovelly Top Hornet daughter, Chedco TH Mamby topped her 4-year-old class and moved into the reserve slot.

Pennsylvania breeder Alissa Fava of Scenery Hill notched the Junior Champion title with her senior yearling, Co. Hill Farms BT Nutmeg. Sired by the Fava-bred bull, Big Tex, the junior yearling is out of Co Hill Farms F Nora with records to 18,760 pounds of milk and 812 of fat.

Show judge William Etgen went with Holcomb DF Daisy for Reserve Junior Champion. Sired by Housley Dari Fayvor, the senior yearling is owned by the Robert Holcomb family of Greene, N.Y. The Holcombs continued their tanbark success on Wednesday to earn the Premier Breeder Banner.

California Swiss claims eastern title

HARRISBURG — For a few fleeting moments, Tuesday, the Farm Show Complex had all the flavor of life near the Swiss Alps, as dozens of the big brown cows, complete with brass bells, paraded to the sounds of mountain yodeling.

The parade, of course, was the march of champions, a tanbark highlight which characterizes a Brown Swiss Show.

From the procession emerged the Eastern National Brown Swiss Grand Champion, Idyl-Wild Improver Jinx.

Owners Pete and Martha Vanderham of Mira Loma, California, selected one animal to trek eastward and represent their Bridge View herd. And judge Dave Dickson's decision confirmed the Vanderhams' choice.

The 3-year-old Westlawn Stretch Improver daughter completed her first lactation at 18,960 pounds of milk and 783 pounds of fat for a 4.1 percent test. Currently bred to Bridge-View Jesta Jubilant, the grand champ earned All-American 2-year-old honors, last year.

Reserve Grand Champion honors went to J K Jeavarissa Jodie, owned by Lary and Susan Passke of Tierra Verde Dairy, Brashear, Texas. The first place 4-year-old is sired by VB Favor Vronicka Boy and out of L-J Rare Jodie.

Wayne Sliker of Top Acres Farm, St. Paris, Ohio, brought his nationally-known show string eastward and did not walk away empty-handed.

Sliker's senior yearling Top Acres Prissy Dee nailed down the Junior Champion title. Sired by Rancho Rustic My Design, the junior champ is out of Graystone Stretchy Princess with records to 22,430 pounds of milk and 925 pounds of fat.

The Ohio breeder took home another champion before the day ended. His 17-month-old Welcome In Stretch son, Top Acres Stretchy Starwars-ET notched the Champion Bull title. In addition, the Premier Breeder and Exhibitor banners, once again, will hang at Sliker's Top Acres Farm.

Reserve Junior Champion honors went to Roseledge Lynson Brynn, the junior calf entry of Carol Prime, Augusta, Maine. Sired by Top Acres Stretchy Lynson, Prime's champ is out of Roseledge Bell B.

Earnest St. John and Jr Cooper collectively earned the Reserve Champion Bull title with their senior calf ES J Coop Design. Sired by Rancho Rustic My Design, the young bull is out of Head's Crest Stretchy Nita with records to 20,560 pounds of milk and 890 pounds of fat.

Pete and Martha Vanderham, right, join their champion Brown Swiss, Idyl-Wild Improver Jinx. The 3-year-old Westlawn Stretch Improver daughter is no stranger to the tanbark having earned senior champion honors at the Western National Brown Swiss Show and racking up on All-American 2-year-old title in 1981. The Vanderhams, who hail from Mira Loma, California, get a little assistance with their fruits of victory from Pennsylvania Swiss Miss Anne Daubert, Pine Grove.

Top-selling Jersey brings $2,600

LANCASTER — The top-selling cow at last week's Pennsylvania Jersey sale was a two year old consigned by Ogston Farm of Columbus, New Jersey. Putting show potential, production, and an outstanding pedigree together, this cow caught the eye of Terry Lee and Craig Rhein who paid $2,600 for her.

Ogston Greats Desire is sired by A-Nine Call Me Great, a plus-proven bull who is a son of Vaucluse Sleeping Surville. "Desire's" maternal side shows production with her dam completing a 7-year-old record of 14,108 pounds of milk and 706 of fat in 305 days. Her granddam made records of 14,591 pounds of milk as a six year old.

The second-high selling cow was consigned by junior member Matthew Arrowsmith of Peach Bottom, and sold to Robert Robinson of Coal Center for $2,550. The 2-year-old daughter of Shadewell Ethan Allen also carried production records of over 13,000 pounds milk on the maternal side of her pedigree.

The Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club, as in past years, offered a Pot O' Gold contest to encourage junior breeders. This year's sale included six outstanding heifers for juniors to choose from. Twenty-five percent of the gross sale, approximately $1,320 this year, is set aside to be awarded to the owners of the calves making the highest production records on their first lactation.

At the Lampeter Fair

Hess brothers leave their mark

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

LAMPETER — The Hess brothers of Rl Conestoga wanted to make sure officials at the Lampeter Fair knew they had participated in the steer competition Wednesday night, so they each took a championship title home with them.

Highest among these awards was the Grand Champion title, earned applaudably by the youngest of the three, 15-year-old Brian Hess.

Wayne, 18, the oldest brother, captured the reserve champion title in both the heavyweight class and in the 4-H show while Gerald, 18, earned the coveted title of senior showman.

Brian Hess, 15, and "Chunky," together earned the title of Grand Champion at the Lampeter steer show, Wednesday night. Brian is the son of Abram and Janie Hess of Conestoga, and Chunky is a 1230-pound Angus-Chianina.

Brian's entry was "Chunky," a 1,230-pound Angus-Chianina.

The winners are the sons of Abram and Janie Hess of Rl Conestoga.

Michelle Dean, having completed a successful afternoon by earning grand champion in the hog competition, remained in the midst of her winning streak that evening and captured the Reserve Champion Steer and the Champion 4-H Steer titles.

Michelle's entry, an 1,100-pound Angus-Chianina purchased from Nittany Farms in Centre County, may be on his way to Farm Show, depending upon how big he gets, according to the winner.

In FFA competition, Dan Martin, 20, of Pequea earned the Reserve Champion title with his 1,005-pound Angus cross.

Vickie Hess, 10-year-old sister to the aforementioned Hess brothers, kept up with her brothers by taking home the showmanship award in the junior competition.

The constant drizzle that hung over the fairground stopped only the judge from attending the event, so former Extension agent Max Smith, well-known for his livestock work in the county, agreed to serve as judge.

Here is how Smith placed the entrants:

Michelle Dean wins first grand champion hog award

LAMPETER — Two years ago Michelle Dean captured the grand champion title of the steer competition at the annual Lampeter Fair. Last year she did it again.

Now following tradition, she again captured the title of grand champion this year, but not in the steer show. Instead, she secured the award in the hog competition, Wednesday, with her 240-pound Duroc gilt. It's interesting to note here, however, that Michelle did win at the steer competition, taking the title of Reserve Grand Champion.

The champion hog award marks Michelle's first Grand Champion in her three years of showing in FFA. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Dean of Strasburg, Michelle, 16, is a sophomore at Lampeter-Strasburg High School.

Scott Charles, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Charles of Rl Millersville, earned the Reserve Champion title with his 220-pound crossbred gilt. This is Scott's second year of showing hogs.

Scott Mylin corners market lamb title in first year

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

LAMPETER — The dreary, rainy weather at the Lampeter Fair didn't hinder Scott Mylin's good time because he left the show ring with the trophy for champion market lamb, Wednesday, in this, his first year of showing market animals.

Scott, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Mylin of R6 Manheim, has shown breeding sheep for four years so he demonstrated his expertise in this field also by capturing the title of Champion Hampshire Ram.

The young winner is a sixth grade student at Sporting Hill Elementary School and is a member of the Lancaster County 4-H Woolies Club.

But Scott wasn't the only Mylin in the family to emerge a winner. His sister, 13-year-old Michelle, surpassed him in the Hampshire ewe class to earn champion title, while Scott won reserve placing.

In other competition, Denise

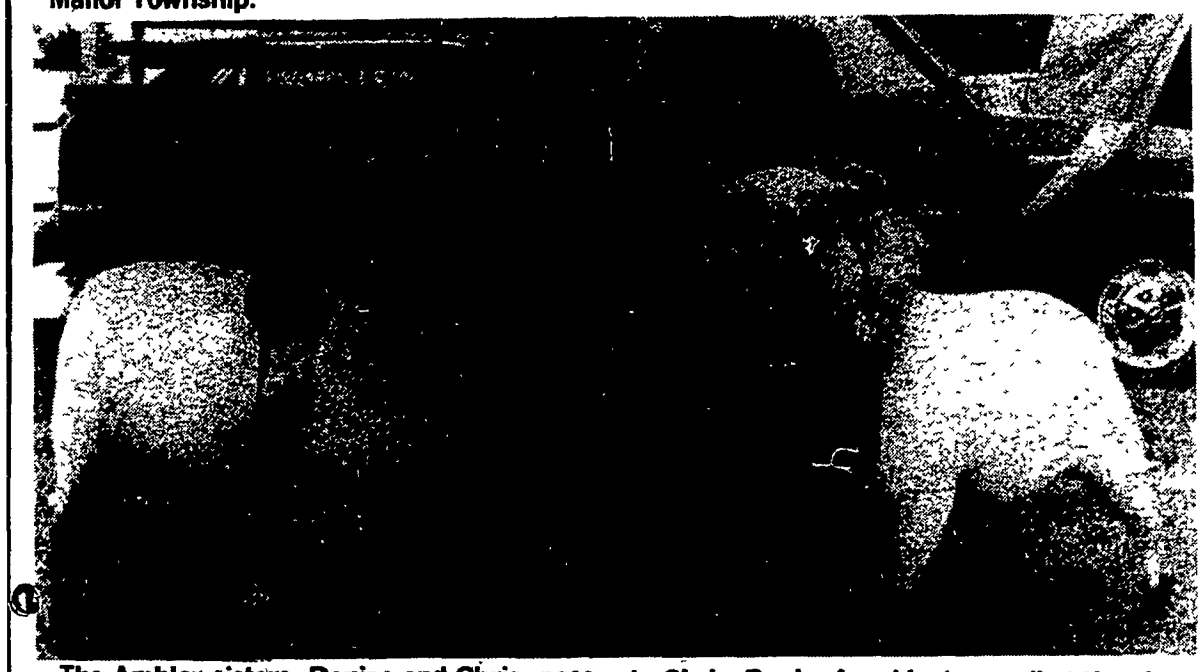
Ambler, 16, kept a patient vigil by her lambs as her friends seemed to sweep away all the top placings around her. Near the end of the competition she had earned only first placings in the Hampshire 3

(Turn to Page A36)

Jim Stauffer showed this Suffolk ewe to champion honors. Jim is the 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Stauffer of Manor Township.

Scott, 11, and Michelle Mylin, 13, of R6 Manheim, earned the titles of champion ram and champion ewe in the Hampshire breed, respectively. In his first year of showing market animals, Scott also earned the coveted title of Champion Market Lamb.



The Ambler sisters, Denise and Chris, pose here with the champion ram and ewe in the Shropshire breed. Although both titles belong to Chris, Denise fared just as well at the show by leaving the ring with the senior showmanship award.

Ernest Barrett, 16, of Cochranville showed the champion Cheviot ewe at the Lampeter Fair. Ernie is the son of David and Pam Barrett and is an eight-year veteran of 4-H.

What makes car dealer enter dairy breeding?

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

KEMPTON — What prompts a successful car dealer to enter the dairy industry in a big way with a brand new, multi-million-dollar breeding and merchandising center that will likely become an international showcase facility of the world of Holsteins?

In the first couple of minutes of conversation with Bruce Rothrock, whose energy and enthusiasm bubble forth like a colt first feeling its legs on pasture, a series of likely reasons emerge, which are as multi-faceted as the man himself.

–Is one of the reasons tied to the return of a farm boy to the land and a life that once included killing and dressing chickens for his father's door-to-door retail poultry route?

That's part of it.

–Does another reason involve a successful businessman and entrepreneur in a series of ventures searching for new challenges to conquer and goals to meet?

That's another part of it?

–And in seeking new challenges, does his desire to breed and sell top dairy cows show a need to work with warm, living and breathing products, as opposed to the cold, hard steel of cars and trucks.

That seems to be part of it, too.

But is this yen to return to his agricultural roots and climb new professional mountains coloring his business expertise and background that has brought him through more than two decades of success?

Not in the slightest.

"After 22 years in business, from autos to kitchen cabinets, I've learned one basic thing – business, no matter what field it is, primarily involves dealing with people," Rothrock explained amidst the hub-bub of an open house on Wednesday.

"I like to work with people and will apply this basic experience and knowledge I've gained in other fields to breeding and merchandising better cows.

"Whatever it takes in facilities, personnel, efficiency, management and stock selection, there will be no short-changing in our dedication toward developing top animals."

And the open house of the completed dairy barn and other facilities, which will be finished in a couple of months, showed the large throng of rainy-day visitors an eye-opening preview of what is to come.

The 52-animal dairy barn features the latest in cow-comfort technology. And going one step even farther it uses the cows to literally keep the staff more comfortable in a unique, energy-saving measure that may be a first for Pennsylvania.

Four condensing units are scattered throughout the barn and literally harvest the body heat of the cows and use it to warm the offices and apartments located in the European farm dwelling complex.

In effect, the system is a cow heat pump that draws away the body heat, filters it, removes the moisture and pipes it as hot air for heating three offices, two apartments, reception area and conference room.

The two apartments, which are immediately adjacent and connected to the animal facilities, will be occupied by milking staff, who will be only a matter of a few feet from cows and younger stock even in the middle of the night.

Other features of the barn:

–A double ventilation system that not only brings fresh air in from the outside, down over the walls to keep them dry, but also includes a back wall that is a large evaporative cooling unit to provide additional comfort for the cows.

–A three-inch pipeline, stainless steel welded double loop, to provide plenty of capacity to accomodate the heavy milkers already in the herd and destined to join it within the next few months.

Large and spacious box stalls feature split construction — concrete front area for feeding and milking and rear area with gravel base and special drainage under bedding to maximize cow comfort and health.

–In addition to the 40 tie stalls, a dozen box stalls, also served by the pipeline. Each box stall also has its own drainage system, with drain and laterals in an eight-inch gravel base. Chopped straw and shaving bedding provides comfort over the rear two-thirds of the stall with the gravel, while the front third is concrete with just shavings for eating and milking sanitation.

–Just over 600 feet of barn cleaner in four gutters, including box stalls, tie area and calf facilities, that drops into second gutter cleaner for pumping 190 feet underground to a Slurrystore.

–Using the heat taken off the milk in the 1250-gallon bulk cooler to not only heat the barn water, but also that for the apartments and offices.

–And still to come in the dairy barn is a stereo system with a balanced speaker system.

And what is to come yet during the next couple of months of continued construction?

–A fitting room will also serve as an embryo transfer facility. The vet will be able to pull his vehicle right into the area and an adjacent box stall will hold the recipient heifers.

–Calf facilities will have a capacity for 40.

–A loose-housing heifer wing will have space for about 160.

Next to the facilities still under construction already stand, in addition to the blue Slurrystore, a trio of 25 by 65-foot Harvestores – silage, alfalfa haylage and high moisture shelled corn – that figures into the total mixed ration.

And what is the future timetable?

--Completion of remaining facilities by the end of November.

--Acquisition of additional daughters of brood cow sires by the end of the year.

"We're concentrating on indexes from proven cow families," explains herd manager Jack Miller, who came over from Kill-Dee.

"And, they must be able to transmit. We want to see daughters and sisters."

Then, the super-ovulated breeding and embryo transfers– already started – and merchandising can move at an accelerating pace toward a goal of 200 marketable offspring a year, in addition to those retained for the base herd.

In addition to the 116 tillable acres on the home farm in the Kistler Valley of northwest Lehigh County, the Rothrock Golden Holstein operation includes 400 rented acres.

"We're growing the alfalfa on the shale soil of the home farm," explains Jim Shrawder, farm manager.

"The corn is on the rented limestone ground, about 10 miles away."

And the man, whose name will convey the prefix of the future Holstein progeny to spring from that operation, reflects even more on his personal commitment:

"I'm a part of this industry now, and I really like it and the people I've met and had dealings with," Rothrock stressed.

"So many advancements have been made recently in the genetics and breeding.

"Whatever it requires, I plan to help that continued improvement."

And, as seller and driver of autos like the sleek Datsun ZX, he obviously has plans for promotion to attain his goal.

"I have a lot of ideas about promotion and plan to personally implement them," he adds.

And his sales arena?

The eight-page full color advertisement that announced the open house gives an indication.

It appeared in Holstein WORLD.

More Ca. counties get Medfly-free status

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Department of Agriculture officials have released two more California counties — Santa Clara and San Mateo — from Mediterranean fruit fly regulations.

Only a small portion of San Joaquin County near Stockton remains under regulation, said Harvey L. Ford, deptuy administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

"We're hoping to be able to lift all the regulations later this month," Ford said. "The regulations, which govern movement of Medfly hosts, are designed to prevent spread of uninfested areas.

"When regulations are lifted," Ford said, "it means we're confident no more Medflies are in the area.

"It's especially gratifying to be able to lift restrictions from Santa Clara County since that was where the infestation apparently originated and the regulations to combat it were first imposed."

Notice of this action was published in the Sept. 3 Federal Register. Public comments may be sent to Thomas Lanier, Regulatory Services Staff, Plant Protection and Quarantine, APHIS, USDA, Rm. 643 Federal Bldg., 6505 Belcrest Rd., Hyattsville, Md. 20782.

termediate heifer and Hidden Spring's junior two year old.

The Welsh family carried home both the Junior honors, with the heifer championship going to Tom and Carol Welsh's senior heifer calf, over Mike Welsh's reserve junior yearling winner. Included in the Welsh's Ponderosa Farms other firsts were Best Junior Female, Junior Get, 3 year old, Dairy Herd, Produce of Dam, and Dam & Daughter.

One first each went to Brown Swiss exhibitors James Anderson, Jr., Junior Calf; Lisa Kilgore, Senior Yearling; Quiet Valley, Dry 3 & 4; Jim Haller, Junior 2 year old; and Jana Beth Fantom took blues in the Senior 2 year old and Aged Cow classes.

Last year's All-American two-year-old Milking Shorthorn, Three Springs A.S. Belle, captured the grand champion honors for the James Young family, adding another notch to her list of undefeated shows for 1982. Young's Junior Champion a junior yearling, also won All-American honors last year as a junior calf.

The Young's took the bulk of the blue ribbons at the Fair's open Shorthorn show, yielding top class spots to R.A.C.B. Farms in the Senior Calf, Senior Yearling and 4 Year Old classes.

Bulk of the honors in the Ayrshire competition went to perennial winner Sam Diehl of Bedford.

Diehl's aged cow, Cove Creek Kings Bonnie, topped his senior two year old to win the Senior and Grand Champion banner, and both Junior Champion rosettes went to a Cove Creek entrant.

Contender in the Ayrshire ring was Earl Keefer and Donald Shellerly of Millersburg, taking firsts in the Senior Calf, Junior 2 year old, and both 3 and 4 year old cow classes.

The Jim Young family dominated York Fair's Milking Shorthorn contest, winning Junior honors with the junior yearling held by Linda Young, and Jim's Senior and Grand three year old.

Two 4-H entries headed the York Fair's open Swiss show. Mike Welsh's "Princess" took her first open class banner after several youth championships, over Dave Krone's Reserve winner.

USDA issues '82-crop soybean loan and purchase rates

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Basic county loan and purchase rates for 1982-crop soybeans grading No. 2 were issued last Thurs. by Everett Rank, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Rank said the basic 1982-crop soybean rates are based on the preliminary national average loan and purchase rate of $5.02 per bushel.

Changes in the area-to-area relationships, prices received by farmers, trends in production and results of the loan and purchase program resulted in some adjustments, Rank said.

Loan rates in North Carolina and West Virginia were increased 2 cents per bushel; South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia were increased 1 cent per bushel; and four counties in Missouri bordering Arkansas were increased 1 to 2 cents per bushel, he said.

No changes were made in the schedule of premiums and discounts.

Rank said USDA will issue a final 1982 soybean loan and purchase rate no later than Oct. 1.

Copies of the rates were sent to state ASCS offices and also are available from the cotton, grain, and rice price support division, USDA-ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013, or by phone from Celestine Ware 202-382-9880.

Since the early 1700's the Narvon area has survived floods, hurricanes, fires, and wars.

If we don't do something now
it may disappear—forever.

Apart from the area's perseverance, it is a classic example of the best Lancaster County has to offer: a calendar-picture countryside; fertile land; well kept, productive farms; and most important, homes for hard working people.

UNFORTUNATELY this area is being considered as a site for the dumping of hazardous waste. Formal application for federal and state permits to open a hazardous waste treatment and landfill facility at the Narvon Mine has been made.

The Red Rose Alliance (an organized group of concerned citizens) feels this is not in the best interests of our community, and WE HOPE TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT.

YOU CAN HELP US to preserve our heritage and our future with your contribution of money and/or time and services. Please send in the coupon today.

FACT:

No landfill has ever been permitted in Pennsylvania where there has been strong and sustained opposition by the citizens of the area!

ewe lamb, and the Shropshire ram under 1 year, and second placings in the Hampshire breeder's young flock and ewe 1 year under 2 classes.

But when Denise entered the showmanship competition, her luck changed. With a beaming smile, she gratiously took the champion trophy from the judge's hand.

Denise's sister Chris, a 12-year veteran to the showing circles, earned the honors of champion ram, reserve champion ram, ewe 1 year under 2, champion ewe and reserve champion ewe in the Shropshire breed. Chris, 20, and Denise are the daughters of Robert and Nancy Ambler of Rl Cochranville.

In the Dorset breed, the Robert Holmes family of Oxford captured all the top honors, most under the showmanship of daughter Sarah Holmes, 15. This marks Sarah's seventh year of showing sheep.

Jim Stuaffer, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Stauffer of Manor Township, earned the champion ewe title in the Suffolk class. Jim, in his seventh year of 4-H, is a student at Penn State University studying agriculture.

Judge for the sheep show was James Diamond of Penn State.

Double-cropping possible in Pa.

LEBANON — Getting two grain crops a year is the norm in some counties in Pennsylvania, acknowledges Karl Hellerick, of Soil Conservation Service in Lebanon County.

"The two-grain crop year is possible in a two-year rotation of corn and winter grain, double cropped to no-till soybeans. This rotation has many advantages," says Hellerick.

It breaks up the disease, insect and weed cycle, he explains. Planting can be done by no-till or conservation till method which lets crop residue on the soil surface. "Planting no-till corn in soybean stubble has been successful as has no-till beans. Winter grain can also be planted conservation tillage," he notes.

Strip cropping is one conservation practice that can be installed with no-out-of-pocket cost and may be needed with this intense rotation, along with grassed waterways, grassed diversions, and cropland terraces in certain cases.

New state dairy princess promises to do her best

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

HARRISBURG — With attributes that would make any father proud and a promise to do "the best I can to make you all proud of me," 17-year-old Jolene Sue Snyder of Volant, Lawrence County, began her reign as 26th state dairy princess Tuesday night at the Penn Harris Motor Inn, here.

The pageant was held in conjunction with the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show at the Farm Show Complex.

Jolene's credentials would make any farmer sit back with a breath of relief knowing that his industry is going to be justly represented. And this is what happened at the pageant. She charmed not only the judges, but also the audience with her smile and people-personality. Gowned in purple, her appearance was the epitomy of a healthy, young girl who drinks milk daily.

Jolene, representing both Beaver and Lawrence counties in the pageant, is a senior at Wilmington Area High School where she is a varsity cheerleader and secretary of the student council. Jolene is active with her community as a 4-H'er and as president of the dairy club. Her future plans include attending nursing school.

Looking for an exclusive, in-depth interview with the new state dairy princess in next week's issue of Lancaster Farming.

During final competition, seven semi-finalists — from Beaver/Lawrence, Bedford, Blair, Huntingdon, Lancaster, Somerset and Washington counties — were asked to relay what they would make their first priority should they be elected the first woman president of the United States tomorrow. Jolene's answer was world peace. But she went on to clarify the statement in a manner that left the audience wondering if she meant peace or the dairy industry. She said, "We should have unity, together to conquer anything."

To the same question, Washington County's Rachel Sherman echoed Jolene's request, saying, "I would try to get the U.S. together as a nation so everyone can love one another and love the nation as well." This thought helped her win the first runnerup position.

Rachel is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Minor from R2 Washington. A freshman at Washington and Jefferson College, she is majoring in dairy science. Rachel sees her future including agricultural Extension work and life on a farm. It was a doubly special night for Rachel because her mother served as Pennsylvania state milk maid queen in 1959.

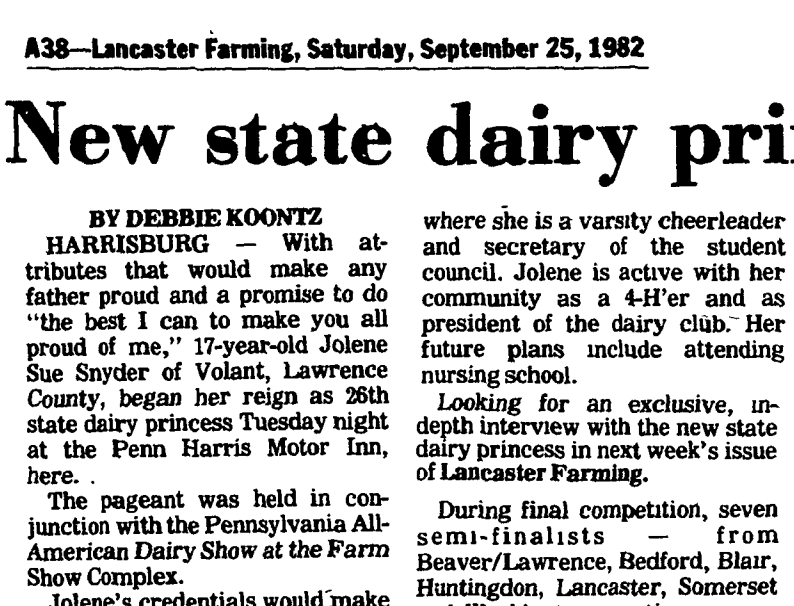
Second runnerup honors and the coveted title of Miss Congeniality went to Lancaster's LuAnn Brenneman of Mount Joy. LuAnn, 21, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Brenneman. This congeniality award is LuAnn's second within the last few months she has served as dairy princess, having received the same title at the county contest. LuAnn also earned one of the two top scrapbook awards.

The winner of the other scrapbook award was Perry County's Kimberly Kriebel of Millerstown. She is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kriebel and is presently a freshman at Messiah College.

Before competition began for the evening, Commonwealth National Bank received a special reward for their work with the dairy industry, and for a dairy day they held at Penn Square in Lancaster in June. On hand to receive awards were Bob Bucher, vice president and head of their agri-loan department, and Pam Klahr, Lancaster region marketing representative.

Judges for the pageant were Helen Remsburg of Jefferson Md., Karen Kurtz of Altura, Minn., Michael Nolan of Wakeman, Ohio, and Robert Rawlins of Arlington, Va.

The 1982-83 state dairy princess was crowned by outgoing princess Charlene Rohrer of Chester County.



As tradition goes, one just has to be hugged after receiving such a great honor, and Jolene was no exception as she tearfully threw her arms around outgoing princess Charlene Rohrer, following the big announcement.

With smiles that certainly will sell a lot of milk, these three new dairy representatives posed for the cameras following their pageant Tuesday night. Taking the seat of state princess was Jolene Sue Snyder of Beaver and Lawrence counties. First runnerup, left, was Rachel Sherman, 17, of Washington County. Second runnerup and winner of the Miss Congeniality award, right, was LuAnn Brenneman, 21, of Lancaster County.

This Well-Built Manure Tanker Spreads An Excellent Pattern On Your Fields

Because this well-built manure tanker from US Farm Systems of Pennsylvania shoots the discharge slurry up, and baffles the spread down, you get an even coverage pattern on your fields. Better than most makes and models, we think.

In addition, the advanced design allows you to do the job with very few moving parts on the spreader. Gravity settles the slurry into the fan. The fan blows the slurry over the top of the spreader in a 6" pipe and out the back. So simple you know the unit will be easy to maintain.

So, let this well-built manure tanker spreader an excellent pattern on your fields today. Write for special prices now in effect and model information to US Farm Systems of Pennsylvania, 4020 Blue Ball Road, Nottingham, PA 19362, or phone 301-398-2948.

Vegetable growers pass research referendum

HARRISBURG — A Pennsylvania Vegetable Research Program which may generate $56,000 a year for research was approved during a referendum held July 22 through Aug. 5, according to State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell.

The new program takes effect for this marketing season, with assessments due Oct. 31. The program runs for a period of five years, at which time a review referendum will be held. The assessment rate will be $1.50 per acre for all producers who grow ten or more acres of vegetables sold for human use.

"I am pleased that the majority of you indicated your support for this program. It can provide a significant boost to Pennsylvania's vegetable industry," Hallowell said in a letter to affected growers.

"It also is reassuring that our state's vegetable processors share your desire to improve our vegetable-growing practices. In the past few days, we've received offers from Furman Canning Company, Charles G. Summers, Jr. Company and W.E. Bittinger Company to match the contributions of their growers. In addition, Hanover Brands, Inc. has offered to contribute to the program. Additional firms may be added to this list. With this combined support, we may exceed $56,000 per year in contributions for vegetable research," Hallowell added.

Fifty-five producers voting (50.5 percent) favored the referendum, and represented 3,158.5 acres of production of those voting (58.7 percent). Producers voting against the referendum (54) represented 49.5 percent of the votes and 41.3 percent of the acreage (2,220). A simple majority was required for approval in both cases.

The Vegetable Research Program was approved under provisions of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act of 1968. This is the fourth marketing or research program in effect under the Act. Other programs include the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board, the Pennsylvania Red Cherry Marketing Board and the Pennsylvania Potato Research Advisory Board.

Jersey sale

was Vantage Pride Aster, consigned by Don and Angie Koontz of Fredonia, which was purchased for $1,525 by James Clark of Enon Valley. In discussing his purchase Jim said, "I know that is a lot to pay for a calf, but I have her maternal sister at home." This maternal sister is projected at 14,292 pounds milk as a 2 year old and was purchased at the Pot of Gold sale two years ago. "Aster" will go home to join Jim's herd of 15 Jerseys.

The six heifers offered in the Pot of Gold sale averaged $879 while the forty-one cows offered for sale averaged $1,335.

Another highlight of the annual sale was the purchase of a bull, Smokey Hill Saint Jeff, by a syndicate of Pennsylvania Jersey Breeders for $3,600. All proceeds of this sale go toward the 1985 Annual American Jersey Cattle Club meeting and sale to be held in Pennsylvania. Roy Watson of Columbia Cross Roads donated the outstanding son of Favorite Saint who is out of an excellent Quicksilver dam.

FARMTRONIX®

Here's proof DAIRY-TRONIC Computerized Feeding System has paid for itself for

SPRING LAWN FARM

Dave, Joe and Fred Garber
Rt. 6, Lancaster, PA

Comments from the Garber brothers on the value of the DAIRY-TRONIC System:

- Just in feed savings the computer will about pay for itself in 1 year.
- We installed 5 feeders for the milk cows and one for the dry cows. The dry cows are freshening in better condition.
- This will help cows come closer to milking their genetic potential. If you don't feed cows according to production, you don't get production. It's that simple!
- The feedsystem allows us to control feed intake. The computer gives us the opportunity to be better managers.
- We have already been able to save at least one cow from dying by spotting on the printout she didn't eat her full ration of feed.
- We look at the tape every afternoon before milking. The cows that have stars (alarm cows) we check them out when we milk; temperature & mastitis
- The unit is very easy to operate, we spend 5-10 minutes a day making feeding adjustments & checking individual cow's feed consumption.
- The installation provides a comfortable feeding environment. The cows have confidence when they go to the feeders.
- Local service is extremely important, our FARMTRONIX dealer has done an excellent job servicing our unit.

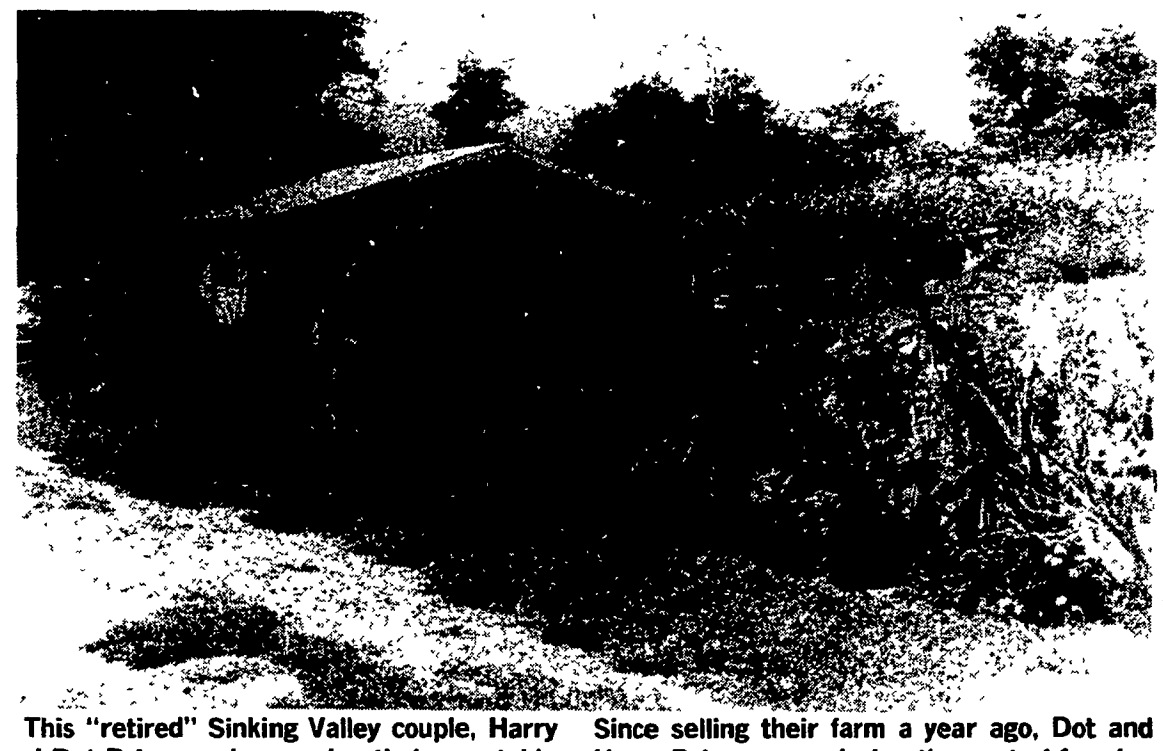
Couple has 4-H family of friends



This "retired" Sinking Valley couple, Harry and Dot Briggs, enjoys seeing their vegetable and flower gardens grow larger each year. Since selling their farm a year ago, Dot and Harry Briggs are enjoying the part of farming they never had time for over the past 40 years.

By PATTY GROSS
Staff Correspondent

Harry and Dot Briggs of Sinking Valley don't have a family as most know one. However after you get to know them, you realize they belong to a very large family of friends. Their rich life has taken years to mature, and, they aren't finished yet.

The Briggs' children are the many 4-H'ers they have helped since Dot became a local leader in 1937.

Dot and Harry have seen many members come and go through 4-H. "It's wonderful for us," said Dot. "It keeps you on your toes."

They admit working with young people is a hard job. The Briggses have learned alot about children, even though they have none of their own. "Kids have to be made to do things," offered Dot. "They want to do it, but they will just bum along until you make them work."

Dot has over 40 years in 4-H project work and Harry has volunteered for 30 or more in the 4-H Community Club. Two years ago they decided to try something new — work with adults instead of children.

As coordinators, Dot and Harry attempt to get new leaders and clubs organized in Blair County. "You don't realize how many people are involved in 4-H, but still a vast amount of people don't even know Extension exists or what it can do for them," commented Dot.

She has high praise for Extension. "It's doesn't hand out anything, rather it is an educational facility. The object is to get you to think for yourself. You are taught to do your own thinking, which is very important."

Extension has the backing of this Sinking Valley woman because it appears to go along with her thinking. "Kids and adults must be taught how to make decisions, to have self discipline, self respect and respect for others and their possessions," added Dot.

She's thrilled at the plans which are currently underway to improve Extension programs and the work that is being done to approach and alert people about the programs.

Although there are over 1,000 4-H'ers in Dot's home county, she says there are many people still not involved. "There are not enough adults willing to give of their time," she reasoned. However she sympathizes with the difficulties that are around today which were not prevalent 45 years ago. "I find kids a challenge and stimulating, but they try you! You can't change people's lives if they don't want changed. You can only work with those that have open, receptive minds."

Four-H to Dot is not just limited Blair County. She attends meetings in a six county area which includes Blair, Cambria, Somerset, Huntingdon and Fulton. They form, part of a state organization. From there, she moved on to take the job of chairman of the program planning committee for the state, which is working in the areas of ag, family living, 4-H and community resources.

A beautiful experience for Harry and Dot once evolved out of their 4-H work. As leaders of the 4-H Exchange Club, they have traveled to North Carolina, Wisconsin and Iowa. Plus they have learned the lifestyles of others, while visitors staying in their homes during exchange visits to Blair County.

"We're talking all about Extension, but church is our first love," smiled Dot, as she smoothly changed the subject. She is president of United Presbyterian Women at the First Presbyterian Church in Tyrone, while Harry is an elder.

Up until a year ago the Briggs were farmers. They sold their 134-acre farm and built a new home on a couple of acres they kept.

The story has been told before: "It got to be too much for us," stated a sad reminiscent Harry. "We couldn't get good help."

Farming had been a way of life for both of them since before 1936 when they took over the farm that was Dot's home.

In 1974 they sold the poultry portion of the farm and a year later the dairy cattle went on the sale block. Harry concentrated on crop production for the next six years.

Seventy-year-old Harry says he wouldn't have traded one year of his long, hard-working life on the farm. "We love to farm," he smiled. He also enjoyed filling his days with work away from his farm, as he drove a milk truck for 21 years.

The common question posed is, what will fill all the spare time that they have on their hands? "I can't find time to fit all the things," Dot readily replied. "We're not retired. We're retreaded," she joked.

"I'm no joiner. If I'm going to belong to something there is a reason. I want to work." Work is what they do, but Dot and Harry take on the jobs because they enjoy the tasks.

The gardeners each year grow all their own plants. As fall approaches and much of their garden has seen better days, the couple is busy pampering a late plot of homegrown plants.

Flowers and bushes surround the year-old Briggs' house and garden. Harry and Dot do their own landscaping, which enables them to save money and develop hidden talents. They also are seeking more knowledge as they consult with local nurseries, Penn State Extension and garden magazines.

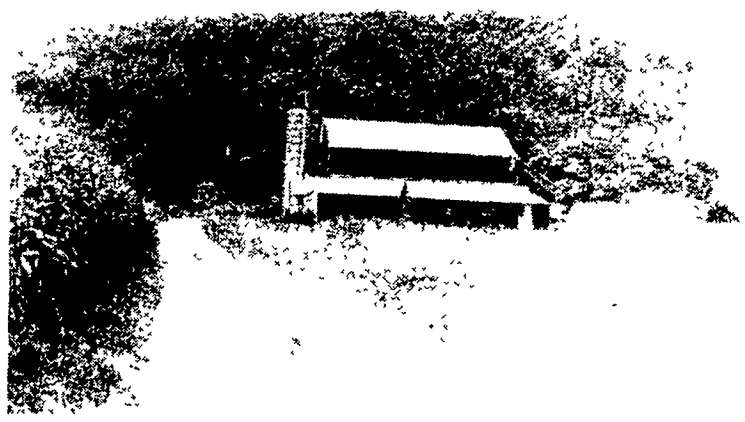
A small orchard of a dozen apples, peaches and pear trees is the latest project for the couple. They hope to expand next year with grapes, cherries and apricots. To make use of limited space they plan to branch their fruit trees out on wire.

This is only the beginning for the Briggses. In the spring of '37 they took on 4-H, because they enjoyed working with young people. "I also wanted to belong to 4-H as a child, but it was too far away," confessed Dot. Forty-six years later, they, along with 4-H are still branching out.

Their farming projects have reduced in size, but the quality is getting better, as are Harry and Dot. The former farmers still have some hens and roosters. Once a year they turn over the eggs to a Blair County poultry farm.

"We love anything that pertains to something living and growing," explained Dot. She plans to live and work a long time, because "I don't want to get old." She says that she is 39 and holding!

If leading an active and fulfilled life have anyting to do with age, Harry and Dot are definitely getting younger and they are intent on spreading it around.



This Sinking Valley, Blair County farm, belonged to Harry and Dot Briggs up until a year ago. The couple gave over 40 years to the farm before selling. However they haven't retired. Their projects are growing bigger and better all the time.

Homestead Notes

Flowers add beauty to the vegetable garden of Harry and Dot. The former farmers don't plan to get old, but do want to spend most of their time in 4-H work, church, and with their flowers, fruit trees, and garden.

After selling their farm, Dot and Harry Briggs built a new home near the farm. They were sure to include a cold storage cellar for Dot to store her vegetables, fruits and dried flowers.

TURN ZUCCHINI INTO AN ENTREE

The end of the garden at harvest time is often just the beginning of delicious dishes — such as Garden's End Puffy Omelet. When your zucchini crop is overly abundant or zucchini is specially priced at the supermarket, this elegant entree is both a tasteful and economical choice.

A puffy omelet is easy to make, too. Separate the eggs and beat the yolks and whites. (The whites are done when they no longer slip in a tilted bowl.) Fold the beaten yolks and whites together — along with shredded zucchini in this recipe — spread in a pan and cook. It takes only about 5 minutes on top of the range and 10 minutes in the oven to completely cook the puffy mixture. Then, top with cheese and enjoy!

Garden's End Puffy Omelet makes a lovely candle-lit dinner-for-two entree. You can double the recipe to serve four. Cook in two pans staggered in the oven for best heat circulation.

Garden's End Puffy Omelet
4 eggs, separated
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon cream of tarter
¼ teaspoon salt
1 small zucchini, shredded (about 6 oz.)
¼ teaspoon basil leaves, crushed
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese or grated Parmesan cheese, divided

In large mixing bowl, beat egg whites with water and cream of tartar at high speed until stiff but not dry, just until whites no longer slip when bowl is tilted. In small mixing bowl, beat egg yolks with salt at high speed until thick and lemon-colored. Stir in zucchini and basil. Gently, but thoroughly, fold yolk mixture into whites.

In 10-inch omelet pan or skillet with oven-proof handle over medium high heat, heat butter until just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in egg mixture and gently smooth surface. Reduce heat to medium. Cook until puffed and lightly browned on bottom, about 5 minutes. (Lift omelet at edge to judge color.) Bake in preheated 350 degree oven until knife inserted halfway between center and outer edge comes out clean, about 10 to 12 minutes. Loosen omelet edges with spatula.

To serve folded, with a sharp knife, cut upper surface down center of omelet but do not cut through to bottom of omelet. Sprinkle with ¼ cup of the cheese. Tip skillet. With pancake turner, fold omelet in half and invert onto warmed plate or platter with a quick flip of the wrist. Sprinkle with remaining cheese.

To serve open-faced, invert pan over warmed plate or platter, or slide omelet from pan onto plate. Sprinkle with all of the cheese. Cut in half or into wedges. Serve immediately.

Penn State offers book on amateur winemaking

UNIVERSITY PARK — Fall is often a time for amateur winemakers to test their skills. So if you're a wine hobbyist, you may want to obtain the revised and expanded version of the book entitled "Winemaking as a Hobby," published by the college of Agriculture at Penn state.

The publication gives detailed information on the various procedures the hobbyist should follow in obtaining an excellent quality wine. Included are numerous illustrations and photographs. The book measures 8½ by 11 inches and contains 88 pages.

"High quality wines can be made by the amateur," says the author, Donald L. Ace, Penn State Extension specialist. "In fact, many home-produced wines often are superior to commercial products," he adds.

This Penn State book on winemaking describes wine types, equipment and chemicals, the winemaking process, bottling, storing and aging, chemical testing, rules for serving, and grape species and varieties. The current edition was published in 1977.

"Winemaking as a Hobby" is available for $2.75, tax and shipping included, from Winemaking, Department 6000, University Park, PA 16802. Checks or money orders should be made payable to Pennsylvania State University.

When ordering by mail, allow at least two weeks for delivery. At the campus, copies are available in room 204 of the Agricultural Administration Building.

The book includes a special devoted to the amateur who is interested in the process of winemaking by recipe.

Welcome fall with soup

Fall began Thursday.

This means a subtle introduction to winter; crisp, cool air; an artist's palette of colors brushed onto nature; football games, and busy little creatures scurrying nuts into their nests for dreaded ol' man winter.

It also means a change in our eating habits. Coldcuts and fresh vegetables from the garden will be replaced with hot sandwiches, hot chocolate, warm tea, and everyone's favorite — soup.

Homemade soup, homemade bread and hot chocolate conjure up pictures of the family sitting around the fireplace, the cozy kitchen or the television set. Bring back these memories for your children with a delicous new soup.

Creamy Spinach soup has such a light flavor that youngsters won't even know they're eating a green vegetable that's so good for them. Chicken corn soup will bring back the most memories for the grownups in your house. For yourself, try a new pea soup — all included below.

CREAMY SPINACH SOUP

1 1/2 t. instant chicken bouillon
1 c. boiling water
2 pkg. frozen chopped spinach
2 c. Cream Soup Base (below)
1 c. milk
1/4 t. nutmeg
grated Parmesan cheese and carrot curls OR dairy soup cream

Dissolve bouillon in water in a 2-quart saucepan. Add spinach, cover and cook over medium heat 10 minutes. Place spinach and liquid in blender container; cover and puree until smooth. Add spinach puree, milk and nutmeg to Cream Soup Base; heat to simmering. Serve garnished with parmesan cheese and carrot curls or spoonful of sour cream.

Cream Soup Base

2 T. butter
2 T. flour
1/2 t. salt
1/8 t. paprika
1/8 t. white pepper
2 c. milk

Melt butter over low heat in 2-quart saucepan. Stir in flour, salt, paprika and pepper. Cook until smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Gradually stir in milk. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly; boil and stir 1 minute.

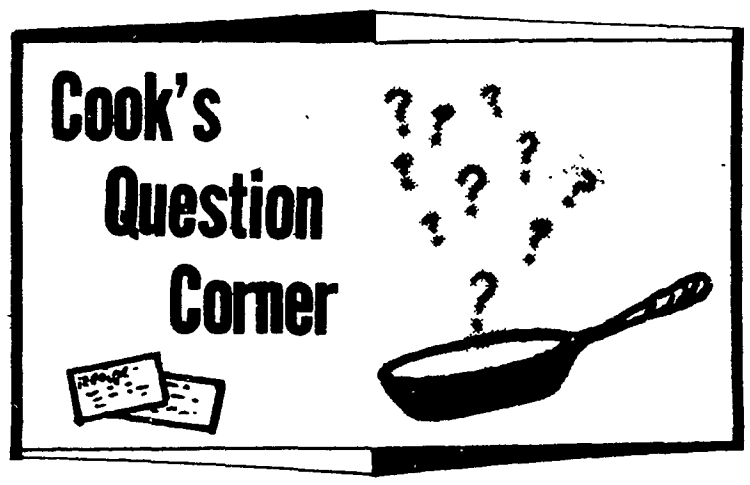
SPLIT PEA WITH FRANKS

1 1/2 c. dry split peas
1/2 c. onion, chopped
1 t. salt
1/8 t. pepper
5 c. water
1/2 lb. frankfurters, finely chopped
1 T. butter

Simmer peas, onion, salt and pepper in water 20 to 30 minutes until peas are tender. Lightly brown the frankfurters in fat in a frypan; add to soup.

Simmer 5 minutes longer to blend flavors.

Creamy Spinach soup is seasoned with nutmeg and a sprinkle of Parmesan cheese before topping with a carrot curl. With three cups of milk in the soup and Parmesan cheese in the topping, there's a good supply of first-class protein in this soup.



QUESTION - I am looking for a recipe for a suce you put with ham after you fry it. I lost mine. It was a sauce that contained honey. Can anyone help me?

AGRI-LEARN joins fall school curriculum

FAWN GROVE — Southeastern School Board Director of York County took the lead in adopting AGRI-LEARN into the social studies curriculum for fourth graders last week.

Written by William Fleet, former vo-ag teacher and now agronomist for Pioneer International, AGRI-LEARN was developed by a York County group for inclusion in Pennsylvania schools as part of the larger nationwide effort entitled "Agriculture in the Classroom."

AGRI-LEARN editor Gail McPherson praised the Board's initiative. As president of Penn's Agri-Women and secretary of Agri-Learn Unlimited, she has been working intimately with the project for the past two years.

"We began our work planning for this curriculum study about agriculture for the regular classroom before Secretary of Agriculture John Block called the first meeting on it in June of 1981. But we were floundering without direction as to how to go about getting our ideas implemented until that time. At the first Agriculture in the Classroom meeting in Washington DC, Emilie Welsh and I met many people from around the country doing the same sort of thing. In fact, our neighbors in Maryland already had such a program piloted and in print. When we brought home that packet of Agriculture in Maryland, which had been developed to fulfill a mandate by the Maryland legislature to teach about agriculture, all the pieces started to fall into place for our York County project.

"Of course, we decided from the start to develop a program that would be suitable for all of Pennsylvania schools. The first draft was piloted last spring in eight school districts in the county with eight teachers, and then evaluated and reworked for the edition available now. We also determined that the importance of the task warranted our immediate attention, so we have gone to private sources for funding rather than wait for state or federal grants to materialize. As a result, we are still seeking contributions from interested persons in agriculture organizations and agribusinesses."

AGRI-LEARN came off the presses in time for the Northeastern Regional Meeting of Agriculture in the Classroom on August 31. Pennsylvania hosted the 10-state meeting at which delegates learned of the involvement of USDA in developing a state plan of action and resource guide of materials that teachers can order for use in the classroom.

According to McPherson, Secretary of Education Robert Scanlon and the Pennsylvania Department of Education have endorsed the concept and program of Agriculture in the Classroom. Scanlon committed the department to tele-conferences on the subject this year to get the word out to all Pennsylvania school districts.

"For now, it is believed that Southeastern is the first district to adopt the AGRI-LEARN STUDY as part of its curriculum. The next step is in spreading the word to all the 17 school districts in this county and to the rest of state," said McPherson. "All the delegates at the Harrisburg meeting received copies of AGRI-LEARN. Out of staters purchased it for use in developing their own similar studies. Evaluations from the pilots were positive from both teacher and student perspectives. We are encouraged that wider distribution will result in acceptance in all schools within a short period of time.

The contents of the AGRI-LEARN curriculum focus on enterprise aspects of modern agriculture in Pennsylvania with the following chapters: Life on a Farm, What the Farmer and Agriculture Do for You, What is a Farmer?, The Many Types of Farms and the Types of Products that Come from Them, Farming—in Days of Old and Now, The Wheel of Fortune and the Farmer, The Path from the Farm to You, Would You Like to Work in Agriculture?, and Planning a Field Trip.

Bill Wise wins Fair scholarship

By Laurie Dobrosky

YORK — The York Fair annually awards one $250 scholarship to be used for college or a trip to a national livestock show by a youth exhibitor.

This year, the York Fair award was presented to 18-year-old Bill Wise of Spring Grove. Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wise.

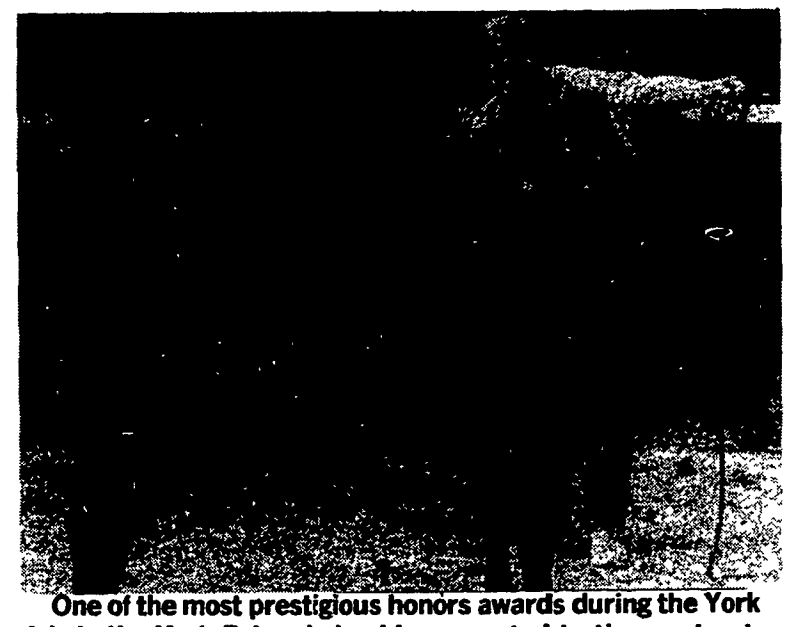
The award is presented annually to an outstanding 4-H member between ages 14 and 19 who has exhibited at the fair. The selection committee consists of one representative of beef, sheep, swine and dairy, 4-H York Fair board of directors, and the Extension Executive Committee.

Bill was selected for the award because of his participation in beef breeding and feeding projects, teen leadership, public speaking, livestock and meats. He exhibited two bred and owned heifers and a cow/calf pair at the 1982 fair.

Bill is presently vice-president of the York County Beef Club and the Jefferson Community Club. He is also past president of the Beef Club and York County 4-H King.

Managing his family's herd of purebred Angus cattle are Bill's plans after he graduates from Penn State with an animal production degree.

Other contestants for the award included: Christine Shive, Seven Valleys, honorable mention; Bob Livingston, Dover; Dawn Raubenstine, Hanover; Lisa Hoover, Mt. Wolf; Martha Marsteller, Stewartstown; David King, Airville and Dana Doll, Brodbecks; and Chrissy Hoskin, Loganville.



One of the most prestigious honors awards during the York fair is the York Fair scholarship presented to the most outstanding youth exhibitor. This year's winner was 18-year-old Bill Wise of Spring Grove, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dennis. Bill is shown here with his Angus heifer calf.

AeroDry™

With AeroDry you can put computer technology to work right now in a very practical and inexpensive way - corn drying

1. AeroDry will save you over 90% on fuel costs.
2. AeroDry gives you up to 20¢ a bushel more due to very high test weights.
3. AeroDry is a natural air drying system that you don't have to babysit.
4. For all its features, AeroDry's pricing is competitive with other systems that cost so much more to operate.

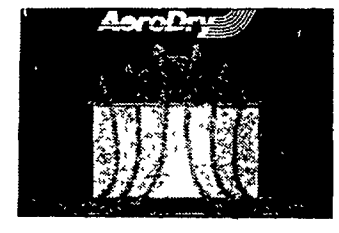
Donald R. Howell
Bloomsburg, Pa.

"I have never made a purchase that has given me such satisfaction as this system has."

The first year with this natural air system I faced an unusual situation. Unexpectedly we sold 140 head of milk cows which left me with the wrong kind of corn for shelling and drying. With the cows we would put up 70 acres of silage and 7000 bushels of high moisture corn in a blue silo. We finished combining in late December with the corn at 28% moisture. So we filled our natural air system and took the balance to Agway for commercial drying at 35¢ per bushel. The power for our natural air system cost 9¢ a bushel.

The following figures are actual:

$5180.00	20% INVESTMENT CREDIT
4000.00	FIRST YEAR DEPRECIATION
1960.00	700 BU. GAIN IN TEST WEIGHT @ 2.80/BU.
1300.00	STORAGE @ .10/BU.
3380.00	DIFFERENCE OF 26¢/BU. OVER COMMERCIAL DRYING
$15,820.00	GAINED BY OWNING A NATURAL AIR SYSTEM



I have all of the above figures documented. As you can see, I have paid this system off in two years and have had all my money returned. I have never made a purchase with such satisfaction as our natural air system.

Kid's Korner

Farewell Mr. Blacksmith

Kids, here is the second part to our story about a real ol' time blacksmith. If you missed the first half, you may want to check last week's issue before reading this section.

The story, again, was written by Ralph Ratcliff and was submitted by his son Bruce Ratcliff of California. Ratcliff tells of his adventures as a blacksmith in the early 1900s in Indiana.

Smiths had many similarities. Among these are:

1. He was a workaholic, reliable, considerate and generally honest.
2. He did not imbibe or smoke but did chew tobacco.
3. He had a wife and family.
4. He was very quiet.
5. He did not choose to live in a large city.
6. He worked for somebody else before he worked for himself.
7. He started his own shop when he was over 30 and under 40 years old.
8. He enjoyed being his own boss.
9. He owned and operated a small farm.
10. He had a garden, chickens, milk cow, and raised enough hogs for meat for his family.
11. He was generally free of debt.
12. He was fiercely independent.

It is a general concept that black in blacksmith is an inference to the cleanliness of the profession. Some people thought being a smith was demeaning. No smith shared this opinion. It was disturbing to me that smiths seemed arrogant and conceited. This was a misconception. It was necessary for them to have confidence, dedication and pride. Every good smith thought he was the best that ever lived. It took me six or seven years to realize I shared this opinion.

To advance his learning in the art he would travel two or three villages away to observe the methods and facilities of another smith. Sometimes they were old friends, but if they had not met previously, he would introduce himself and explain that since he was in the neighborhood he wanted to stop by. The host was flattered and pleased he came and knew why. He gladly answered questions and made suggestions. He had been in a few neighborhoods himself. Other than this, few smiths had any special training unless it was during previous employment.

In their curriculum, a number of schools offered laboratory and/or short courses pertaining to blacksmithing. These courses were mostly for students, farmers, or would be blacksmiths. The instructors and demonstrators were usually former smiths. The good, better or best in any field is directly related to dedication, discipline and practice. The smith had these.

There may be no faster way of learning than one smith observing another or his work. One smith, Amos Crowder, made an ear on the upper toe of a horse shoe. This firmed the shoe on the foot so the horse would be unlikely to throw (lose) the shoe. Another smith, George Spivey, made two shrinks opposite each other on a tire instead of one. This made a better job and saved time in spreading the shrink (smoothing the reduced area). All of them made special tools. When you saw one better than you had you would copy it. Many times you would see something that was simple, good and effective and wonder why you had not thought of it yourself.

Cowboys in the old west relied on the blacksmith to shoe their horses just like the farmers and the settlers in the eastern United States. Here some cowboys round up wild horses which later become trained, shod and used for work on the range.

Few smiths could work together at a single forge while pointing a plowshare. When two could, they would easily point three or four times as many as one smith could alone. One smith at this job has to extend himself which necessitates a limited pace. Normally the farmer wanted his plowshares pointed promptly because he needed to use them right away. The ground could not be plowed too wet or too dry.

No smith ever set a full size wagon wheel tire by himself. To do this job four hands and one head is required. The two who do this job must complement each other. Both must perform like two skilled dancers otherwise one or both will be severely burned. For this reason at least half the blacksmiths would not set wagon wheel tires. Regardless of care and skill some burns are unavoidable.

The most sickening smell to a human nose is the burning of human flesh, especially your own. The first bad burn for me was when a hot spark flew into my left shoe — no socks. Charlie pointed down to his shoes. His pant legs overlapped the top of his shoes. After that day mine did also. Too much sympathy can retard recovery.

It is a joy to be a friend of horses. It may have been a love and respect between us that caused me to do corrective shoeing whenever it would benefit the horse. If a horse "paddled" or "interfered" it was easy to correct. If he "overstepped" you could help this situation but not correct it.

Horses paddled when they threw their front feet out while trotting. Horses interfered when their rear feet collided while walking. Horses overstepped when their front and back feet did not coordinate properly. This was normally caused by teaming a horse with another that was faster gaited. It is more important that a team be mated in gait than sex, size, conformation or color.

No smith charged for taking a "gravel" from a horse's foot. A

For the avid gardener

Get it by mail

Gardeners everywhere have long realized the value of purchasing their plants and accessories by mail: the saving of precious hours or gallons of gas; a larger choice of plants, especially new or unusual varieties; the ease and convenience of shopping from the comfort of your home; economic prices; excellent quality; and the lack of disappointment that occurs when a local nursery may not have the desired plants or seeds.

In the past, gardeners may not have known where to buy the plants they needed, but the Mailorder Association of Nurserymen has eliminated that problem with the publication of the 1983 edition of "Gardening By Mail: Where to Buy It."

The newly revised and expanded edition of "Gardening By Mail: Where To Buy It" lists over 400 different trees, shrubs, perennials, bulbs, seeds, house plants and accessories available by mail, cross-referenced to the 76 firms that carry each particular item. In total, there are 4000 different listing, a 35% increase over the listings contained in the original edition. The name and address of a mailorder firm that catalogs the items you wish to add to your garden is now as easy to find as A, B, C.

To obtain your free copy of the 1983 edition of "Gardening By Mail: Where To Buy It," send a business size envelope that is self addressed and stamped with two 20 cents stamps to the Mailorder Association of Nurserymen, Dept. C, 210 Cartwright Blvd., Massapequa Park, NY 11762.

Now, in the convenience and comfort of your home, you'll be able to locate and purchase a large variety of quality plants and seeds for your house and garden.

veterinarian normally charged dearly for this. A gravel is a small rock, stone or foreign object about 1/8" to 3/16" in diameter that becomes imbedded in the bottom of a horse's front foot. It festers upward and if not removed will come out where the hoof joins the flesh. This process takes about four months and during this time the horse cannot put much pressure on the injured foot.

When the gravel is removed, before it progresses too far for removal, nobody ever received a more sincere thank you than that from the horse. In about ten steps he is completely cured. Those who have never visited and talked with horses will never know what a pleasant experience they have missed.

Chester 4-H holds dairy goat round-up

WEST CHESTER — The 1982 Chester County 4-H Dairy Goat Round-up, held at the Kimberton Fairgrounds, was judged by Rick Stoneback. The Grand Champion title went to Panda, shown by Sue Miller. Sue Furlong, is a five-year member and belongs to the Che-Del-Be 4-H Goat Club and lives in Furlong, Pa.

The Reserve Grand Champion animal was shown by Maria Seber of Linfield.

Panda, a Toggenburg, won in the 3 yr. milker class. Sue also accepted first prize in the challenge class, beating last year's grand champion and an open show grand champion. The Toggenburg is a Swiss breed of dairy goat known for its medium size, yet sturdy, vigorous and alert appearance.

The Junior Champion Doe, Rosebud, was shown by Jeremiah Weinstock, a true feat for this first-year member. Reserve Junior Champion Doe was Pesada, shown by Lisa Griffith.

Lisa also took both the Champion Fitter and Champion Showman awards home.

Reserve Champion Fitter was Jennifer Kerrick of West Chester and the Reserve Champion Showman was Josh Weinstock of Phoenixville.

The dairy goat 4-H project in Chester County has a total of 34 members. They are expected to keep accurate and current record books, just as they would for other livestock projects. But they are expected to know their animal when showing to the judge. Unlike other fitting and showing contests, the dairy goat handler must be able to exhibit an understanding of the goat by knowing the parts of the animal and where their animal may need special attention in order to show it to it's best advantage. Even the first year exhibitor must answer the judges questions.

The Junior Champion Doe, Rosebud, was shown by Jeremiah Weinstock. This is Jeremiah's first year in 4-H.

Sue Miller of Furlong, earned the Grand Champion title in the Round-up. Sue, a five year member of the Che-Del-Be 4-H Club, stands here with her winner, Panda.

4 win book awards

ALLENTOWN—Brenda Werner, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Werner, R2 Elverson, and William Kirk, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kirk, R1 Honey Brook, captured first-place project book awards and champion trophies in competition at the Allentown Fair.

Brenda's single enterprise project book is on her brood mare, yearling and weanling born this past spring. Bill's record is on his work experience project in his family's meat cutting operation. Bill's records tell what jobs he does every day, while Brenda maintains a record of receipts and expenses, as well as all conditions affecting her horses (such as the birth of the foal).

Other students exhibiting project books were Bert Zerr, who earned a 4th place with her laying her record book, and Mark Zerr, who placed 3rd with his records on strawberries and a vegetable garden.

All four students are studying vocational agriculture at Twin Valley High School and are members of the Twin Valley FFA.

Simmental Assn. names trait leaders

BOZEMAN, Mt. — The American Simmental Association has announced 86 purebred Simmental bulls have been designated as 1983 Genetic Trait Leaders, an increase of eleven from last year's total of 75. Eighteen sires qualified as a trait leader in more than one category.

"Recognition of the 86 Simmental trait leaders was a result of the evaluation of 518,069 progeny performance records representing 54,043 management units," said American Simmental Association Executive Vice President Earl B. Peterson. In all, a total of 1,610 bulls were considered.

All Simmental bulls that meet qualifying progeny standards are automatically included in the ASA Sire Summary, and are eligible for consideration as genetic trait leaders. Bulls may be named in more than one trait, provided their progeny rank in the top two percent for each trait. Traits, for which leaders are listed include: calving ease; weaning weight; yearling weight; carcass value; daughters' first calf calving ease; and daughters' first calf weaning weight.

Signal, whose picture will appear on the back cover of the 1983 Summary, is the only bull to qualify as a trait leader in four categories. Bold, C&B Western, Extra, and Siegfried earned the honor in three traits. Thirteen bulls were issued Genetic Trait Leader awards in two traits, and twenty sires made their first appearance on the Genetic Honor Roll.

Data on all 1,610 bulls is contained in the 1983 National Simmental Sire Summary, which will be released later this fall. The Sire Summary is mailed free of charge to all members. Non-members may obtain copies by mailing a check in the amount of $5 for each copy requested to the American Simmental Association, One Simmental Way, Bozeman, MT 59715.

Eagles Mere Inn purchases Sullivan Co. champion steer

FORKSVILLE — The first Sullivan County 4-H Baby Beef Sale was held here earlier this month.

Scott Yates, Forksville, exhibitor of the Grand Champion 4-H Steer led Rocky 10 Charolais, into the packed grandstand. Auctioneer Warren Fiester began his bidding chant, "Who'll give me seventy cents?" as two bidders competed for the prize 1035-pound champion.

When the final call for bids came, Robert Oliver, owner of the Eagles Mere Inn, purchased the 1982 champion for $1.20 per pound. Oliver, a former 4-H and FFA member, indicated this brought back memories of when he exhibited a baby beef champion.

The 1,005-pound Reserve Champion steer, also a Charolais, was shown by Mike Higley of Forksville, Royal as he was fondly called by Mike was purchased by George Page, Turbotville, for Page's Meats at $.77 per pound.

Melissa Wilkins, Dushore, whose steer, Lamplighter, weighed 1,052 pounds, also sold her animal to Page's Meats, Turbotville for $.70 per pound.

Other exhibitors who sold steers at the sale were: Tom Smith, Alan Bedford and Nolan Chase.

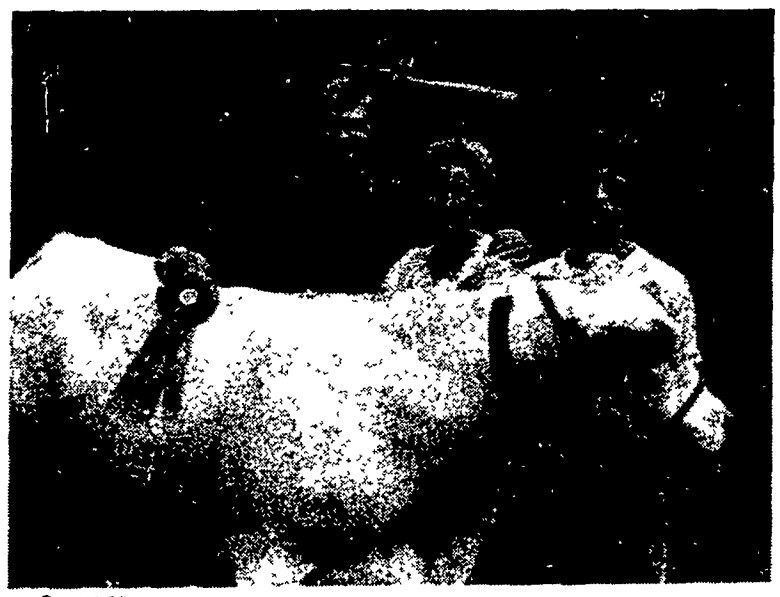
The Sullivan County 4-H Baby Beef Club is led by Mr. & Mrs. Ronald Wilkins, Dushore, with support from Mr. & Mrs. Arlan Higley, Forksville.

George Page of Page's Meats, Turbotville, purchased Mike Higley's reserve champion steer for 77 cents a pound.



Scott Yates of Forksville sold his grand champion Charolais steer to Bob and Kathleen Oliver, Eagles Mere Inn, for $1.20 a pound during Sullivan County's first 4-H Baby Beef Sale.

Know the warning signs of sudden cardiac death

LANCASTER — It is important that you and your family recognize the signs of sudden cardiac death and know what to do when they appear.

Sudden cardiac death, responsible for over 400,000 fatalities every year in the United States, is often avoidable. Health authorities say that with proper diagnosis, recognition, and treatment of the symptoms, deaths could be reduced.

The sudden cardiac death caused by arrhythmia—an electrical accident in the heart—often comes with no warning.But the sudden cardiac death that results from heart attack is clearly signaled in most cases.

Although chest pain is a common warning, it is sometimes confused with indigestion and often denied. The victim may complain of an excruciating squeezing sensation in the center of the chest, which is likely to radiate to the arms, neck, jaw, or back.

Pain of this nature, lasting two minutes or more, may indicate that a heart attack is in progress. In addition to those sensations, there are other visible signs, including heavy sweating, pallor, weakness, nausea, possible vomiting and palpitations.

Unfortunately, the typical victim waits an average of three hours before heeding the warning and more than half die before reaching the hospital.

In sudden cardiac death resulting from arrhythmias, there is often no warning signal. The appropriate action here is to detect and prevent a potentially serious arrhythmia from occurring.

An arrhythmia is often signaled when a person complains of a racing or pounding heart or of apparent "missed" beats, particularly when there is no exercise or emotional provocation. According to doctors, other signs of arrhythmia can be fatigue, faintness, or blackouts.

To assess your vulnerability to sudden cardiac death from arrhythmia, see your physician for a complete medical check-up.

If doctors suspect an arrhythmia, they can determine its type and seriousness with an electrocardiogram or a portable Holter monitor (worn by the patient for 24 hours) which records the heart's electrical activity.

There are also several types of therapy that have been successfully used to help reduce the incidence of sudden cardiac death, including antiarrhythmic drugs.

? That's A ? Good Question

I am interested in receiving the 1982 "American Farm Family" plate. I purchased them other years, but was unable to do so this year. Could you please tell me where I can order them?

Dave Adams
Bethlehem

Mr. Adams:

After inquiring with both the news and the advertising department here at Lancaster Farming, we're sorry to report that the paper and its staff is unfamiliar with the plate series. We suggest reading the back of the plates you already have and see if it bears and address. Can any other readers help Mr. Adams in his search for the plate series? Mail your information to That's a good question, Lancaster Farming, Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543.

I have an unusual request for information. I am a Conrail Locomotive engineer and I have a 1930 Hamilton 21-jewel railroad pocket watch that is in need of some critical replacement parts that are not available anymore according to the Hamilton Watch Company in Lancaster. They said they no longer have the parts or the people to restore the watch.

I thought maybe, that some of the parts it needs might be in the hands of some old-time watch maker or jeweler in Lancaster. Do you know of any old-time watch makers that might be able to help me out? My son is now a locomotive electrician and I want to give it to him in good working order.

Steve Stecks N.J.
Hackettstown

Mr. Stecks:

We also called Hamilton Watch Company, and they recommended trying your local jewelers. So we did. After talking to Bowman Jewelers, located in Lancater for over 100 years now, we learned that if they need any pieces for the watch, they would call Hamilton Watch which brings you right back to the beginning. Another call to Hamilton Watch produced the following information: if your pocket watch has a number, such as 992B, it can still be fixed. Any pocket watch ending in B belongs to a series they still can repair. Otherwise your only hope is to scout out local jewelers and see if they have the parts. Good luck.

How does one barbecue a young hog to have it tender? I was invited to a barbecue in which the pig was one year old. It was strung on a rotisserie for 11 hours and was never basted. Wood logs were placed inside cement blocks and the logs were burning on the side not underneath. Also, what is the phone number of the hog council headquarters?

Roland Kamoda
Monongahela

Mr. Kamoda:

Yes, you are right. The secret to making a tender pork roast is to baste the meat while it is cooking. The object of spitting a roast is to have the meat secured to the rotisserie so that, as nearly as possible, it is in balance and it is compact and well fastened. Use a meat thermometer when roasting and you won't have to guess when your roast is done. Insert a thermometer at an angle into the heaviest end to the center of the roast so it won't strike coals or the heating element as it turns. The tip must not touch bone, fat, or the metal spit. The thermometer probably won't register a change for the first hour, or until the heat penetrates center of the roast. A fairly slow fire should be used. If the roast has a good covering of fat, it will acquire a beautiful glaze as it is basted. A drip pan of aluminum foil can be set in place before or after you build the fire. According to the National Pork Producers Council, a drip pan placed beneath the roast will prevent flare-ups. The foil should extend about three inches beyond either end of the meat. The pan should be about 1½ inches deep. Coals should be arranged around the pan.

For cooking times, check your cookbooks. They will list a time in accordance to the weight of the pork being cooked. Most will tell you to cook the pig anywhere from 165 degrees to 185 degrees, for a period of time.

You can contact the national pork headquarters by writing National Pork Producers Council, 1776 N.W. 144th St., P.O. Box 10383, Des Moines, Iowa 50306. Locally, write to PA Pork Producers Council, R2 Box 219, Kutztown, PA 19530.

Several issues ago you ran an article about wild Mustangs being available to interested persons. I cannot locate the issue with the information. Could you please provide me with the information of

Montgomery Co. 4-H'ers win at Horse Production Breed

NORRISTOWN — Cindy Sharpe of Schwenksville and Karen Fitzgerald of Harleysville were named triple winners at the recent Eastern Pennsylvania 4-H Horse Production Breed Show held at the Montgomery County 4-H Center in Lansdale.

Competing with 4-H members from a ten-county area, Cindy and Karen each had three horses selected to compete at the State 4-H Horse Show October 1-3 to be held in the Farm Show Building in Harrisburg.

Cindy will show her Arabian broodmare "Southern Belle," her half-Arab, two-year-old filly "Immortal Syn," and an Arabian Filly of this year, while Karen will exhibit her hunter-type broodmare "Almost Heaven" and "Heaven's Genesis" in the English Futurity class. Karen's Thoroughbred filly "Stairway To Heaven" was also awarded a blue merit award.

Nearly 80 animals were entered in the show. The production project was open to 4-H'ers who raise and care for a broodmare, weanling, yearling or two-year-old horse. Ownership is not mandatory as projects can be leased providing the member does the majority of the care and training of the animal.

Other Montgomery County 4-H'ers who had animals selected to go to states include: John Holmes of Barto with a Welsh pony colt of this year; Richard Roth of Collegeville with his stock horse filly "Hanasse's Brick Bar;" Tami Hood of Schwenksville with her Paint filly of this year, "Cody Teal Halmark;" and Jody Solomon of Harleysville with "Peek Abou" a half-Arab colt.

Receiving a special master showman award was Karen Donahue of Spring Mount showing "Katy Manu" in the Quarter Horse two-year-old filly class.

Other area participants in the area show were Holly Reube of Lansdale, Chris Thompson of Blue Bell, Dawn Wardick of Harleysville and Rebecca Roth, Collegeville.

Jim Roth of Collegeville and "Pala Bob" were awarded first place in the Western Pleasure Horse Class at the annual Montgomery County 4-H Horse Show held in Lansdale. Jim was one of many Montgomery County 4-Her's who competed in the recent Southeast Pennsylvania 4-H Horse Show in Wrightstown.

Channel Islands regain foot-and-mouth disease-free status

WASHINTON, D.C. — The Channel Islands, located in the English Channel off the coast of France and governed by Great Britain, are again eligible to ship ruminants, swine and the meats of those animals to the United States, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture official.

John K. Atwell, deputy administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said USDA again lists the Channel Islands as free of foot-and-mouth disease.

"When foot-and-mouth disease occured on the Isle of Jersey in March 1981, we had to prohibit imports of any susceptible animals or their fresh, chilled or frozen meats," Atwell said. "However, we're satisfied that animal health officials of the Channel Islands have eradicated the disease."

Atwell said USDA regulations will continue to impose certain restrictions on imports of fresh, chilled or frozen meats from the Channel Islands and Great Britain, since their domestic meat supply is supplemented by imports from other countries where foot-and-mouth disease is known to exist.

Animal health officials would have to certify that shipments to the United States come only from USDA-approved plants that produce meats solely from Great Britain or the Channel Islands.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

This is the season for going to fairs. My husband picked a day that suited him and off we went to the York Fair. I had mixed feelings about going as I was reluctant to leave a basket of tomatoes, one of pears and one of apples on the back porch. Also waiting to be picked were the blue grapes and the cucumbers. But, I tackled the job of packing a lunch which is my usual assignment on any all-day trip away from home.

When we arrived there, we discovered that it was Senior Citizen's Day and even though we haven't reached that point, they let us pass anyway. In the afternoon when we tried to buy tickets to see the horse races, we were again told that it was free which was a pleasant surprise.

In the first building that we visited, there were hundreds and hundreds of geese, ducks, chickens, pigeons and rabbits. Even a few guinea pigs were there and reminded me of the ones that I had raised in my father's barn long ago.

There were many commercial displays, lots of handiwork and art too. The place that really interested me was the fruit, vegetable and flower exhibits. The Granges had numerous displays of agricultural products.

Apparently, we were too early for the livestock as the cows and pigs were only beginning to arrive as we left in the late afternoon. However, I wasn't disappointed as we have cows at home and the past Sunday we had visited friends in Berks County and saw a modern, very clean farm on which over 100 hogs were being raised. They gave us an interesting tour of their facilities—I never saw so many baby pigs.

Guess what, the baskets of fruit were still waiting on the back porch and I was glad we went to the Fair!

Champions parade at Gratz Fair

BY SHEILA MILLER

GRATZ — Dauphin County dairyman Eugene Feidt's registered Holstein entries walked away with all the top honors at this week's Gratz Fair as judge Ron Trostle of Red Lion, York County pulled them into the winner's circle.

Selected for Best Udder, Senior and Grand Champion of Tuesday's show was Feidt's first-place four year old Holstein, Camay. Trostle praised this Moonshot daughter's "dairyness, sharpness and angularity, and the attachment of her udder both fore and rear." Camay is out of one of Feidt's homebred cows.

Feidt also exhibited the Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Champion. Judge Trostle went with the first-place senior two year old, Checker. She is a Titan daughter out of another homebread cow bearing the Pleasant Hill Farm prefix.

With another Feidt entry, these top two Holsteins teamed up to capture Best 3 Females and Dairy Herd. Feidt also took Dam and Daughter with Camay and her calf.

Feidt, whose Pleasant Hill Farm is located near Elizabethville, milks a herd of 65 registered and grade Holsteins with his father and sister. Feidt's son, David, also raises Holsteins along with registered Brown Swiss at the farm.

Grand Champion Holstein of the youth show went to a three year old entry shown by twelve-year-old Kim Boyer, Millersburg. Kim, who is the daughter of Larry and Mary Boyer, exhibited Elsa Sugar Chief for the purple rosette. The grand champion is a Molly Chief daughter out of Jonhar Ideal Sugar.

The reserve grand champion of the youth competition was the junior yearling heifer shown by

Brother and sister shared the top wins in the Gratz steer show. Dorene Eberly's ChiAngus was tagged grand champion by judge Ron Trostle while older brother Brett's steer was tagged reserve grand.

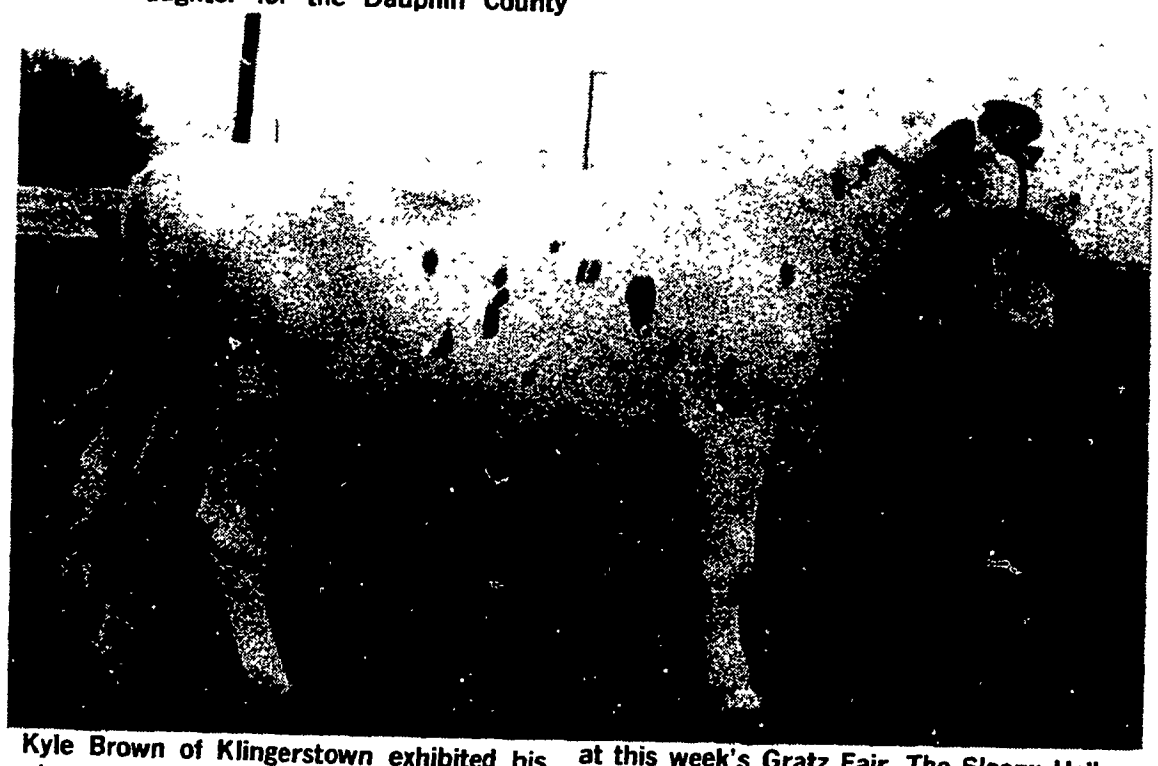
Dorene Eberly, 17, of R1 Newmanstown, exhibited the grand champion Angus heifer at Tuesday's Gratz beef show. The reserve grand heifer was shown by Amy Bowman, 14, of Elizabethville.



Kyle Brown of Klingerstown exhibited his senior yearling to the Junior championship of both the youth and open Holstein competition at this week's Gratz Fair. The Sleepy Hollow Kennedy daughter was shown by Arthur H. Wolfe.

Kim Boyer, 12, of Millersburg led her three-year-old Molly Chief daughter, Elsa Sugar Chief, to the grand championship of the youth Holstein show.

? That's A ? Good Question

I am interested in receiving the 1982 "American Farm Family" plate. I purchased them other years, but was unable to do so this year. Could you please tell me where I can order them?

Dave Adams

Mr. Adams:

After inquiring with both the news and the advertising department here at Lancaster Farming, we're sorry to report that the paper and its staff is unfamiliar with the plate series. We suggest reading the back of the plates you already have and see if it bears and address. Can any other readers help Mr. Adams in his search for the plate series? Mail your information to That's a good question, Lancaster Farming, Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543.

I have an unusual request for information. I am a Conrail Locomotive engineer and I have a 1930 Hamilton 21-jewel railroad pocket watch that is in need of some critical replacement parts that are not available anymore according to the Hamilton Watch Company in Lancaster. They said they no longer have the parts or the people to restore the watch.

I thought maybe, that some of the parts it needs might be in the hands of some old-time watch maker or jeweler in Lancaster. Do you know of any old-time watch makers that might be able to help me out? My son is now a locomotive electrician and I want to give it to him in good working order.

Steve Stecks N.J.
Hackettstown

Mr. Stecks:

We also called Hamilton Watch Company, and they recommended trying your local jewelers. So we did. After talking to Bowman Jewelers, located in Lancater for over 100 years now, we learned that if they need any pieces for the watch, they would call Hamilton Watch which brings you right back to the beginning. Another call to Hamilton Watch produced the following information: if your pocket watch has a number, such as 992B, it can still be fixed. Any pocket watch ending in B belongs to a series they still can repair. Otherwise your only hope is to scout out local jewelers and see if they have the parts. Good luck.

How does one barbecue a young hog to have it tender? I was invited to a barbecue in which the pig was one year old. It was strung on a rotisserie for 11 hours and was never basted. Wood logs were placed inside cement blocks and the logs were burning on the side not underneath. Also, what is the phone number of the hog council headquarters?

Roland Kamoda
Monongahela

Mr. Kamoda:

Yes, you are right. The secret to making a tender pork roast is to baste the meat while it is cooking. The object of spitting a roast is to have the meat secured to the rotisserie so that, as nearly as possible, it is in balance and it is compact and well fastened. Use a meat thermometer when roasting and you won't have to guess when your roast is done. Insert a thermometer at an angle into the heaviest end to the center of the roast so it won't strike coals or the heating element as it turns. The tip must not touch bone, fat, or the metal spit. The thermometer probably won't register a change for the first hour, or until the heat penetrates center of the roast. A fairly slow fire should be used. If the roast has a good covering of fat, it will acquire a beautiful glaze as it is basted. A drip pan of aluminum foil can be set in place before or after you build the fire. According to the National Pork Producers Council, a drip pan placed beneath the roast will prevent flare-ups. The foil should extend about three inches beyond either end of the meat. The pan should be about 1½ inches deep. Coals should be arranged around the pan.

For cooking times, check your cookbooks. They will list a time in accordance to the weight of the pork being cooked. Most will tell you to cook the pig anywhere from 165 degrees to 185 degrees, for a period of time.

You can contact the national pork headquarters by writing National Pork Producers Council, 1776 N.W. 144th St., P.O. Box 10383, Des Moines, Iowa 50306. Locally, write to PA Pork Producers Council, R2 Box 219, Kutztown, PA 19530.

Several issues ago you ran an article about wild Mustangs being available to interested persons. I cannot locate the issue with the information. Could you please provide me with the information of

Montgomery Co. 4-H'ers win at Horse Production Breed

NORRISTOWN — Cindy Sharpe of Schwenksville and Karen Fitzgerald of Harleysville were named triple winners at the recent Eastern Pennsylvania 4-H Horse Production Breed Show held at the Montgomery County 4-H Center in Lansdale.

Competing with 4-H members from a ten-county area, Cindy and Karen each had three horses selected to compete at the State 4-H Horse Show October 1-3 to be held in the Farm Show Building in Harrisburg.

Cindy will show her Arabian broodmare "Southern Belle," her half-Arab, two-year-old filly "Immortal Syn," and an Arabian Filly of this year, while Karen will exhibit her hunter-type broodmare "Almost Heaven" and "Heaven's Genesis" in the English Futurity class. Karen's Thoroughbred filly "Stairway To Heaven" was also awarded a blue merit award.

Nearly 80 animals were entered in the show. The production project was open to 4-H'ers who raise and care for a broodmare, weanling, yearling or two-year-old horse. Ownership is not mandatory as projects can be leased providing the member does the majority of the care and training of the animal.

Other Montgomery County 4-H'ers who had animals selected to go to states include: John Holmes of Barto with a Welsh pony colt of this year; Richard Roth of Collegeville with his stock horse filly "Hanasse's Brick Bar;" Tami Hood of Schwenksville with her Paint filly of this year, "Cody Teal Halmark;" and Jody Solomon of Harleysville with "Peek Abou" a half-Arab colt.

Receiving a special master showman award was Karen Donahue of Spring Mount showing "Katy Manu" in the Quarter Horse two-year-old filly class.

Other area participants in the area show were Holly Reube of Lansdale, Chris Thompson of Blue Bell, Dawn Wardick of Harleysville and Rebecca Roth, Collegeville.

Jim Roth of Collegeville and "Pala Bob" were awarded first place in the Western Pleasure Horse Class at the annual Montgomery County 4-H Horse Show held in Lansdale. Jim was one of many Montgomery County 4-Her's who competed in the recent Southeast Pennsylvania 4-H Horse Show in Wrightstown.

Channel Islands regain foot-and-mouth disease-free status

WASHINTON, D.C. — The Channel Islands, located in the English Channel off the coast of France and governed by Great Britain, are again eligible to ship ruminants, swine and the meats of those animals to the United States, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture official.

John K. Atwell, deputy administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said USDA again lists the Channel Islands as free of foot-and-mouth disease.

"When foot-and-mouth disease occured on the Isle of Jersey in March 1981, we had to prohibit imports of any susceptible animals or their fresh, chilled or frozen meats," Atwell said. "However, we're satisfied that animal health officials of the Channel Islands have eradicated the disease."

Atwell said USDA regulations will continue to impose certain restrictions on imports of fresh, chilled or frozen meats from the Channel Islands and Great Britain, since their domestic meat supply is supplemented by imports from other countries where foot-and-mouth disease is known to exist.

Animal health officials would have to certify that shipments to the United States come only from USDA-approved plants that produce meats solely from Great Britain or the Channel Islands.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

This is the season for going to fairs. My husband picked a day that suited him and off we went to the York Fair. I had mixed feelings about going as I was reluctant to leave a basket of tomatoes, one of pears and one of apples on the back porch. Also waiting to be picked were the blue grapes and the cucumbers. But, I tackled the job of packing a lunch which is my usual assignment on any all-day trip away from home.

When we arrived there, we discovered that it was Senior Citizen's Day and even though we haven't reached that point, they let us pass anyway. In the afternoon when we tried to buy tickets to see the horse races, we were again told that it was free which was a pleasant surprise.

In the first building that we visited, there were hundreds and hundreds of geese, ducks, chickens, pigeons and rabbits. Even a few guinea pigs were there and reminded me of the ones that I had raised in my father's barn long ago.

There were many commercial displays, lots of handiwork and art too. The place that really interested me was the fruit, vegetable and flower exhibits. The Granges had numerous displays of agricultural products.

Apparently, we were too early for the livestock as the cows and pigs were only beginning to arrive as we left in the late afternoon. However, I wasn't disappointed as we have cows at home and the past Sunday we had visited friends in Berks County and saw a modern, very clean farm on which over 100 hogs were being raised. They gave us an interesting tour of their facilities—I never saw so many baby pigs.

Guess what, the baskets of fruit were still waiting on the back porch and I was glad we went to the Fair!

Angus annual meeting set for Nov. 15

ST. JOSEPH, MO — The 99th annual meeting of the American Angus Association is set for 2 p.m., Monday, Nov. 15 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville, reports Charles Cannon, Association president from Flemingsburg, Kentucky.

The meeting will be held in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition. Other Angus activities, in addition to the large Angus breeding cattle show, judged by Mark Richardson, Afton, Oklahoma, will be an open Angus committee meeting on advertising, and the 99th annual banquet with guest speaker Baxter Black, the cowboy poet and philosopher from Aurora, Colorado.

American Angus Association members in September elected 320 state delegates to represent them at the 99th annual meeting. These delegates, based upon the number of active Association members in each state, will elect five members to the Association board of directors, plus a president and vice president to serve in 1983, the Association's centennial year. They will also conduct other annual association business.

Champions parade at Gratz Fair

BY SHEILA MILLER

GRATZ — Dauphin County dairyman Eugene Feidt's registered Holstein entries walked away with all the top honors at this week's Gratz Fair as judge Ron Trostle of Red Lion, York County pulled them into the winner's circle.

Selected for Best Udder, Senior and Grand Champion of Tuesday's show was Feidt's first-place four year old Holstein, Camay. Trostle praised this Moonshot daughter's "dairyness, sharpness and angularity, and the attachment of her udder both fore and rear." Camay is out of one of Feidt's homebred cows.

Feidt also exhibited the Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Champion. Judge Trostle went with the first-place senior two year old, Checker. She is a Titan daughter out of another homebread cow bearing the Pleasant Hill Farm prefix.

With another Feidt entry, these top two Holsteins teamed up to capture Best 3 Females and Dairy Herd. Feidt also took Dam and Daughter with Camay and her calf.

Feidt, whose Pleasant Hill Farm is located near Elizabethville, milks a herd of 65 registered and grade Holsteins with his father and sister. Feidt's son, David, also raises Holsteins along with registered Brown Swiss at the farm.

Grand Champion Holstein of the youth show went to a three year old entry shown by twelve-year-old Kim Boyer, Millersburg. Kim, who is the daughter of Larry and Mary Boyer, exhibited Elsa Sugar Chief for the purple rosette. The grand champion is a Molly Chief daughter out of Jonhar Ideal Sugar.

The reserve grand champion of the youth competition was the junior yearling heifer shown by David Feidt stands at the halter of his father's grand champion Holstein, four-year-old, Camay, a Titan daughter. Feidt's Pleasant Hill Farm is located near Elizabethville, Dauphin County. York County's Ron Trostle judged this week's Gratz Fair.

Brother and sister shared the top wins in the Gratz steer show. Dorene Eberly's ChiAngus was tagged grand champion by judge Ron Trostle while older brother Brett's steer was tagged reserve grand.

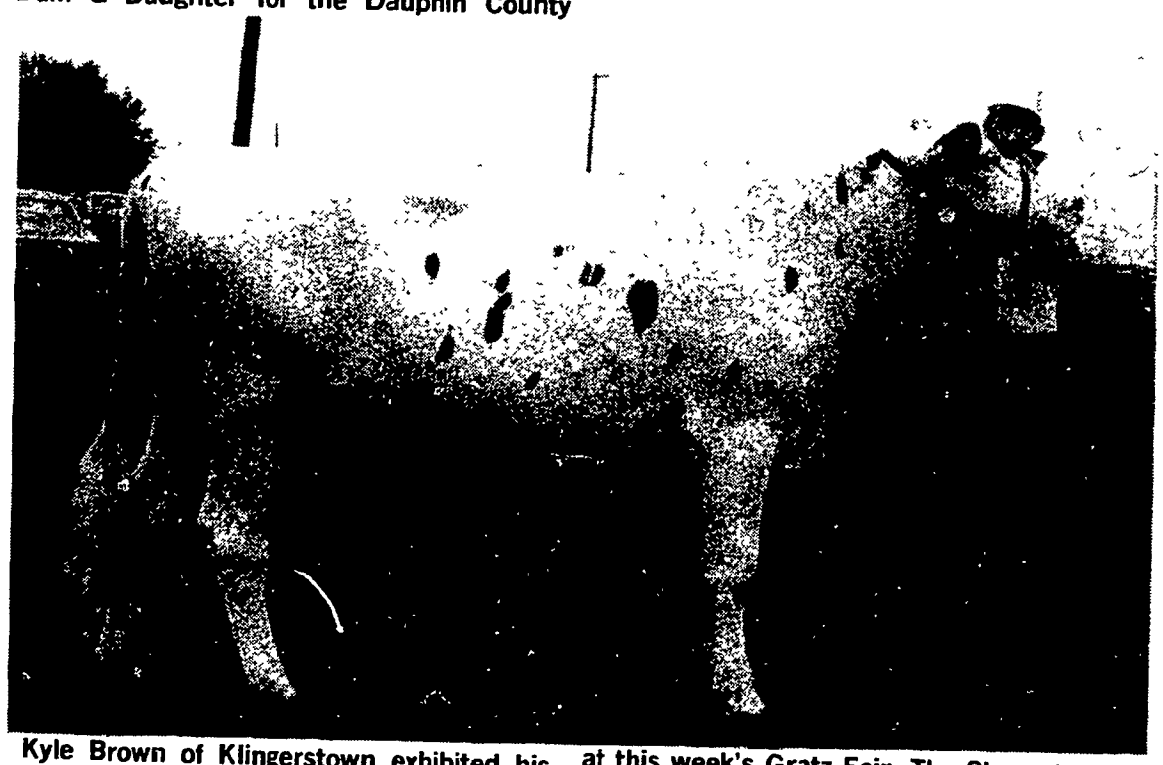
Dorene Eberly, 17, of R1 Newmanstown, exhibited the grand champion Angus heifer at Tuesday's Gratz beef show. The reserve grand heifer was shown by Amy Bowman, 14, of Elizabethville.



Kyle Brown of Klingerstown exhibited his senior yearling to the Junior championship of both the youth and open Holstein competition at this week's Gratz Fair. The Sleepy Hollow Kennedy daughter was shown by Arthur H. Wolfe.

Kim Boyer, 12, of Millersburg led her three-year-old Molly Chief daughter, Elsa Sugar Chief, to the grand championship of the youth Holstein show.

Kyle Brown, Klingerstown, right, exhibited both the grand champion Dorset ram and ewe. Brother Kevin holds the champion ram.

Troy Schreffler of Gratz showed the grand champion Southdown ram while York County's Michele Bankert exhibited the grand champion Southdown ewe, shown here by father Preston Bankert.

Kurt Brown of R1 Klingerstown. Kurt is the son of Harvey and Delphine Brown. Capturing the pink rosette for Kurt was Admiral Holloway Mindy, a Sleepy-Hollow Kennedy daughter out of Admiral Vevation Marty. Mindy's stablemate and half-sister claimed another championship for the Brown family, being tagged junior champion of both the open and youth shows.

Older brother Kyle Brown is the proud owner of this year's Gratz Fair junior champion. Judge Trostle gave the double honors to the first-place senior yearling, S H Citation Amanda. This fancy heifer is out of one of Kyle's cows, Admiral Citation Marge.

Kurt Brown made his appearance in the winner's circle of the youth show earlier in the day by exhibiting the reserve junior champion, his first-place yearling, Mindy.

The reserve junior champion of the open show went to Kermit Kahler of Pitman and his junior yearling, Maggie, a Jetstream daughter. According to Kahler's son Ryan, this is the first championship ribbon the family has won with their black and whites, recently added to the 75-head Guernsey herd.

Dairy cattle weren't the only livestock exhibited by Kyle Brown on Tuesday. Earlier in the morning, the young showman captured both grand championship ribbons in the Dorset breeding sheep competition. Judge Trostle gave Kyle's yearling ram and yearling ewe the official nod. The Triple K ram champion is sired by a Clearview Acres ram out of a Sevick ewe. The Triple K ewe champion is sired by Everett out of a Crommelin ewe.

Kyle, who has been in the purebred Dorset business for the past three years, purchased his champion ewe's dam at the 1979 Keystone International Livestock Exposition's bred ewe sale. Along with his purebred Dorset flock, which numbers about 25 head, Kyle also has about the same

Specter announces federal funding for ag research

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Sen. Arlen Specter (R-Pa) announced that the U.S. Senate Agriculture Subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee last Tuesday gave its approval for funding for a wide variety of agricultural research programs of particular importance to Pennsylvania.

Specter had been urging funding for these programs in both the full committee and the Agricultural Subcommittee of Appropriations. He is a member of both.

Among the programs which will benefit are research on the Eastern Russet potato, gypsy moth control, brucellosis control and agricultural research grants to universities.

"I am delighted that the Agriculture Subcommittee has determined that these programs are necessary to the agricultural industry in the United States," Specter said. "I certainly know how important they are to the farmers of Pennsylvania."

He said that research grants to universities had been increased over last year's appropriation by $11 million, from $219 million to $230 million. These grants, he said, provide funding for soil conservation, farm safety and a large number of other programs, many of which involve Penn State.

Specter said the committee restored full funding—$91 million—to the brucellosis program, which fights this disease in cattle, after it had been cut so drastically—to $6 million—to make it impossible to maintain any kind of an effective program.

Some $5.2 million was earmarked for research on ways of curbing the depredations of the gypsy moth, which last year defoliated 13 million acres of forestland, he said.

Continued research on the Eastern Russet potato was funded at $300,000.

"This research," said Specter, "has been successful in making the Eastern Russet, which is grown in Pennsylvania, comparable and competitive with the more expensive Idaho. Continuation of this research is necessary to make the Russet competitive with imports of potatoes from Canada, which have been cutting deeply into the American market."

Regarding soil conservation, he said, Pennsylvania has ranked first in the nation in return on the dollar for this type of federal technical assistance.

U.S. Senate Ag Committee pays tribute to Hayakawa

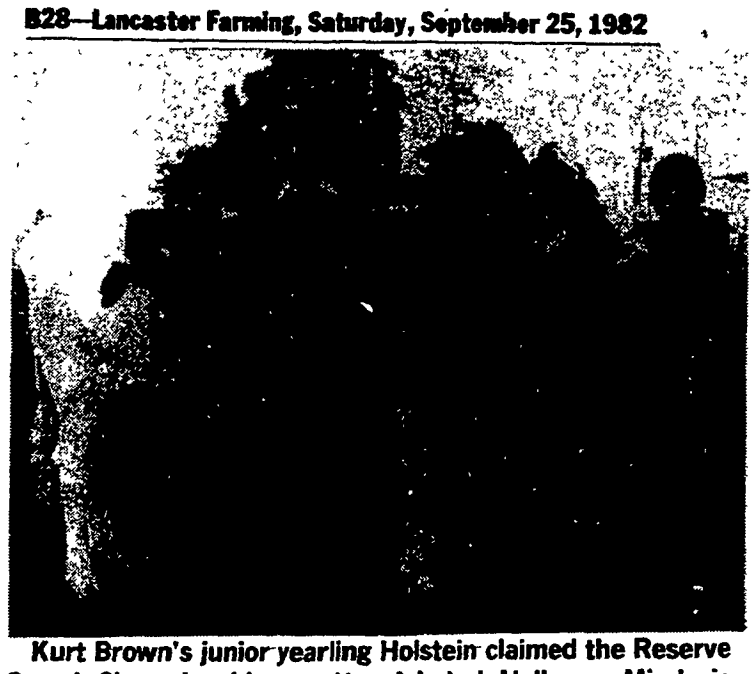
WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry last Wednesday paid tribute to Senator S.I. Hayakawa for his service to the committee. Hayakawa is retiring from the Senate at the end of his current term.

The committee adopted a resolution honoring and commending Hayakawa for his dedicated service and presented him with a framed copy of the resolution signed by all members of the committee.

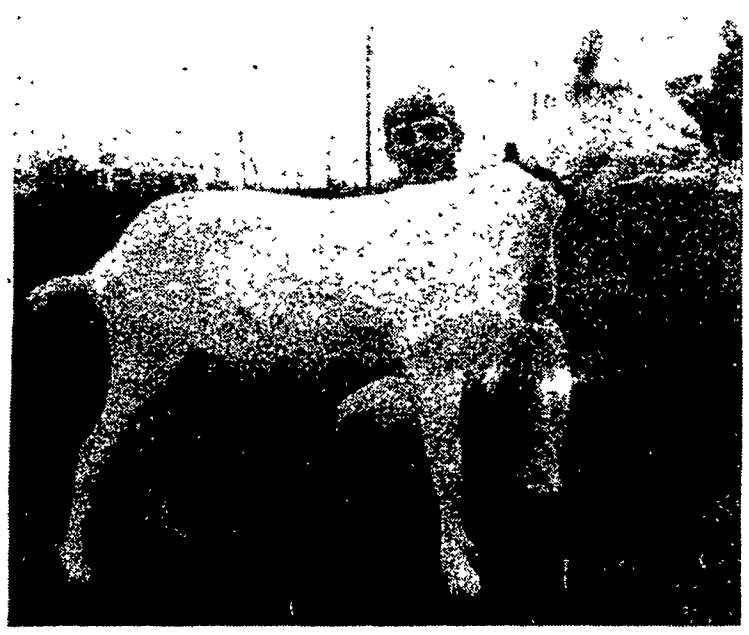
Committee Chairman Senator Jesse Helms called Hayakawa "a conscientious member of the committee, as well as a close and trusted friend." He praised the California senator for being a "man of principle who has always voted his conscience."

Hayakawa was appointed to the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry on Jan. 10, 1977. He is the first California senator to serve on the committee in 31 years. Hayakawa said that despite his lack of background in agriculture, he asked to serve on the committee because California is one of the nation's top agricultural states and need to be represented on the agriculture committee.

Hayakawa has served as chairman of the Subcommittee on Forestry, Water Resources and Environment, and served on the Soil and Water Conservation Subcommittee, the Agricultural Research and General Legislation Subcommittee, and the Nutrition Subcommittee.



Kurt Brown's junior yearling Holstein claimed the Reserve Grand Championship rosette. Admiral Holloway Mindy is sired by Sleepy-Hollow Kennedy out of Admiral Vevations Marty, and is a half sister to the show's Junior Champion.



Mike Brubaker of R3 Halifax showed his dry yearling Saanen to the championship honors at Tuesday's Gratz Fair.

number of commercial sheep on the family's 150-acre farm.

The Browns also raise breeding swine, Spotteds, Durocs, and Yorkshires which make up their 95 brook sow inventory. This year's Gratz Fair offered no swine competition due to health precautions.

Lynn and Dixie Laudenslager of R1 Dalmatia captured both ram and ewe top honors in the Suffolk show. Judge Trostle selected Lauden Acres' yearling ram for the purple rosette. This massive Suffolk ram is sired by a Reed Shepherd ram and is out of a Narrow Lanes ewe. This ewe was purchased by Laudenslager at the 1980 KILE sale.

Lauden Acres' champion ewe is no stronger to the winner's circle, having been chosen Champion Suffolk Ewe and Reserve Supreme Champion Ewe at the recent York Fair. Bred by Laudenslager, this ewe lamb's roots stretch back to York County for her sire is a Leader ram and her dam is a Ness ewe, both well-known York County sheep producers.

The Laudenslagers began raising purebred Suffolks three years ago, and each year they have taken their sheep to the Gratz Fair and have gone home with champion ribbons. Altogether, Lauden Acres' purebred flock numbers about 50 head, but another 100 head of commercial ewes graze the farm's pastures, too.

Laudenslager, who also owns Mahantongo Game Farms in partnership with Dixie's father, says he hopes to increase his flock size to about 300 head — 100 purebred and 200 commercial. As he stregthens his sheep numbers, he says the steer numbers on the farm willing to be going toward zero.

Cover crop cut erosion losses

LEESPORT — Serious erosion which occurs during late winter and early spring can be greatly reduced by fall plantings of cover crops, reports Duane E. Pysher, district conservationist with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service in Berks County.

"Unless crop residues are left on the field, cropland is susceptible to erosion. Cover cropping can prevent much of this damage," says Pysher. Following the fall harvest of row crops, a variety of cover crops can be sowed. Winter rye or winter wheat is recommended at the rate of 140 and 150 pounds per acre respectively.

Cover crops differ from conventional small grain crops seeded in the fall in that cover crops are grown primarily for seasonal protection and soil improvement. They are not raised to maturity but are plowed down to add organic material to the soil to improve infiltration, aeration and tilth. Cover crops can provide limited winter and early spring grazing if adequate cover is maintained on the field.

profitable," states Laudenslager. "With sheep, you don't get rich but you don't lose money, either." Laudenslager explains he currently runs both sheep and cattle on three farms comprising roughly 400 acres, adding "they complement each other in grazing and pasture management.

York County's Michele Bankert had the winning entries in the Gratz Fair Hampshire sheep show. Even though school did not permit her to personally show her sheep, they were in the capable hands of father Preston Bankert. Bankert's yearling ram and ewe lamb were given the championship ribbons. Both sheep were sired by a Brubaker ram out of one of Michele's Hampshire ewes.

Michele, who owns 55 head of purebred sheep together with brother Wayne, also had the champion Southdown ewe, the first-place yearling. This ewe is sired by Sky High, the Southdown ram who was grand champion at Louisville, Kentucky in 1979.

The champion Southdown ram was shown by Troy Schreffler, 15, of Gratz. Troy, who is a member of the Upper Dauphin FFA, exhibited his two head of sheep for the first time this year and went home with a champion.

In the beef competition, two Lebanon County showmen took grand and reserve grand steer honors, and grand champion female.

Seventeen-year-old Dorene Eberly exhibited her Chianina x Angus steer to the grand championship. Her Angus heifers was tagged grand champion female. Older brother Brett Eberly showed his ChiAngus steer to reserve honors, and he was selected as champion fitter and showman of Tuesday's competition.

Dorene and Brett's parents are Raeu and Dorothy Eberly of R1 Newmanstown.

Fourteen-year-old Amy Bowman of Elizabethville, showed her yearling Angus to reserve champion female honors. Amy is the daughter of Paul and Clara Bowman and the proud owner of three purebred Angus.

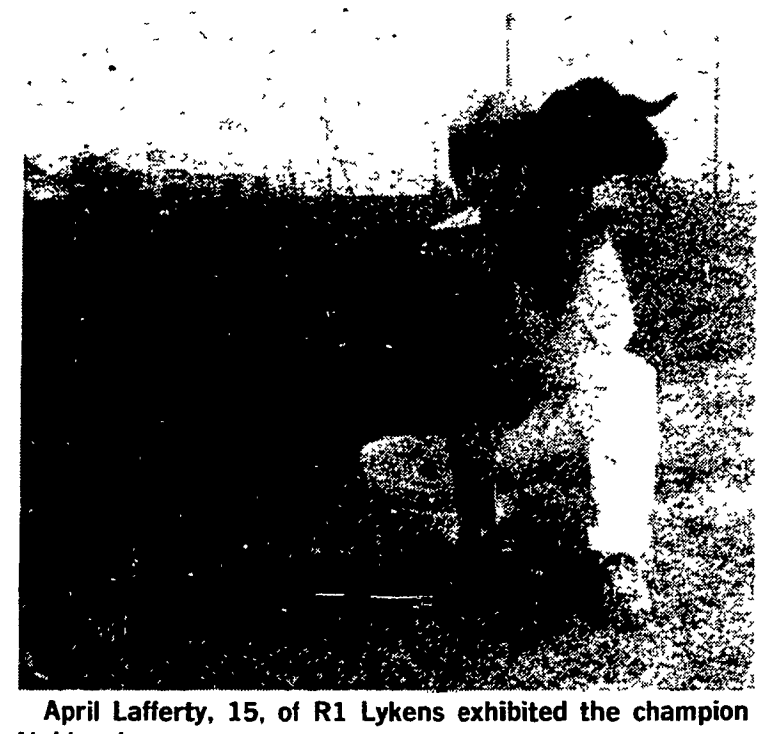
Three breeds of goats were represented at this year's Gratz Fair.

Grand Champion Saanen honors went to a dry yearling doe exhibited by Mike Brubaker of R3 Halifax. Sired by Al-Har La David's Goliath, Millie is out of Roundabout Buffy, a ewe owned by Anna Foster of Liverpool, Perry County. Mike who is the son of Marlin and Ellen Brubaker, purchased Millie when she was a kid.

Millie is one of three goats that call the Brubaker farm home. These 4-H project animals share their farm with nearly 1,000 head of market hogs raised each year.

In the Toggenberg competition, eleven-year-old Duane Peifer showed his dry yearling to the grand championship. Spruceup Sweet Delite is a homebred doe sired by Spruceup Naughtie Ukairah out of Spruceup Bittersweet. She is one ten goats owned by the Truman and Dolly Peifer family of Pillow. Earlier this year, Delite was chosen grand champion at the Pennsylvania goats show held in Huntingdon, boats Dolly, a proud mother and goat producer.

April Lafferty, 15, showed the champion Nubian doe, a dry yearling named Cinnamon. April is the daughter of James and Judy Lafferty of R1 Lykens. Along with her well-behaved goat 4-H project animal that could win prizes in obedience class, April also is raising a Guernsey heifer as dairy cattle project.



April Lafferty, 15, of R1 Lykens exhibited the champion Nubian doe.

Lynn and Dixie Laudenslager captured champion honors at the Gratz Fair with their winning Suffolk entries. The ewe, held by Dixie, was recently named reserve Supreme Champion of the York Fair.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Just as summer's finished chapter now flips to the unwritten pages of fall, so the harvest season replaces the attention recently lavished by so many of us on the winding-up fair and show season.

Soon forgotten are those long, dirty hours of grooming and washing off-reluctant animals and the constant commuting between home and show, trying to keep chores done at two places.

Instead, we remember the late-night rap sessions with their stories and fellowship, the thrill of competition, the water battles and practical jokes, and the rosettes and ribbons that remain as souvenirs of our 25-hour days.

But, in those inevitable rap sessions that take place throughout shows, more and more I've been hearing some discontent. It's an undercurrent of complaint dealing with just a tiny percentage of show participants. The consequences, though, could touch each of us.

Most of us are getting pretty fed up with alcohol consumption at shows by that small percentage of exhibitors or helpers.

While most fair and show sites spell out specific rules banning alcohol use, enforecement is pretty non-existent. Though most drinking is done with no brother or danger to other exhibitors, there are those occasional incidents whispered about that scare the dickens out of "show mothers" like me.

I can get really "hyper" when I hear of youth exhibitors in drinking bouts. Seems there's a small group here and there that sees such illicit partying with beer or booze at barns as the highlight of the show. Seeing adults doing the same thing at shows only reinforces that it's the "thing to do."

Careless smoking at barns is another panic-button subject. Who wants their husband or wife, their kids, or their beloved show animals sleeping in a wooden barn with hay and straw stacked up while one smouldering butt slowing flames to life in some unwatched corner.

If exhibitors, fair boards, breed organizations, show committees, and 4-H and FFA leaders join together to demand that even isolated incidents cannot be tolerated, I'd sure feel safer having my kids sleeping at shows with their 4-H heifers.

You can bet that cancelling prize money, together with a year's ban—or maybe permanent for repeated offenses—of offending exhibitors would go a long way toward eliminating dangerous and unacceptable behaviour.

Rushing searing flames, dense smoke, animals burned in stalls—or the unthinkable, the death of an exhibitor—from careless smoking and drinking, is one story I never want to read much less write about.

Let's make our shows safer before a tragedy occurs.

Introducing 4th Day™ Milk Replacer

20% FAT!

With new 4th Day™ your calves need fewer treatment days for scours.

Meet the newest member of the Wayne® Feeds family of dairy products: 4th Day, the high-fat, medicated milk replacer.

Like its name suggests, 4th Day is fed to calves as soon as they're off colostrum. With 20% fat, 20% protein, and the effective antibiotics neomycin and oxytetracycline, 4th Day gives calves the nutrition and medication they need for a strong, healthy start — including fewer scours.

In fact, Wayne research has shown that for their first five weeks, calves fed 4th Day can require up to 23% fewer treatment days for scours.

4th Day is easier to mix, too. A new manufacturing process lets it dissolve more quickly and completely, and stay in suspension longer. That means calves get a more consistent blend that won't settle out easily.

Get on the Wayne Feeds dairy program and get more out of your cows.

The Wayne Feeds calf program has many fine products to take a calf from birth to four months of age. The Wayne dairy feed management system is designed to get a heifer calving at 24 months — because the sooner she's fresh and milking, the more profitable it can be for you.

So get on the Wayne Feeds dairy program, starting with new 4th Day. See your Wayne Feeds representative today, and learn how we can treat you and your cows better.

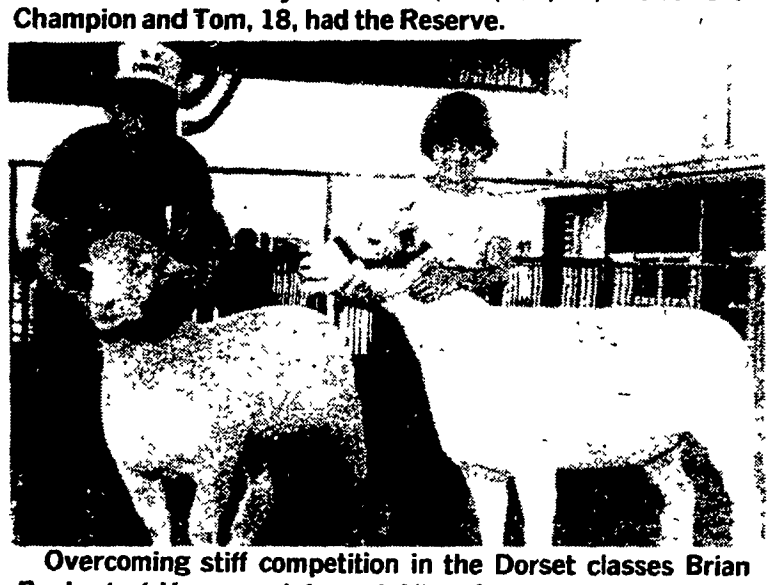
Flory brothers sweep York 4-H sheep show

The champion lamb honors in the 4-H Market Lamb show went to Tim and Tom Flory of Red Lion. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Don Flory of Red Lion; Tim, left, 16, showed the Champion and Tom, 18, had the Reserve.



Overcoming stiff competition in the Dorset classes Brian Bankert of Hanover, left, and Alicia Starusbaugh of Spring Grove won champion ram and ewe, respectively.

By Laurie Dobrosky

YORK — The 4-H sheep show at the York Interstate Fair was swept by the Flory family, Tim, 16 and Tom, 18. The two brother captured Champion and Reserve Champion Lamb honors, champion in blocking and grooming, and champion showman.

Tim exhibited a Dorset crossbred lamb to the 4-H Market Lamb championship. His lamb captured the light heavyweight championship before being named overall champion by judge Joyce Crays of Armstrong County.

During the blocking and grooming competition Tim came out on top once again during this special competition for youth exhibitors. Tim's final victory came during the showmanship contest. After winning the senior age division, he came back to be named Grand Champion Showman.

Tom, 18, the older of the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Flory of Red Lion also showed a Dorset crossbred lamb to the reserve championship in the 4-H market lamb show.

Alicia Strausbaugh of Spring Grove had the Champion Pair of Market Lambs with her Hampshire and Dorset entries.

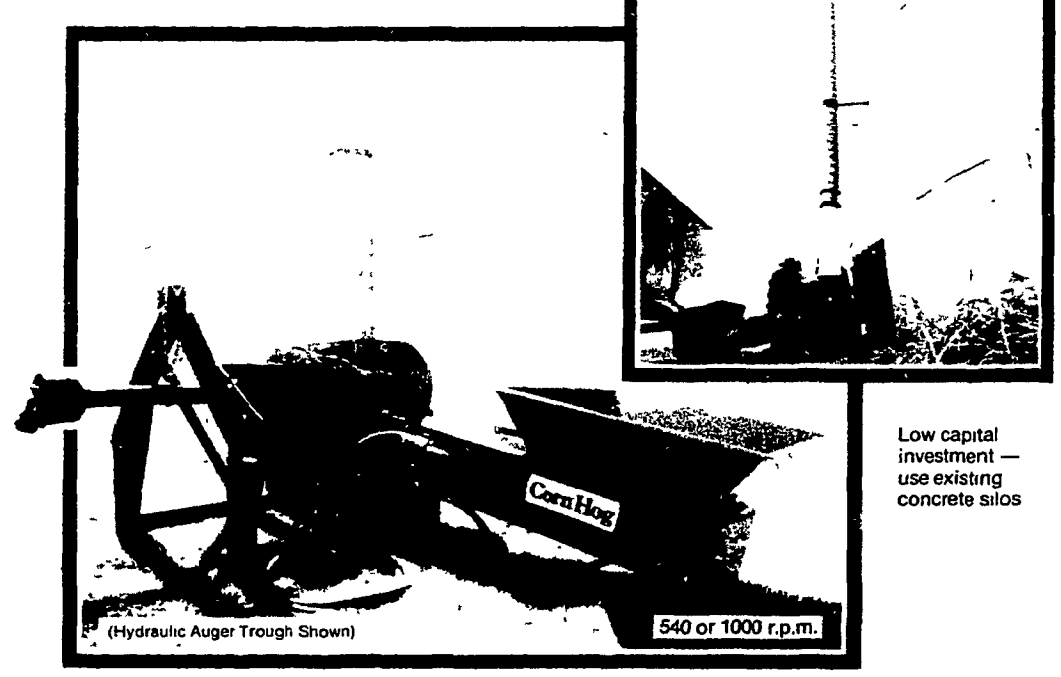
Corn Hog®

The economical alternative to costly drying and storage systems



Low capital investment — use existing concrete silos

Grind more for less

Handling high moisture corn efficiently is a specialty with the Corn Hog® system. Combining a high capacity grinder with a powerful thrower, the Corn Hog grinds and stores up to 20 tons of high moisture shelled corn (14 tons of ear corn) every hour.

Continuous, non-stop silo filling with capacity and throwing power to keep pace with the biggest combines and pickers.

Corn is fed from the optional hopper or trough feeding attachment into the grinder and is shattered by 30 knives fixed to 3 grinder discs rotating at 2500 r.p.m. An adjustable feed control plate and 4 reversible grinder bars let you control the fineness of the grind you need. As ground corn passes from the grinding chamber, a 6 paddle thrower hurls it up to 80 ft. into your silo.

Don't dry it — Store it

Sitting in line at an elevator to have your grain dried or waiting around for your dryer to catch up, can take a big bite out of your time and your profits.

Ensiling high moisture corn with the Corn Hog system can put you in the field 2-3 weeks earlier, eliminate drying bills and cut field and storage losses by up to 7%. And in some years, harvesting earlier could mean the difference between saving or losing much of the crop.

Improved feed efficiency and handling

Your crop has already been processed into a palatable, nutritious feed when it's put into storage. Field to feeding handling is complete, in one smooth operation.

HENKE Henke Roller Mills and Ear Corn Crusher

Henke Roller Mills process wet or dry shelled corn, ear corn, barley or milo.

You may add 25 per cent or more to existing storage just by processing wet grain thru a Henke Roller Mill. The uniform particles pack in tightly, taking less space. Because there's more grain, there's less air - so feed stays fresh, palatable.

Don't worry about harvest slow-down, either. Henke has the capacity to fit your operation with corrugations to handle your grain.

Why dry when processing wet grains with a Henke mill requires less time at a fraction of cost - and you get more feed value. You don't have to transfer grain from dryer to storage. Processing wet grains eliminates investments in driers.

Harvesting early - when grain is 25 per cent to 30 per cent moisture - has long been possible with Henke mills. Field losses are reduced by early harvest and winter weather is avoided.

Feeding value of grain is enhanced by processing it with a Henke mill. Granulation by Henke mills allows activation by rumen bacteria for proper assimilation of feedstuffs.

Even silage with whole corn kernels has its feeding values enhanced by processing thru a Henke Roller Mill. Dairymen in Southeast United States have obtained a sizeable increase in milk production by processing their silage thru a Roller Mill to assure that all kernels are cracked.

You can put cattle on full feed earlier with ear corn, eliminate dust and digestive troubles. Livestock are furnished with the proper roughage grain balance.

DEUTZ

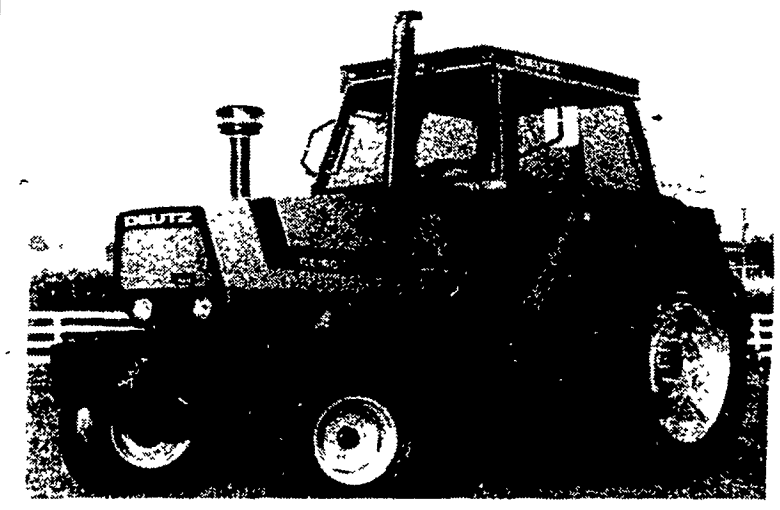
THE ALTERNATIVE TRACTOR



Disappointed with returns on time and money spent on finding a practical alternative fuel?

TRY THE ALTERNATIVE TRACTOR

Yes, the unmatched fuel economy of the Deutz Air Diesel engine truly makes Duetz the alternative tractor.

ASK FOR A DEMONSTRATION - Measure actual fuel usage on your farm. That will tell you more about Deutz fuel economy than all those official test reports.

PLUS - EconoCool thermostatic cooling system (standard on all new DX tractors with cab) uses an additional 6-8% less fuel than standard Deutz tractors.

PLUS - Deutz 4-wheel drive delivers up to 40% fuel savings over 2-wheel drive in comparable field work.

PLUS - Stauffers expert service by factory trained mechanics and fast parts service makes Deutz an even better investment.

Call Harold Stauffer for Deutz tractors in 9 sizes; 45, 52, 61, 68, 84, 110, 125; 135 and 145 hp.

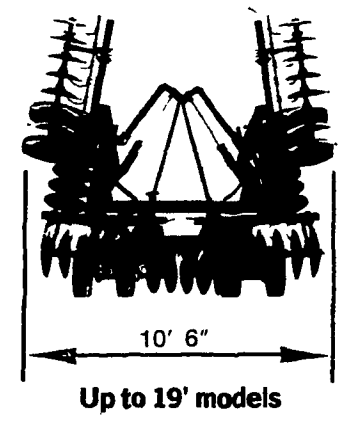
Two Year Guarantee on Spring Bearing Hangers and Gang Bearings

Easily Clears 11' Gates Hydraulically operated wings fold up-and-over the center section a full 15 degrees. They fold totally within the 10'6" cutting width of the center section. (Most competative units have transport widths in excess of 14' With wings folded, this harrow can easily pass through a 11' gate. (This applies to all model variations of the Flex 90.)

Heavy Duty Wing Carriers The heavily reinforced 2"x3" tubular steel wing carriers provide full support for folded wings. During transport, wings rest securely in ½"x4" forged steel saddles.

Spring Mounted Bearing Hangers To achieve maximum flexibility, the Flex 90 features heavy duty 1"x2" 5160 manganese alloy steel bearing hangers (the same material used for our chisel plow tines). The hangers are attached to trunion mounts which provide perfect alignment for the guadraseal.



Up to 19' models

A RHINO IS LONGER LIFE

And RHINO guarantees it... Two Full years.

That's how confident RHINO is that the double-row, square bore, Timken, tapered roller bearings, with quadraseal protection, will stay with you through those tough jobs. These quadraseal bearings are guaranteed to roll, and keep on rolling for two years! And here's why: Quadrasealed double-row bearings offer many more times the capacity than standard ball bearings for the same axle size. With this extra capacity, the probability of overloading is virtually eliminated, even when discing at maximum gang angles. To protect these heavy duty bearings, RHINO offers quadraseal - similar to RHINO'S famous quadraseal wheel hubs which include: a heavy steel seal protecting washer that prevents wire and trash from damaging the seal elements and a triple-lip seal, that runs on a hardened and microfinished surface. This combination provides maximum seal life and efficiency and vastly increases bearing life. Between the steel washer and the seal is a cavity that is filled with grease, that is an additional sealing element against dirt. Seals cannot be hurt by over-lubrication. Computer calculated - set right - snap ring grooves and precision snap rings provide permanent and precise bearing adjustment. The bearing and seals are mounted into a rugged cast iron housing, which is then installed into a steel trunnion. As the trunnion housing pivots, the bearings and axles remain in perfect alignment, and the gangs roll freely.

RHINO equipment has long been known for ruggedness and long life. Now, you get guaranteed long life and assurance of less downtime with the RHINO double row square bore, tapered roller bearings. RHINO quadraseal bearings are now available on tandem and offset disc harrows with spring or rigid mountings. See your authorized RHINO dealer - he has all the facts.

The Vicon KM-240 cuts and conditions the tallest, tangled, wettest, heaviest, hay. This new mower-conditioner eliminates a pick-up reel, so you can put up more hay - FASTER. With a working width of 7'10", it can mow twice as much area in a day as most competitive models. Most competitors use a pick-up reel, which limits ground speed, adds maintenance problems and allows leaf loss.

The Vicon six-disc cutter bar feeds your crop directly, stem first, into rubber rollers that condition green hay or wet grass. It dries faster and bales easier, saving time and labor.

The KM-240 has no chains, no belts, no sickle bar. If you need only a mower, look at the Vicon CM-165 (4 discs-5½' working width) or the CM-240 6 discs-7'10" working width). Both make clean cuts in heavy grass or tangled crops.

Big 512 cubic inch displacement pressure-vacuum pump is standard equipment Conservation rated at 135 C F M of air at 85 to 90 percent vacuum for filling and will maintain 10 to 15 lbs of pressure for unloading or agitation in the pit
Open door models permit access for cleaning and easy maintenance
BETTER-BILT
Walking beam suspension Standard on 2 600 3 150, 3,600 and 4 600 gallon models (Optional on 1,500 & 2,100 gallon models) Front & rear wheels on each beam follow contour of the ground provides a smooth level ride

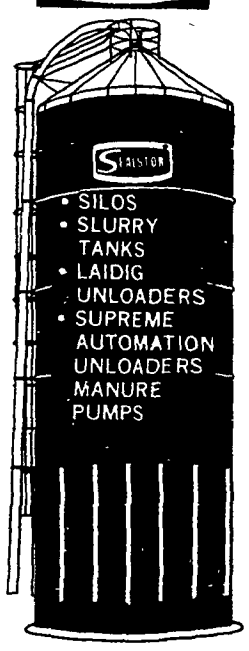
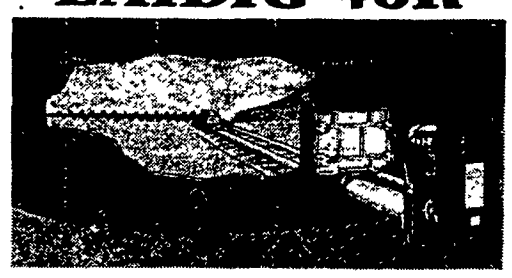
SEALSTOR





NOW YOU CAN UNLOAD WITH THE BEST

Shelled Or Ground Ear Corn

Storing high moisture grain can cause problems unless you have the right unloader. If you're bothered by high maintenance costs, poor feed delivery or a "free flow" system that fails, then you should consider the new Laidig 43R grain unloader.

The Laidig 43R Power Sweep Auger replaces those Gravity Feed Sweep Augers. It's a heavy-duty machine engineered for day-in, day-out operation...the same high quality and peak performance that operators expect from a leader...from Laidig!

GUNITE Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite. Below are some of the properties of Gunite:

1. Excellent bonding
2. High Density
3. Extreme strength and hardness
4. High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration.

Reseal and re-strengthen your silo with Gunite.

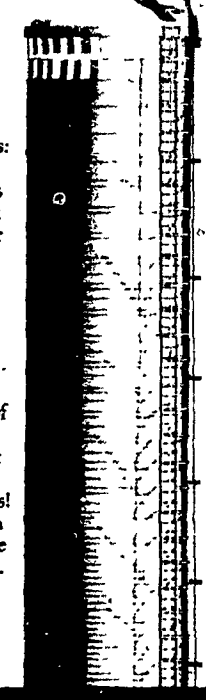
THERE'S NO BETTER WAY TO HANDLE HIGH MOISTURE CORN.

AND WE CAN PROVE IT TO YOU.

The many benefits of high moisture corn are all well known these days: No dryer costs, reduced shrinkage, less labor, less grain damage, fewer field losses, fewer bad weather problems—and a great feed!

And the only way to process high-moisture corn most effectively is with a Madison Grain-O-Matic® Here's why:

The light gray color of the Vibra-Cor® staves reflect direct sun ray heat 2½ times better than the dark color used by others! These thicker truss-beam design staves also provide superior insulation value.



Thus gases in the Grain-O-Matic® structure expand and contract much less than in a steel structure. Inside pressure is regulated by a precision vacuum and pressure valve. Every structure is air-pressure tested by experienced Madison crews. Result: Better feed and no breather bags, so you can fill clear to the top of the structure with nutrition packed high-moisture grain. And you also get the Madison/Laidig bottom unloader that provides fast, positive delivery day after day for a long, long time.

THE GUTTER CLEANER DESIGNED FOR THE LONGEST LIFE

The Super 600's™ Tough Link™ chain wears longer because of extra steel at wear points on the forging. So strong, it's warranted for ten years. Call Acorn today for details.

The Super 600's™ heavy number 80 roller-chain final drive with its stress-proof shaft assures long and trouble-free transmission life. This, and the heavy-duty 10-gauge galvanized elevator, add up to the most rugged gutter cleaner on the market today. So rugged, we warrant the drive and elevator against defects in workmanship and material for five years. Call today for details.

Reading Fair honors county's agricultural leaders

By Laurel Schaeffer

FLEETWOOD — In keeping with tradition dating back more than thirty years, the Reading Fair executive committee held their annual pre-fair banquet last week to honor an outstanding farm family and a boy and girl from the Berks County 4-H program and Berks County FFA chapter.

Selected for these prestigious honors were the Kenneth Grimes family of Strausstown; Deborah Miller, Wernersville and Michael Mertz Fleetwood, of the FFA; and Jamie Batz, Richland and Jan Adam, Hamburg of the 4-H clubs.

The Grimes were selected as the Reading Fair Farm Family from entries submitted by various Granges within Berks county. All are active members of the Shartlesville Grange, Kenneth has served as assistant steward for the past three years, while wife Barbara worked with the Junior Grange. Kenneth and Barbara have two children, Jonathan, 10, and Jennifer, 7. The family farms about 450 acres and presently milks 130 cows.

Deborah Miller, selected as this year's FFA girl is currently serving as State FFA Reporter. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller, Wernersville. A graduate of Conrad Weiser High School, Deborah has completed two years at Penn State where she is studying dairy production and agriculture education.

As an FFA member Deborah has served in many capacities including chapter reporter and collegiate chaplain as well as participating in leadership training, public speaking, parliamentary procedure and dairy judging competitions. She also has worked on three different dairy farms within the county to learn various management techniques. Deborah has earned the Keystone Farmer Degree.

Michael Mertz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Mertz, Fleetwood, was awarded the honor of being this year's FFA boy. Michael is a granduate of Kutztown Area High School where he has held the of-

Selected as the Reading Fair Farm Family for 1982 is the Kenneth Grimes family from Strausstown. Ken and Barbara operate a dairy farm in Upper Tulpehocken Township with the help of their two children, Jonathan and Jennifer, and some part-time farm hands.

Grimes family wins special honor

By Laurel Schaeffer

STRAUSSTOWN — The year 1982 will probably be eteched into the minds of the Kenneth Grimes family of Strausstown, Berks County as one of successes. Not only did they, and several of their neighbors, win a battle over land condemnation with the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation, but more recently these young farmers were feted as the 1982 Reading Fair Farm Family, an honor that dates back to 1956 when the first farm family was selected.

The Grimes won this honor when they were chosen from entries submitted by various Granges within Berks County. The Grimes are active members of the Shartlesville Grange when Kenneth has served as assistant steward for the past three years. Kenneth's wife, Barbara, and children, Jonathan, 10, and Jennifer, 7, also are active members.

The Grimeses farm 450 acres and are milking 100 cows. An enthusiastic dairyman, Grimes strongly believes that dairymen should strive to produce a higher quality product through tougher standards. "If we produce a consistantly good quality product, consumers will come back," he said. "Poor quality milk is hurting all dairymen."

Stressing Ken's point, Barbara explained they are "fussy" dairy farmers. "Each cow is cleaned before milking with a clean, new paper towel and dipped after milking," she said.

"The better you treat cows, the better they will treat you," Grimes continued. "Our cows are tame and friendly. Some will come into the holding pen before milking time themselves."

He related how valuable tame cows and heifers are by recounting an experience of when his heifers got loose. Because they were so tame all he had to do was find and call them and they followed him home to the surprise of his neighbors.

Grimes added he seldom has a problem getting newly freshened heifers accustomed to their double-five herringbone milking parlor. He attributes this to the fact that the cows are fed inthe parlor and are held close to each other.

"The older cows have a calming effect on the nervous heifers," Grimes said. "I have always remembered a story from an elementary reading class about a race horse that was always nervous when put into a starting gate until it's trainer would put the horse's stablemate into line next to him. The stablemate would lean against the race horse and have a calming effect upon him. I believe the more mature cows have the same effect on new heifers."

The grimes built their milking parlor in 1968 and added automatic take-offs in 1979. "I wasn't too crazy about them at first," he admitted, "but wouldn't do without them now. "They work well if cows are started off on them. But cows that are used ot being manually massaged to finish don't adapt very well.

"With automatic take-offs every

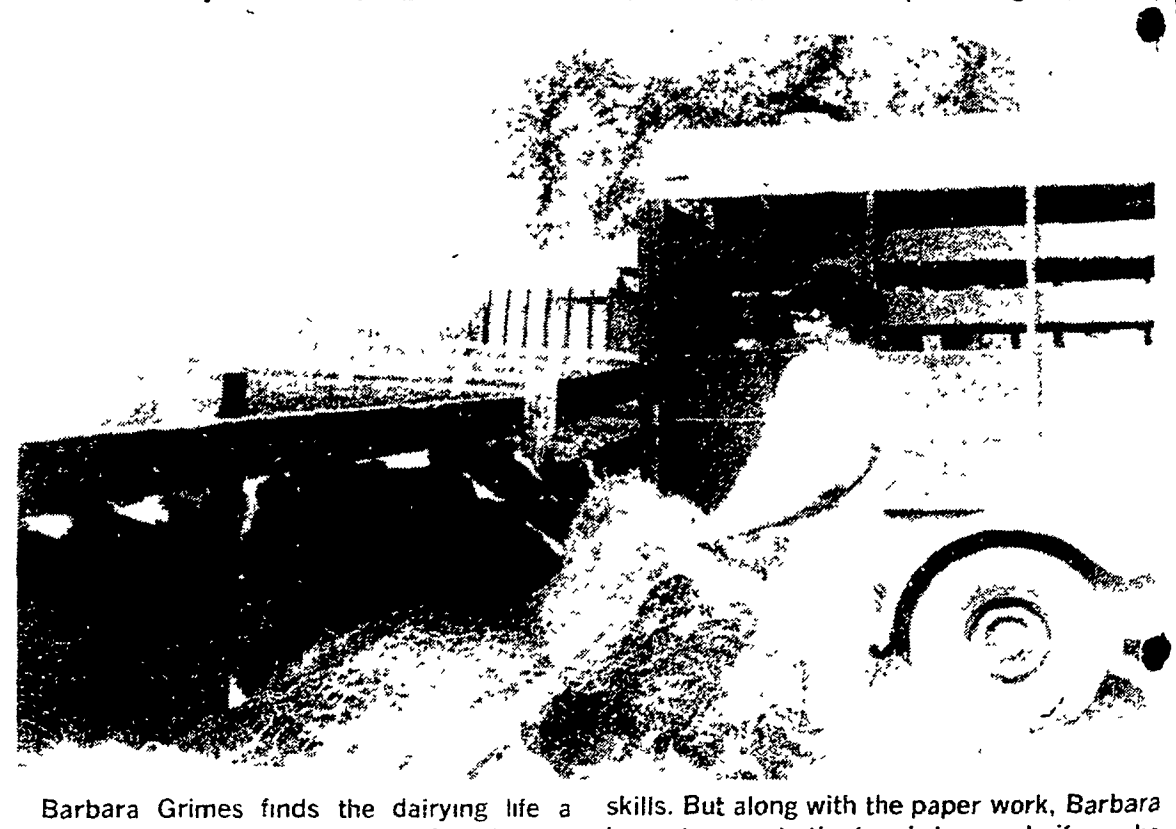
The weeks preceding the Reading Fair are busy ones for the Grimes family. This week finds Kenneth trying to keep one load ahead of the demanding silage blower

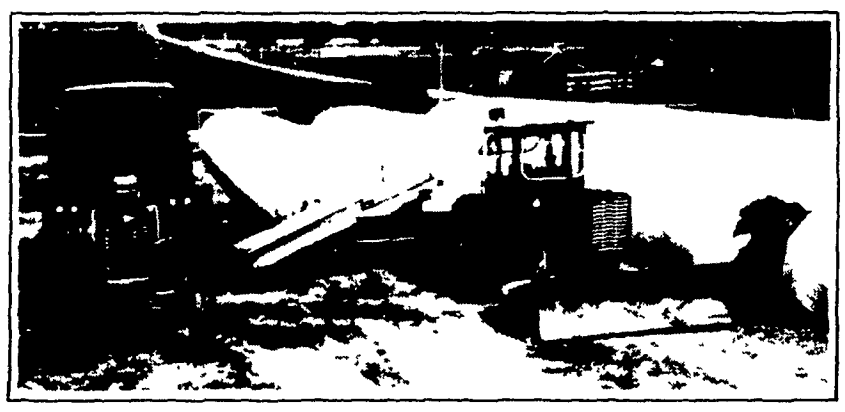


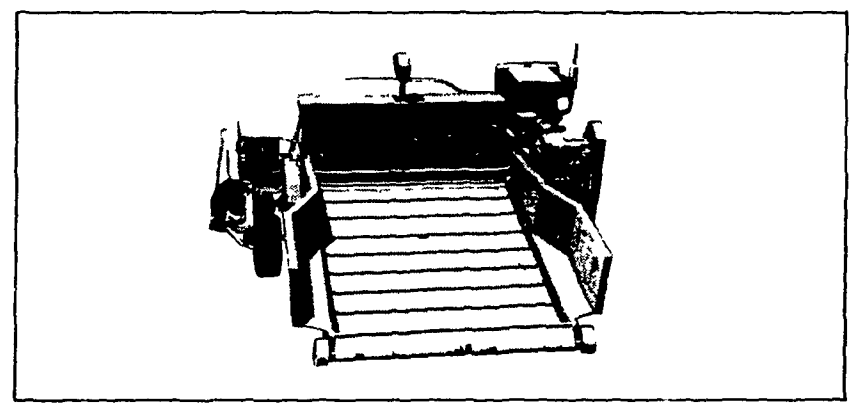
Barbara Grimes finds the dairying life a fulfillment of her collegiate training, having studied bookkeeping and other secretarial skills. But along with the paper work, Barbara is no stranger to the farm's hungry heifers who wait impatiently for hay.

MORE FOR LESS.

The Storage System for the future. Here Now!

THE AG-BAG SYSTEM





MORE FEED. MORE STORAGE. MORE HIGH QUALITY TDN & PROTEIN.

Select from three models of AG-BAG Machines. Motorized, Hydraulic, and Gear-Driven. AG-BAG lets you match the machine to your job. Big or small. Whether you're DAIRY or BEEF AG-BAG will store More For Less. The AG-BAG System. Air-tight storage with more versatility than any other system. Just look at these AG-BAG ADVANTAGES:

1. UNLIMITED oxygen-limiting storage
2. Storage for ALL forages & grain
3. Transportable
4. Easy to use and little maintenance
5. NO dangerous silo gases
6. Silo fires WON'T occur
7. Higher moisture forage
8. NO unloader to break down
9. Extra income and potential from custom bagging
10. THE Forage System for the 80's

JUST LISTEN TO WHAT THESE AG-BAG BELIEVERS HAVE TO SAY:

Kenneth Popham of Floresville, Texas

Kenneth runs a 465 cow Dairy and said this about AG-BAG: "At today's interest rates you can't afford any other type of storage... Even with the yearly cost of bags it's still inexpensive storage... a whole lot cheaper than building barns and hiring help. I put up 13 bags last year and after seeing the results, I'll put up 25 bags this year. The bags are a good thing."

Don Carter of Parkdale, Oregon

"The best move I ever made"... says Don Carter in reference to his switch to bagging silage on his dairy near Parkdale, Oregon.

"I get 18% more feed from the same acreage and the feed lasts three times as long. I used to clean my bunks after three days, now I only need to clean them after 10 days."

Roland Rasmussen of Blair, Nebraska

Roland farms 350 acres west of Blair, Nebraska, and fattens about 650 cattle from 600 lbs. to finish.

"By labeling every bag as to date and kind of feed, I can mix my feeds and eliminate the guess work in making a ration. I feed alfalfa silage, corn silage and ground ear corn stored exclusively in the bags, purchasing only my minerals and vitamin supplements"

"The AG-BAG system has enabled me to increase carrying capacity per acre at a reduced cost of gain."

Bert Anderson of Sceptre, Saskatchewan

"At least 30% more feed... I can guarantee at least that"... says rancher, Bert Anderson, of Sceptre, Saskatchewan.

"I've been able to cut my grain feeding costs in half since converting to the bagging. It's just like feeding grass. I've also eliminated the need for a liquid supplement that we always fed before going to the AG-BAG System..."

HERE'S WHAT THE AG-BAG SYSTEM CAN DO FOR YOU

cow gets milked the same," Grimes continued. "And it only takes one person to milk since time isn't being wasted by massaging every cow."

Grimes' herd average last year was 16,753 pounds milk and 669 pounds butterfat with a 4.0 test. However this year's production will be lower since half of his herd is composed of first calf heifers, Grimes said.

The Grimes herd is housed in a free stall barn and fed corn silage and hay free choice. The feeding program is then balanced from ecommendations coming fron Penn State.

All cows are fed concentrate in the milking parlor. This consists of high moisutre corn and 35 percent protein pellets balanced to a 16 percent concentrate. High producers also are given a magnet and can eat from a magnetic feeder.

The feeder is filled with a 20 percent protein high energy pellet. Grimes presently houses the milking string in one group, but he would like to form two groups in the future when his facilities will handle it. He also has been considering a total-mix ration, hoping it will help to increase his herd average.

The dairy herd also is on the somatic cell count program offered through DHIA and generally stays within the 200,000 to 300,000 cell count level.

Manure is still handled in dry form and hauled frequently. Grimes is all in favor of liquid manure storage, however, and would like to knife it into the soil during spring and autumn. He and Barbara plan to eventually build an above ground storage facility.

Kenneth artificially breeds many of his cows, but has a technician breed his better cows with expensive semen. "I don't want to store too much expensive semen in my own tank," he explained, "so it is easier to have a technician bring a smaller amount than I could buy myself.

Field crops consist of 200 acres of corn, some of which is harvested as silage while the rest is shelled. The farm also has 85 acres of hay, approximately 20 acres of wheat, 10 acres of oats, 60 acres of pasture and 75 acres of woodland.

The grimes do all the work themselves except for two part-time employees. Barbara is the bookkeeper and secretary and also feeds the calves. Raised as a "city girl" she enjoys living and working on the farm and has been involved in many community organizations.

Ten-year-old Jonathan has become a big help around the farm, feeding hay to the cows and calves and feeding heifers at another farm for his father. Jonathan has been showing dairy cattle in 4-H for two years. Presently he has two cows of his own to show.

Seven-year-old Jennifer also has shown an interest in the dairy herd and other farm activities. She also is a member of a local Brownie troop and has been taking dan lessons for the past three years.

Raised on the farm, Kenneth is member of the Pennsylvania a Berks County Holstein club Pennsylvania and Berks Coun Farmers Association, Ag DHIA, Shartlesville Strausstown Fire Companies, Fo Northkill Jaycees, Lions Club a Hamburg Moose Lodge. He also a township supervisor for Upp Tulpehocken Township.

Kenneth is a graduate of Wesle Junior College, Dover Delawar and also attended Delaware Valle College of Science and Agricultur Doylestown. Barbara attende Keystone Junior Colleg LaPlume. Jonathan attends fif grade and Jennifer attends secon grade in the Hamburg Area Scho District.

fices of FFA president, assistant vice president, and vice president of the Chapter. Mertz was selected as County Parliamentarian for 1981-1982 and placed first in the state public speaking contest. He also participated in dairy and livestock judging.

Michael has decided to join his father and brother in a dairy farming partnership.

Selected as this year's 4-H girl was 16-year-old Jamie Batz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Batz, Richland.

A senior at Tulpehocken Area High School, Jamie has been a 4-H member for nine years and is presently serving as vice president of the Rehrersburg Adventurers 4-H Club. She has been awarded the 1982 Berks County 4-H National Awards winner for gardening and food preservation, and has been chosen to participate in the 4-H Citizenship Washington Focus program in Washington, D.C. this year.

Jamie also is active in her high school band, Senior chorus and the National Honor Society. She is a member of the Little Swatara Church and is a member of their choirs.

Jan Adam, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Adam, Hamburg, was selected as this year's 4-H boy. He is a 1982 graduate of Hamburg Area High School and has been a 4-H member for 10 years. He is presently serving as president of the Virginville 4-H club.

Jan is the 1982 Berks County 4-H National Awards winner in the Agricultural Category and is a FFA member with a Keystone Farmer Degree. His projects in 4-H this year include: ten registered Holsteins, two market steers, vegetables, gardening, poultry, equipment repair, one-acre corn crop and hay

These recipients will be special guests of the fair for the entire week of Sept. 20-26. It is held each year behind the Fairgrounds Square Mall, Reading.

The livestock judging schedule begins Monday at 4 p.m. with the sheep show. Scheduled for Tuesday at 1 p.m. are the swine, market steers and beef cattle shows. At 5:30 4-H fitting and showmanship contests are scheduled with rabbits being judged at 6 p.m.

Holstein cattle will be shown Wednesday at 10 a.m. and colored dairy breeds at 6 p.m. Other events such as bale throwing, egg tossing, and seed spitting are scheduled throughout the week.

Kent County, Md. unveils conservation park

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Turner Creek Conservation Park in Kent County, Md., will be unveiled officially at an open house at 11 a.m. on Friday, Oct. 1.

The 40-acre park which showcases farm, forestry and wildlife conservation practices, is the only one of its kind in the state. Developed by the Kent Soil Conservation District and U.S. Soil Conservation Service in conjunction with the Kent County Department of Parks and Recreation, the conservation park is intended as a display and study area for people concerned about protecting land, water and wildlife.

"We wanted to have an area where we could display conservation practices, not only for landowners who might want to install them on their own property but for students and others interested in seeing how land can be put to its best use," said Mary Ann Skilling, district manager.

Skilling and other conservationists conduct tours of the park for civic and school groups. According to SCS District Conservationist Ralph Timmons, nearly 300 fourth graders from the county's public, private and parochial schools are scheduled to visit this year. Students from Cecil County also use the park.

Bordered by trees and surrounded on three sides by water, the conservation park is part of a 116-acre recreation area owned by the county. Swimming, crabbing, fishing, boating, and picnicking are available nearby. The site was also a major trading and shipbuilding port in the late 17th and early 18th centuries. The granary, built around 1830, is the last remaining one in the county. Other historic landmarks include the Barroll or Knocks House and the Lathim House.

Many of the practices installed at the conservation park were done with donated equipment, materials and labor.

Agricultural practices designed to control erosion include one grass waterway with a rock rip-rap outlet and one with a drop pile outlet, a cornfield planted by the no-till method and diversions to safely transport runoff across steep slopes.

In a woodland, good and bad forestry practices are demonstrated. At one point, labels on the trees tell visitors how to identify tree species by the bark.

A 20- by 50-foot wildlife pond was blasted in a marsh near the headwaters of the creek. The open water will provide a refuge and resting place for ducks. Wildlife trees and shrubs were planted. Boy Scouts installed about 10 squirrel nesting boxes and one nesting box for woodducks.

"We're really just beginning," says Skilling. "We plan to install other practices as time and money allow. But for now, we want to let people know we're here and thank those who've helped.

For tours or more information about the park, contact the soil conservation office in Chestertown at 301-778-5150.

350 clamor over equipment at C.B. Hoober Field day

COCHRANVILLE — While farmers have been shying away from new machinery purchases for obvious economic reasons, there appears to be a wellspring of interest and pent-up demand just waiting to gush forth.

Farmers from miles around, who took a day off from their own harvesting, are clamoring over that IH Axial Flow combine like fleas over a dog on a hot summer afternoon.

The photo may not be exactly kosher for National Farm Safety Week, but it does illustrate that farmers have not lost their interest in new and better ways of harvesting during the prolonged economic doldrums.

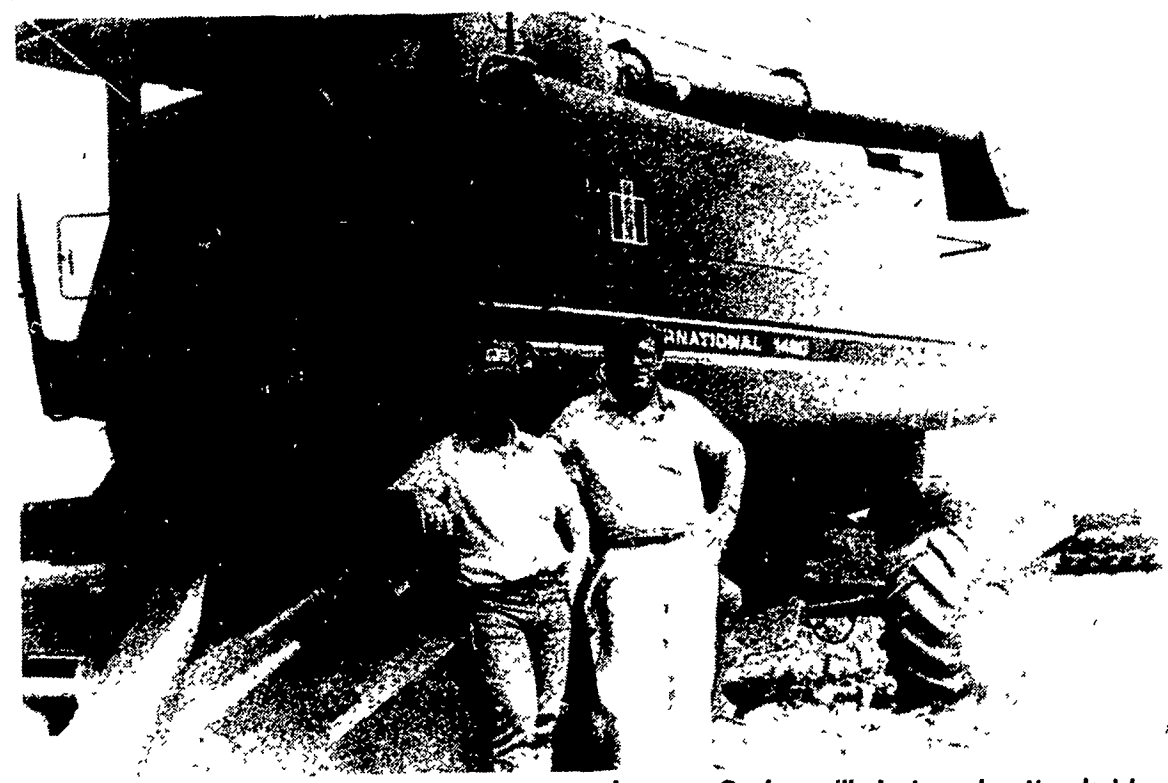
So, in addition to interest in the new models, there's likely a fair amount of pent-up demand out there just waiting for better times when conditions are as ripe as the crops in the field.

And these conditions appear to as psychologically motivated as they are financially based.

Also, there still remains a lot of interest in the red and black of International Harvester, which continues to bear more than its share of the economic crunch in the ag slump that has plagued the entire equipment industry.

Some 350 gathered for the Hoober field day and IH Red Power Showdown that marked the 40th anniversary of the Intercourse dealership and its association with International Harvester.

And the large group of on-lookers got quite an eyeful of a score or more pieces of new equipment – likely the largest variety assembled in one field along the entire East Coast – ranging from the axial flows shelling and grinding high moisture corn to the first of the new Steiger tractors to arrive east of the Mississippi.



Next to an International Harvester 1460 Axial Flow Combine was Charles Hoober Jr., left, and Tom Schreck, IH assistant general sales manager of Eastern Region. Hoober field day near Cochranville last week, attended by some 350, marked 40th anniversary of the Intercourse dealership and its affiliation with IH.

On hand for the field day were IH representatives, including Tom Schreck, a native of Ephrata, who is assistant general sales manager of the Eastern Region. He congratulated the Hoobers on their four-decade affiliation with IH and discussed the current state of the farm equipment industry.

"We've streamlined our operations, but we're a viable, full-line company," Schreck said.

"We intend to concentrate and capitalize on our main strengths – ag equipment and motor trucks."

Schreck went on to explain that he's been attending Red Power Showdown field days up and down the East Coast and interest is strong at all of them.

"There's a pent-up demand out there," he explained.

"Interest rates have been coming down and if some strength is shown in commodity prices, that demand will begin to be expressed.

"Like others, we've been tightening our belt and looking to the future."

And off in the future – how far noone can say for sure – there may be looming a complete turn-around in the equipment industry.

The industry has always been cyclical, although not as deep as presently, and some point to the era about 1976-77 when equipment had to be allocated and manufacturers couldn't make it fast enough.

Other IH representatives present were Richard Goodwin, District Manager of Operations at Fredericksburg; and Del Reynolds, territory representative.

Schreck is the son of C.K. "Chet" Schreck, who retired after 40 years with IH as a zone manager in the construction division. He lives in Akron, Pa.

PennAg elects Brubaker to presidency

"I would like to see other agricultural supporting industries active in PennAg," comments Bill Brubaker, whose term as president begins Jan. 1, 1983.

HARRISBURG — William (Bill) L. Brubaker, 49, president of Organic Plant Food Co., was unanimously elected president of PennAg Industries Association during the organization's 104th Annual Meeting held here at the Holiday Inn last week.

Brubaker, who operates a farm fertilizer business in Lancaster County, will replace Thomas R. Zeigler of Zeigler Brothers, Inc., Gardners, on Jan. 1, 1983.

Organic Plant Food Co. is a small family-run business which was created by Brubaker's father in 1936. Brubaker, who assumed the leadership of the fertilizer operation in 1956, says the "organic" route of the company was dropped some time ago. Now, dry chemical fertilizers are the company's mainstay, with custom application being the key to the firm's service policy.

PennAg elects

Brubaker, who received his bachelor's degree in agriculture from Penn State, has been an active member of PennAg for the past eight years and serves as the Association's first vice president. On being elected president, Brubaker says his selection "indicates PennAg is diversifying from its history of being an organization solely for millers and feed dealers to include all of agriculture's supporting industries."

Commenting on the "hard times" being experienced by agribusiness during the past year, Brubaker observes, "Our cash flow hinges on the farmers' economic conditions. Five minutes after the farmer gets tight, we are too. When the agriculture economy sputters, industry feels it."

Looking toward the future, he adds, "I don't know if we're at the bottom of this economic curve yet. If not, there'll be some thinning out of farmers and businesses. We all must sharpen our management abilities in order to hang in there."

When asked what he feels caused the current economic dilema facing the agricultural industries, Brubaker states emphatically that "the grain embargo hurt the ag industry as much as any other single situation in the past." He adds, "I believe in the free market system, not in government programs. We must discipline our industry to the laws of supply and demand."

Brubaker says he feels strongly about involving all the agriculture supporting industries within the fold of PennAg during his term as president. He also plans to have the organization take a more visible and responsive role in the legislative process, perhaps forming a political action committee.

"There's more legislative clout coming into the agricultural field," he explains. "We at PennAg have to become more action oriented. PennAg has kept a low profile in the past. But the times are changing, and our tactics and emphasis areas need to change with them."

Other officers elected to serve during 1983 include: George Blankley of S.F. Scattergood and Co., Inc., Narberth, first vice president; Ralph Getkin, Getkin Associates, Inc., Norristown, second vice president; and Barry Shaw, Wenger Feed Mill, Inc. Rheems, third vice president. Treasurer John J. Hess II of John J. Hess II, Inc., Paradise, was re-elected.

Michael Zapach of Farm Bureau, Souderton and Lincoln Welles, Welles Mill Co., Inc., Wyalusing, were both re-elected as directors. Newly elected directors include: William J. Back of Bay State Milling Co., Shiremanstown; Togle J. Rural electric co-ops month

HARRISBURG — The rural electric cooperatives, serving over 640,000 consumers in 47 counties, will participate in the national observance of Cooperative Month during October. The 14 rural electric cooperatives of Pennsylvania and New Jersey are among 50,000 consumer-owned cooperatives that serve over 60 million people throughout the nation and among 1,000 rural electric cooperatives that serve 25 million people in 46 states.

"This year's Cooperative Month theme, "Building a Better America," is especially meaningful to rural electric cooperatives because businesses, industries and other community development activities have grown and prospered in rural areas and small communities because of electricity." said William F. Matson, Executive Vice President and General Manager of the Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association. "In the past five years," he said, "rural electric leaders have helped start or expand nearly 6,000 new businesses in areas cooperatives serve, resulting in the establishment of a half million new jobs."

Rural electric cooperatives serve most of the nation's farms and ranches, Matson pointed out. "With the help of the rural electrification program, "the United States leads the world in agricultural production," he added.

"Conducting business the cooperative way represents economic democracy in action," Matson said. All cooperatives follow three primary principles: Membership is open to all people who can use the cooperatives' services. Each member, on a one-man/one-vote basis, has a say in the operation of the cooperative and in the election of directors who operate the enterprise. Cooperatives operate on a non-profit basis, with what would normally be considered to be profits returned to consumrs on the basis of their patronage.

Out in the fields, a trio of Axial Flow combines were working in the corn of the Lapp Brothers, located just north of Cochranville.

"We've been putting out about 25 machines a year.

"There's a lot of interest in that new Streiger tractor, too."

And also on hand was C. B. Hoober Sr., who launched the dealership 40 years ago.

From that start, with just two employees, it has grown to one of the leading dealerships of the East, with a staff of 50 and a branch in Maryland with a dozen more personnel.

100 attend Asgrow days

QUEENSTOWN, Md. — Growers, extensionists and USDA personnel got a first-hand look at the performance of Asgrow soybean varieties and corn hybrids at the recent field days in Queenstown, Md.

Twenty-five extension, USDA and Asgrow personnel attended the first field day Sept. 7, with another 75 growers at the event the following day.

Each day those in attendance were taken on a seven-stop informational tour. John Schillinger, Asgrow Seed Company soybean project leader and station manager for the company's Ames, Ia., research station, informed visitors of Asgrow's variety development program for the East Coast. Dale Weigelt, research assistant at Stonington, Ill., discussed Asgrow's quality seed program, and Dennis Berkey, manager of Asgrow's quality assurance program, explained the advantages of planting proprietary rather than bin-run seed.

Other aspects of the informational tour included information about Asgrow's product line — soybean varieties A3860, A4268, A5474 and A5618, and RX61A, RX777 and RX909 — Asgrow's corn hybrids adapted for the Eastern Region.

In addition, Austin Goldman, Ciba-Geigy sales representative, presented information on the herbicides used in the plots.

Bill Rhodes, assistant plant breeder at Asgrow's Eastern Breeding station and host for the event, emphasized the importance of the field days.

Eradicane Extra going national

WESTPORT, Ct. — Stauffer Chemical Company has announced a full scale, national marketing program for its Eradicane Extra herbicide. The new product was sold only in limited quantities for the 1982 season, under an introductory program.

"Grower response to this product has been very positive," said Richard Gold, product manager. "We are fully commercializing Eradicane Extra for the 1983 planting season."

Gold said Eradicane Extra would be included in Stauffer's early order program for distributors in October, 1982. Availability will be national in scope and quantities unlimited.

The "extra" in the new product is an additive that increases the herbicide's persistence in the soil.

The new product may be applied in liquid fertilizer tank mixes, impregnated on dry-bulk fertilizers, or through center-pivot irrigation systems. It is labeled for tank mixes with atrazine, Bladex, and atrazine/Bladex combinations.

Stauffer emphasizes that while the new product offers superior control of target weeds, it shouldn't be considered a cure-all.

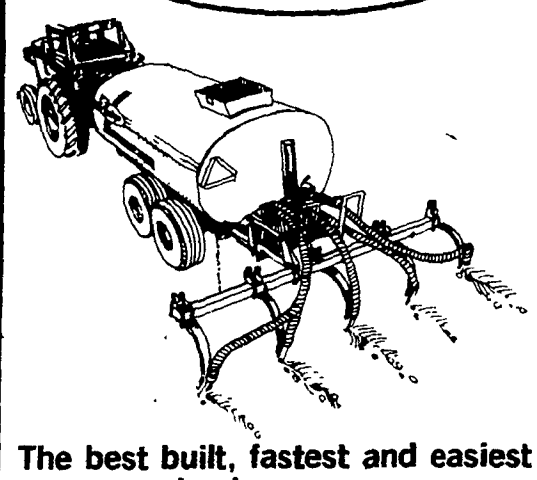
Badger

Talk To The Man Who Knows Manure Handling Systems



Badger Northland wants to help you declare war on high fertilizer bills with a liquid manure handling system that will save time, labor and money!

Cut fertilizer costs with a Badger Vacuum or Spreader Manure Tank.

Badger Tanks come in a wide range of sizes with built-in strength from full length support skids and massive undercarriages. Tandem axles on most models make pulling easy. All Badger Tanks are lined with a special acid-resistant coating that insures longer life. Badger's Tanks with rear mounted injectors combat wheel compaction, eliminate manure being forced from furrows by tires, and keeps manure away from the operator.

The best built, fastest and easiest unloading spreaders money can buy!

You convert to a liquid manure system to save time and labor and increase the overall efficiency of your operation.

You don't want to buy short when it comes to unloading and spreading equipment. And that's where the Badger 8700L, 5800L, and 3900L vacuum tanks come in. These husky vacuum spreader tanks unload fast. Cuts field and tractor time. 8700L and 5800L feature rugged "walking tandems" that make spreading easier, even in rough fields. 5800L and 8700L tanks are also available in models with spreader capabilities.

The Badger 11000L...for BIG jobs. Here's a tank with time saving capacity. 3000 gallons big, it means fewer trips with less labor. Supported by two pairs of large flotation tires, the Badger 11000L literally floats over plowed fields or rough roads. Other features include full length skid supports, extra heavy "A" frame tongue, hydraulic controls and a tractor actuated braking system.

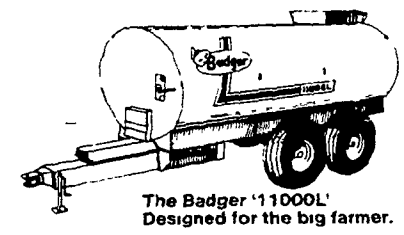
Badger 5800L



The Badger '11000L'
Designed for the big farmer.

When Badger built its first barn cleaner nearly 35 years ago, they established a tradition of supplying farmers with efficient time and labor-saving manure handling systems that are made to last.

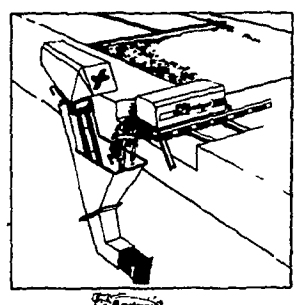
That tradition continues today with Badger's full line of manure handling equipment.

Save 30% on bedding with Badger's Bale Chopper

Here's a machine that chops and spreads all baled material - straw, hay or cornstalks. Eliminates wasted time and energy. . . and saves bedding!

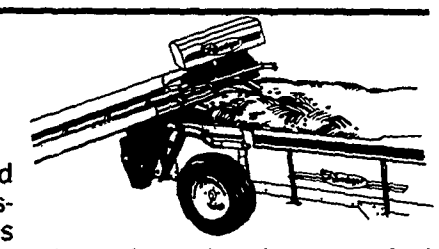
Manure moves easily with Badger's Barn Cleaner and Transfer System.

The stacking slab system offers an economical and labor-saving manure management method and eliminates the drudgery of daily hauling.



Badger's floor mounted gutter cleaner or manure scraper move manure from the barn to the tough Pump which transfers manure to stacking slab or other storage area. Badger's Manure Equipment can be used as a complete system or individually in existing operations.

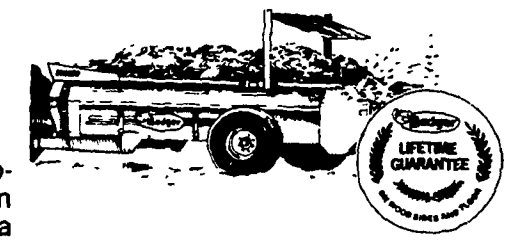
Tough, strong, long lasting. That's what Badger's Barn Cleaners are all about!



With chain designed to exceed 24,000 lbs. and a rugged transmission that easily pulls lengths up to 550 feet, you'll know that our barn cleaner's going to get the job done.

The box beam Cor-ten steel elevator and Badger's paddle wiper, paddle tip up, chain oiler and heavy-duty reverse curve, along with massive cast iron corner rollers all add up to provide long life and keep maintenance to a minimum.

You'll be "struck" by our capacity, wood floor and sides and unique hydraulic drive!



The cost of struck level capacity is a big consideration when you're looking for a new spreader to haul soupy manure. And Badger offers the greatest value in struck capacity compared to the competition.

The Badger hydraulic drive offers smooth and even unloading in five speeds. You control apron speeds from slow to fast clean out!

Harvestore announces new grain conveyor

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Il — A new cleated belt conveyor introduced by A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc. moves grain up inclines to 90 degrees at speeds of 620 ft. per min. The product features the quiet, smooth operation and relatively low horsepower requirements typical of belt conveyors.

The new conveyor, labeled the model 330 grain conveyor, was designed to replace tube augers and tilting discharge augers. It is versatile enough to do nearly any grain conveying job in the feedroom, harvestore system marketing specialists say.

The product features a 6-inch wide cleated belt made of sturdy moisture and acid resistant material. This material and the belt's design contribute to reduced operational noise, low vibration, minimum maintenance and longer life. Special belt construction also promotes less friction and stretch with reduced power requirements. The belt's 2-inch high cleats are spaced at 8-inch intervals, acieving a conveying capacity of 400 to 600 lbs. per min.

Constructed of 18 ga. steel which is galvanized for corrosion resistance, conveyor sections are available in either 3 or 5 foot lengths. The design easily accommodates unsupported spans of up to 25 ft. The conveyor is available in lengths of up to 40 ft. to specifically satisfy a variety of grain moving and feeding requirements.

Schaap gets Harvestore post

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Il. — James C. Schaap has been named director of marketing for A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., Donald L. Dunaway, company president, has announced.

Schaap will be in charge of all Harvestore system marketing activities, supervising and coordinating product management, marketing communications, line sales, training and related functions. He reports directly to Dunaway.

The new marketing director was previously a principal in Skyline Harvestore Systems, Inc., Nashua, Ia. Prior to joining the Harvestore system dealership, he was western region manager for Harvestore Products and an area manager in Iowa.

Schaap began his career with Harvestore Products in 1977, after serving as general sales manager for the Industrial Truck Division of Allis-Chalmers Corporation.

Livestock Institute tells how to handle vealers

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Mn — "Handling and Transporting Veal Calves" is the title of a new pamphlet published by the Livestock Conservation Institute.

The information in the brochure was presented at the annual meeting of LCI by Terry Seubert, president of Seubert Calf Ranches in Dorchester, WI and distributor for American Feeds & Livestock Co., Inc. Seubert is also a member of the Wisconsin Veal Growers Association.

The brochure gives suggestions for the care of the cow before freshening, handling the newborn calf, transporting bob calves and marketing bob calves through auction markets. It also gives guidelines for shipping "Special-Fed Veal Calves."

The proper handling of young calves requires special knowledge. The information in the brochure would be useful to veal calf raisers, dairyproducers who sell newborn calves, and livestock dealers handling young calves.

A single copy of the pamphlet is available by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to LCI, 239 Livestock Exchange Building, South St. Paul, MN 55075. Prices for volume orders are available on request.

Light Up Your Herd With Sire Power

LINEAR APPRAISAL AND MATING PROGRAM

LINEAR APPRAISAL AND MATING PROGRAM from Sire Power INC

The Linear Appraisal and Mating Program (LAMP), available through Sire Power, is a valuable herd improvement tool. It can help you plan your breeding program with the aid of professional advice. The Sire Power Analysts are up-to-date on the transmitting patterns of all Sire Power bulls and are in a position to make recommendations for their optimum use. The goal of this program is to produce profitable replacements able to stand the stress of high production over a long lifetime.

Basically, the program involves an evaluation of fourteen physical trait areas for each cow. Two performance areas, milking speed and disposition are also included. Two sires (a first, and second choice) are then recommended that offer the greatest potential for improvement of production, type and longevity. The program is custom designed to meet each dairyman's goals for his herd.

The weeks of October 18 and October 25 have been scheduled for LAMP (dairy herd analysis) in the Western PA area. Balanced breeding consultants, Steve Neely and Steve Wilson, will be in your area to analyze the individual cows in your herd.

The cost of this service is $2.00 per cow with a minimum charge of $25 per herd.

Coughlin to address Eastern meeting

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative President, Stanley Korona, announced the "60th Anniversary Annual Meeting" of the dairy organization will be held October 6, in Syracuse, New York.

Although already one of the oldest dairy cooperatives in the Northeast, the Annual Meeting theme "Aggressive Today...for a Stronger Tomorrow" highlights the organization's vision for the future.

More than 600 eastern members and officials of Eastern local organizations throughout New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont and Delaware will gather for the Annual Meeting and banquet at the Hotel Syracuse in Syracuse, New York.

Michael Donovan, General Manager of Eastern, said "the theme for this Annual Meeting is an appropriate one. We have been aggressive in improving marketing operations and financial management, and the results of those actions are apparent today. I expect this to be an exciting and informative meeting for the members and guests of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative."

President Korona announced that following the luncheon program on October 6, Edward T. Coughlin, Director of the Dairy Division of the USDA will address the group. Korona also said David Call, Dean of the College of Agriculture at Cornell University will address the organization following the banquet meeting. Both these are important leaders for agriculture in particular, Korona said.

Coughlin recently was named Director of the Dairy Division of the USDA. This dairy branch of the Agricultural Marketing Service is responsible for administration of the 49 Federal Milk Marketing Orders throughout the United States. The Division provides statistical and market information on milk and dairy products, carries out grading and inspection for dairy plants and products throughout the nation. In his new position, Coughlin replaced Herb Forest who recently retired after 48 years with the USDA.

Coughlin has been involved with dairy marketing and regulatory matters since 1959 when he began work for the Boston Market Administrator. After five years in this role, he moved to Washington, D.C., where he served as Chief of Order Operations. In 1979 he was promoted to deputy of the Division with responsibility for litigation and legal compliance. It was from this deputy position Coughlin assumed responsibility as Dairy Division Chief.

In his remarks Coughlin is expected to discuss the challenges facing the nation's dairy industry in the near future and the very real possibility of cuts in his dairy price support program. He is known as a hard-hitting speaker who will zero in on the production-consumption imbalance that presently exists in the milk industry of the U.S.

The remarks of Professor David Call following the banquet are expected to be marketedly different from Coughlin's. As Dean of the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell, Call is responsible for many of the most exciting agriculture-related research projects underway in New York State. The College he administers consists of 18 departments on the Cornell campus, approximately 460 faculty members and a total enrollment of nearly 4,000. Additionally, Call has administrative responsibility for the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva.

Call is a resident of New York State, having been born and reared on a farm in Batavia. His undergraduate degree was earned at Cornell University in 1954, and following two years of military service he returned to Cornell to earn both M.S. and PhD degrees in Agricultural Economics. His teaching career began as an Assistant Professor in the Department of Agricultural Economics at Michigan State University and then back to Cornell as the H.E. Babcock Professor of Food Economics in the Graduate School of Nutrition.

Tested boars attract Del. buyers

NEWARK, Del. — Twenty-three boars sold for an average of $338 each at Delaware's latest tested boar sale, held earlier this month at the state fairgrounds in Harrington.

More than half the animals went to Delaware buyers. A few also were sold to producers in Maryland and Pennsylvania. Extension livestock specialist Richard Fowler said he was pleased with this strong show of local interest.

The highest selling boar from this year's test was a Duroc consigned by Edwards and Edwards of Rich Square, N.C. It was purchased for $700 by J. Quinton Johnson of Salisbury, Md. This was the highest-indexing boar in the sale.

Eleven pens with four boars each began the test last spring. Of these, the top 23 were sold on the basis of soundness and performance. The top index was 163.7, indicating performance 63.7 percent above the average of boars on test. Performance data for the 35 animals that completed the trial include an average daily gain of 2.32 pounds; feed required per pound of gain, 2.13; and an average backfat thickness of .72 inches.

This was the fifth year for the trail, which is sponsored by the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service and the Delaware Pork Producers Association. Another test is planned for next spring which will be completed with a sale early in September 1983.

"GO"-POWER WITH SAME

✱ BIG SAVINGS on FUEL

SAME's air-cooled direct-injection diesel engines operate at higher temp. to wring maximum power from every drop of fuel. Their superiority in fuel efficiency has been proven in competitive field demonstrations, in official tests*, and especially by farmers in everyday working conditions. On-the-farm fuel savings of up to 40% are commonly reported.

The higher fuel prices go . . . the greater the advantages of owning a SAME!

✱ BIG SAVINGS thru BETTER TRACTION

SAME's unique integral 4WD system and weight distribution make SAME perform as a balanced 4WD unit . . . not as a 2WD with optional add-on power to front wheels SAME 4WD outworks 2WD in dry, soft or wet soils. More "go"-power, not "slip"-power. 4WD increases drawbar power for 15% to 24% more acres worked per hour on the same amount of fuel.

BIG SAVINGS in tires, time and fuel.

✱ BIG SAVINGS on MAINTENANCE COSTS

SAME diesel engines are famous for dependable, trouble-free service . . a result of unexcelled engineering and quality control in manufacture. Ease of service, long-life interchangeable parts and elimination of liquid-cooling equipment slashes maintenance costs and down-time . . keeps SAME on the job

✱ BIG SAVINGS on INITIAL COST

SAME includes many, many features as standard that are extra cost options (if available) on other makes. This, plus our excellent dealer back up and warranty, are additional reasons why farmers by the hundreds are switching and saving big with SAME

● 25 models ● 35 to 160 engine h.p. ● 4WD and 2WD

Don't spin your wheels — but come in soon for full details on these BIG SAME SAVINGS.

The Milk Check

Stay Alert

If we take time now while Congress is in recess for Labor Day speeches to examine what the House-Senate Conference Committee came up with last month for the new dairy price support program, we'll have a better idea of what will be considered when they reconvene after the holiday.

The new marketing year starts October 1 so, decisions will be made quickly within the next few weeks to stop the 15 cent increase in the present $13.10 support price that was scheduled in the farm bill passed by Congress in December of last year. That bill was to take care of price supports for the next four years but is being changed before the first year is finished. Just an inkling of how fast things are changing and why you have to stay alert to be current on how your future income will be affected.

Tally Sheet

As of now, this is how we stand on the House-Senate Conference Committee proposals for the new dairy price support program.

For the years beginning October 1, 1982 and 1983, the price support will be $13.10 eliminating the increase of 15, 75 and 60 cents provided in the 1981 legislation. That's wiping out $1.50 in increases from 1983 to 1985. For October 1, 1984, the new proposal calls for a price that represents the same "percent or parity" that $13.10 will be on October 1, 1983. That puts it down to about 60 per cent according to present estimates.

In addition to all this, the Secretary of Agriculture has been given discretion to reduce the price of all milk sold by 50 cents on October 1, 1982 to offset some of the costs to Commodity Credit Corporation and another 50 cents reduction on April 1, 1983 if CCC purchases are projected to be more than five billion pounds of milk equivalent.

With last year's CCC purchases of 13 billion pounds of milk equivalent and milk production still on the increase nationally, you can bet that CCC purchase will exceed five billion pounds. Putting it all together, if things go according to the present proposals you can expect a support price of $12.60 on October 1 with a reduction of $12.10 on April 1 of next year.

Refund Available

There is, however, a provision in the proposal to reduce or refund the second 50 cent assessment for those farmers who voluntarily cut production below a base period of one year starting October 1, 1981 or two years starting October 1, 1980. The option, according to the proposal, is up to the Secretary to decide whether to use one year or two years.

Presumably the refund would be in the proportion to the reduction in milk produced but could not exceed the same percentage that the national average of surplus milk is to the total production. For instance, if the surplus production is projected to be ten percent of the national supply a farmer would get no more than a 50 cent refund after reducing his production by ten percent from the base period.

All of this could be changed, somewhat, if the proposed prices are actually used, but USDA should do something about the fact that the present "support price" of $13.10 is already 56 cents below the national average price of manufacturing grade milk.

This has happened because USDA has done nothing in the last three years to adjust the rising cost of converting milk into butter, powder and cheese so, buyers must pay less than the support price for milk so they can sell the butter, powder and cheese to CCC for $1.49 on butter; 94 cents for powder and $1.395 for cheese which are the support prices for the manufactured dairy products. It's only window dressing to talk about support prices for milk if the support prices for the products aren't adjusted accordingly.

Classic Compromise

Before you can appreciate the work of the Conference Committee, you should realize that what they started with was a Senate bill that would have simply maintained the $13.10 support price for the next three years and a House bill that followed the program suggested by National Milk Producers Federation. The NMPF program included a two price system and a national referendum on a five cent producer contribution to support milk and dairy product promotion.

Out of this, and in a matter of days, the Conference Committee came up with a masterful compromise that contained at least bits and pieces of nearly every proposal that had been made in the House and Senate during the preceding four months. Politically it has something for everyone but economically does nothing to provide a lasting solution to surplus milk production.

For an example, let's look at some of the bits and pieces that were lifted from earlier suggestions and included in the Conference Committee report. The Administration wanted "complete discretion" in setting the support price. That was too much for Congress but what they got was the "discretion" to add a couple of 50 cent assessments on producers to reduce the cost.

American Farm Bureau wanted a trigger mechanism and they got one of sorts in the guidelines that USDA must follow in making their assessments. NMPF wanted to hang on to the parity formula in determining the support price and that will be included but not until 1984. Several national farm organizations were supporting bills that revolved around production bases and quota plans. That too is included, slightly, with the refunds on the second 50 cent assessment.

You can go on and on fitting the pieces together but what you finally get will be decided by what each house in Congress does with this proposal and that will probably happen before the end of September. A reduction in the support price rather than an increase seems almost a certainty for October 1st. A 50 cent drop in the support price will translate into a 25 cent drop in the farm price.

Compared to other farm prices you'll be lucky if that's as far as it goes. The worry is that the cut will be deeper to accommodate the latest budget restrictions. The second 50 cent cut will add administrative costs to the program as the refund provisions are included. It's questionable that it will stay as it is.

All of this, of course, is mere speculation until Congress decides on a program but most people agree that there's little hope for a lasting cure and if the cuts don't go any deeper, we'll be lucky.

US wheat team declines speculation on USSR crop

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A team of U.S. wheat specialists has returned from a tour of the Soviet Union but declined to speculate on the size of this year's Soviet spring wheat crop.

According to Keith Severin, team leader and a Soviet specialist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agricultural Service, "We really didn't see enough on this trip to be able to predict the size of the total crop. Although we visited farms in five regions — representing 25 percent of Soviet spring wheat production — during our three weeks in the USSR, we were unable to see some of the most important producing areas of the southern Urals and western Siberia."

The spring wheat team included Arthur F. Shaw, an agronomist from Bozeman, Mont., and Donavon C. Loeslie, a spring wheat producer from Warren, Minn. Dale Posthumus, agricultural officer with the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, was with the team in Kokchetev, Kustanay and Kurgan. The visit was made under terms of the U.S.-USSR agreement on cooperation in the field of agriculture.

The team, which was in the USSR Aug. 16-Sept. 3, visited Kokchetev and Kustanay in northern Kazakhstan, where spring wheat is the principal crop. It also visited Kurgan, a political subdivision in the eastern Ural Mountains, and autonomous republics of Tatar and Bashkir located along the upper Volga River and western Urals, respectively.

"All areas we visited has some weather difficulties during the 1982 season, Severin said.

"Harvest was just beginning in Kokchetav, was more advanced in Kustanay, well underway in Kurgan and Tatar, and completed in the area of Bashkir we visited," Severin said. "In these areas, low soil moisture and below-normal temperatures at planting time possibly caused the thin, short stands we observed in some fields. Head size, however, was reported better than in 1981 and conditions were good for kernel filling," he said.

Among the various cultural practices used in the USSR to increase and stabilize spring wheat yields, fallow is among the most important, according to Severin. He said fallow has increased substantially in the last 6-7 years and accounts for as much as 20 percent of arable land used in some areas. In addition to conserving moisture in these areas where normal average precipitation amounts to 12-16 inches annually, fallow in the crop rotation helps to control weeds. Wild oats and Canadian thistle are the most serious weeds in spring wheat.

"Farmers told us they receive only about one-third of the amount of chemical fertilizer recommended for their grain crops," Severin said.

Weather conditions generally have been favorable this year for the production of forage crops, the team reported. Corn and sunflowers, often mixed in silage, were developing well in the northern areas, and vast quantities of straw — an important roughage in the USSR — also were available. In Kurgan Oblast and the Tatar Republic, farmers reportedly put up enough roughage this season to last a year and a half.

During their visit, team members visited agricultural research institutes, experiment stations, schools for training agricultural specialists, a seed cleaning plant and state and collective farms.

"In final discussions at the USSR Ministry of Agriculture on Sept. 3, high-level Soviet officials told us the 1982 harvest of small grains in the Ukraine was complete," Severin said. However, to the north, in the more central part of the European USSR, rains interfered badly with the winter grain harvest. The Soviets also stated that the harvest of sugarbeets and sunflowers had begun in the south. One-third of the 1982-83 winter grain crop had been seeded.

The team was unable to obtain any data on the 1981 Soviet grain harvest, Severin said.

PRV pamphlet available

SOUTH ST. PAUL, MN - Two new pamphlets about swine pseudorabies have been published by Livestock Conservation Institute, announced Neal Black, president.

"Epidemiology of PRV - Current Knowledge" is the text of a presentation given at LCI's annual meeting by Dr. David Thawley, University of Missouri, co-chairman of LCI's Pseudorabies committee. The pamphlet contains the latest information about the pseudorabies virus and advantages and disadvantages of various control procedures.

"Swine Pseudorabies Eradication Guidelines" describes three methods for eradicating the disease from a herd. Depopulation-repopulation, test and removal, and offspring segregation are the three eradication procedures outlined. It includes factors to consider in choosing an eradication method, as well as detailed recommendations of procedures to follow.

A single copy of either pamphlet is available free of charge by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to LCI, 239 Livestock Exchange Building, South St. Paul, MN 55075. To receive both pamphlets, affix 37 cents postage. Prices for volume orders are available on request.

Livestock Conservation Institute is an industry organization dedicated to reducing livestock losses caused by handling, parasites and diseases.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

A rose by any other name...

The agricultural pollution hassle seems to be going in opposite directions at the same time. While one line of thinking suggests that farmers are the cause of an awful lot of pollution, another indicates that farm and forest land will be the ultimate and best dumping grounds for all sorts of unwanted things.

It's hard to see how the same patch of ground can be both polluter and savior at the same time. But that's what's been suggested

Almost any essay on soil and water pollution lists farmers high on the list of wrongdoers. Such [illegible] animal waste [illegible] fertilizers, pesticides and [illegible] taken away from farmers because they are said to be unsafe for the environment.

And yet, while the attack on agricultural pollution continues, other ecologists who feel just as strongly about our environment are looking at ways to make our open spaces — farm and forest — dumping grounds for urban garbage.

Research conducted at the University of Florida makes the point rather well — pine trees grow better in a mixture of garbage and soil than they do in Mother Earth alone. Not only that, but there appear to be no lingering aftereffects, no run-off problems to upset the purists.

with a bare four-acre plot that had been in timber. They mixed garbage and sludge from a secondary sewage treatment plant and worked it into the soil at the rate of 100 tons per acre. Pine seedlings were planted in the fall.

By the next spring, it was obvious that the seedlings were doing better in the garbage plots. They survived the winter better, and were much taller and healthier in appearance. Some trees reached a height of five feet in only eight months. In addition, a dense undergrowth developed on the garbage plots, protecting the soil from erosion and providing food and cover for wildlife.

Since trees aren't food, there's no danger of human contamination, and the long growing period for pines — 20 to 30 years — allows for large amounts of garbage and sewage to decompose slowly. There appears to be no leaching or run-off problems — in fact, the mixture holds moisture better than regular soil. That's one reason why it grows larger and more trees.

There would appear to be a lot of good reasons for using garbage on forest land. It would seem to be a good use and we need the trees. No doubt the "forces for good" in this world can think of reasons why this shouldn't be done. If they can stop manure spreading, which they're still trying hard to do, they will probably stop sludge spreading even if it is in a forest.

But looking at the other side for a moment, suppose this garbage thing catches on and the ecologists accept it? Where would a city like Wilmington find a woods big enough to take its output? Or for that matter, a farmer or forester willing to take it?

The Florida researchers say a few hundred acres could handle the waste from a city of 100,000 people. But there are a lot of cities and if this idea works they will all want forest land for dumps. As the population and garbage output increase, available space will run out and the same farmer who is being told not to spread cow manure on land may be required to spread urban waste a few years hence.

The point that really grabs me out of all this is that the decisions to spread or not spread and the material to be spread or not spread, will be determined by people who have never been any closer to a farm than the drifting odor from a manure pile.

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

Yes, you can make more money

Most farmers could make more money if they really wanted to. This statement will meet with a lot of skepticism from those who read it. However I believe that it is true.

Any person who has the dedication, the health, and the intestinal fortitude (sometimes called guts) to farm also has a higher than average control over his or her own destiny.

How?

That is a fair question. The answers may seem simple but your role in carrying it out may well be hard work. First of all, it may mean a complete change in the way you operate. Second, it may mean forcing yourself into the leadership role I discussed last week. And third it may mean some self examination with the basic question of: "How badly do I want to succeed?"

Let's look at some examples of changes that I have observed that could increase income.

Feeding more economically

This is especially true for dairy and hog operations. Most dairyproducers waste 10 to 30 percent of their feed dollar. How can this waste be corrected?

- Use forage tests and a feeding program as a guide. That is a basic requirement toward more economical feed use.
- Weigh feed. Then feed in accordance with a cow's needs. Be especially kind to fresh cows and first-calf heifers.
- Feed most of the high energy grain feed during the first one-third of the lactation.
- Mix part of all of the grain with silage if your cows are in a free-stall system. If you do this you should probably have ample bunk space for all animals (2 feet per cow) or feed in shifts.
- If you use a total or partial mixed ration with a split herd or a herd fed in shifts, use a different level of production for first calf heifers than for older cows.
- Feed grain to cows three times per day if you have a stall barn system.
- If you use a magnetic or transponder feeder, use a lower cut-off level for first-calf heifers than for older cows.
- Produce good quality forage because forage quality has an effect on other ration ingredients.
- Use the least expensive ration that does the job. Stay clear of expensive additives that do nothing for profits except to reduce them.

NEMA elects officers

NIAGRA FALLS, N.Y. — Directors of the Northeast Egg Marketing Association, United Egg Producer's regional cooperative serving the Mid-Atlantic and New England areas, recently heard reports that procurement of poultry meat patties for school lunch programs will soon be stepped up by the federal government.

They were also made aware of continued efforts by UEP and American Egg Board to put before egg producers and poultry meat processors the results of current research on new uses for eggs and poultry meat processors the results of current researchon new uses for eggs and poultry meat that have been conducted by American Egg Board.

Strong support was registered for investigative action that UEP has underway as to the scope and role of foreign investment in American egg production. The directors reported that Congress has mandated the use of some $190 million over the next three years to aid American food exporters to meet competition in markets abroad. The UEP and it's regionals have pledged to work to secure a fair share of this aid for egg exports.

It was suggested UEP check whether recent entry of Canadian eggs into American markets conforms with current trade equalization rules governing trade between the two countries.

Jack Shuford, director of UEP's insurance service reported work is underway to offer egg producers added coverages that should substantially cut their insurance costs. Steve Kula, legislative director of UEP in washington, told the group that gross of membership in United Egg Association, the industry's political action arm, is "excellent." He called attention to a new UEP committee set up to deal with such items as cash to accrual accounting, and investment and investment tax credits. It will make report to UEP's annual meeting at Tampa Florida in October.

NEMA voted to support a change from cash to accrual accounting for the industry. Due to growth of NEMA membership in Delaware and Maryland, the directors voted to add another seat on the board.

At the session, the following were elected to serve on NEMA board: Rich Francis, Massachusetts; Don Earl, New York; Maurice Cohens, Maine; Jodie Russo, Rhode Island; Eugene Constantine, Pennsylvania and David Baker, Delaware.

Officers for 1983 all re-elected are: President John Ricca; first Vice President Bob Park; second Vice President Jeff Carlin; Treasurer Rich Francis; and Secretary, C.A. O'Reilly.

WHAT THIS MAN KNOWS ABOUT FARMING COULD FILL A BOOK... A BANK BOOK.

Farming. It's a complex business. No surprise to you, of course. We only mention it because when it comes to getting a farm loan, we know you don't want to have to start at ground zero and explain the expenses of livestock, machinery, construction, mortgages and operating expenses to a novice loan officer.

Which is why we suggest you turn to Bob Badger, the head of our Agricultural Loan Division. Bob knows farming — inside out and upside down. He's been helping our community's farmers meet their business objectives for years. So when it comes to farm loans, he takes a very interesting point of view... yours.

Next time you need to talk to a banker about financing your business, talk to the banker who understands your business... Bob Badger at Bank of Lancaster County. Visit Bob at our Strasburg office or give him a call and ask him to visit you.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Turkey and egg producers will likely see favorable returns in fourth-quarter 1982, but broiler producers probably face continued poor returns, reports USDA;s Economic Research Service.

Favorable crop prospects are expected to hold down feed costs for poultry and egg producers. Export markets are weak, and demand for poultry and eggs continues sluggish despite reduced supplies of pork.

Egg output during September-November is expected to trail last year, possibly by 1 percent. Layer numbers may remain below last year. Low returns and high interest rates have, in most months, discouraged producers from maintaining replacement pullets at year-earlier levels, although they have been keeping old hens longer.

Cartoned large eggs in New York averaged about 64 cents per dozen during June-August, sharply below last year's 71 cents, partly because of weak exports. During September-November, with exports likely to continue slow, prices are expected to average 70-74 cents because of seasonal strengthening. This compares with last year's 77 cents.

Broiler producers have expanded output in response to the decline in red meat production. Broiler meat output in July-September is expected to increase 2 to 4 percent from last year. Production in the fourth quarter is expected to increase 1 to 3 percent.

Even though the hatchery supply flock will have fewer replacement pullets, producers are expected to respond to weak feed prices and the expanding economy by increased output further in 1983.

Strained consumer budgets and reduced exports have kept broiler prices weak this year. During July-September, wholesale broilers in the 9 cities may average 42 to 44 cents, down from 47 cents last year. Fourth-quarter prices may average 40 to 44 cents, compared to 42 a year earlier.

Poult hatch numbers indicate that turkey meat output in the third quarter may be down 11 percent. But a sharp upturn in the poults hatched for fourth-quarter slaughter means production then may decline only about 2 percent.

This season, frozen turkey inventories have been kept more in line with expected use than last season. The reduction in both stocks and production will likely strengthen prices. During July-September, wholesale prices for 8- to 16-pound young hen turkeys in New York are expected to average 64 to 66 cents per pound, up from 63 cents last year. Prices should strengthen seasonally in the fourth quarter and may average 66 to 70 cents, sharply above last year's 55 cents.

LANCASTER — The Century Farms Program, administered by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, will be continued through this year.

The Century Farms Program is aimed at recognizing the efforts of Pennsylvania's farm families which have preserved the traditions and the rural heritage of the pioneer farm.

Pennsylvania's pioneer farmers preserved through all kinds of difficulties. The hardships of farming and settlement were offset somewhat by compensations of farm life. Certain virtues and ideals were developed... thrift, close family and community life, cooperation, reverence for the Creator, self-reliance and a love of liberty.

Over 700 farms from 63 counties have been certified as Century Farms in the first four years of the program, but the Agriculture Department estimates at least 2,000 more farms are eligible for certification.

To be eligible for certification as a Pennsylvania Century Farm, a farm must have been owned by the same family fro the last 100 consecutive years, and a family member must currently reside on the land. In addition, the farm must consist of ten or more acres of the original holdings or gross at least $1,000 a year from the sale of agricultural products.

The Century Farms Program was initiated as part of the nation's bicentennial observance in 1976, but is being continued for its value in promoting the ideals of the family farm and the importance of farming to Pennsylvania's economy. Completed application forms will be held in the State Archives for use by future historians.

The application forms are available by writing Century Farms Program, Penn State Extension Service, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, Pa. 17601 or by calling 717-394-6851.

NFO announces nat'l reserve grain block

CORNING, Ia. — A National Reserve Grain Block to return prosperity to agriculture and the nation by forcing a rise in U.S. grain prices has been announced by DeVon Woodland, president of National Farmers Organization.

Announcement of the plan follows a report by one of the nation's leading private economic forecasting companies that there can be no complete recovery from the recession unless farm income is boosted significantly.

Chase Econometrics, Inc., a subsidiary of Chase Manhattan Bank, said in a widely circulated report that "a major portion of the work force which is now unemployed in the largest segment of the economy (agriculture-related industries) will remain jobless unless a concerted effort is made to improve farm income."

"Our plan will do just that," Woodland said, "and pilot projects in Colorado, Kansas and Minnesota reveals that farmers will accept the program and it will work."

The NFO plan involves using the three-year Commodity Credit Corporation reserve to tie up "free-stocks" of grain, to push the price through the release-call level and, through organized marketing, avoid market depressing quantities from being dumped on the market when the release-call level is achieved."

The National Reserve Grain Block has been initiated as a result of current circumstances, namely: grain prices are depressed below CCC loan rates; compliance in the acreage reduction program is sufficient to tie up all "free stocks" before 1983 harvest as large volumes enter the three-year reserve; free stocks tied up in the [illegible] will cause the release-call prices to be reached; CCC release price and call price are equal for the 1981 and 1982 reserve, although the figures are different for the two years; USDA will likely "call" the reserve shortly after the release is announced in order to stop storage payments to farmers and to reimpose interest will likely cause panic selling among producers who will try to avoid the market wrecking effect of 3 billion bushels of grain being dumped on the market at one time; and American grain producers united behind one voice, the National Reserve Grain Block, can market the reserve in an orderly manner over a twelve-month period to avoid wrecking the market structure through pre-negotiated contracts with buyers.

Oregon Shorthorn sale sets record prices

OMAHA, Neb. — The first Salem Select Shorthorn Female Sale broke two all time North American breed record prices in an event that drew more than 1,000 spectators at the Oregon State Fair, Salem, Or.

Setting a new all time high price paid for a Shorthorn female was a consignments from Hoyt & Sons, Burns, Or., on CSF Irish Lassie 80 and her July heifer calf, when they brought the top price of $31,000. The pair was purchased by Shorthorn Genetic Engineering, Sacramento, Ca.

The all-time high average sale price was set as 16 female lots were sold at a $7,806.25 average for a gross of $124,900 for the lots sold.

Another significant price paid, although not a record, was for a five and one half month old heifer calf, consigned by Don Cardy, Merced, Ca., when his LC North Queen 952 x, a March 1982 heifer calf brought $15,700. This lot also sold to Shorthorn Genetic Engineering

USDA proposes $10,000 minimum bond for small volume buyers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has proposed a $10,000 minimum bond requirement for small volume livestock dealers and order buyers who are subject to the Packers and Stockyards Act.

Farmers and ranchers who purchase livestock for stocking or feeding purposes are not required to file a bond.

B.H. Jones, head of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration said USDA's proposal last February to eliminate the minimum bond for small volume dealers and order buyers drew strong opposition from the livestock industry.

"A great majority said more bonding was needed for the small volume operators, not less," Jones said. "As a result we now propose to require a $10,000 minimum bond for buyers doing less than $500,000 worth of business annually, rather than the present $5,000 requirement."

Coupled with the new bonding proposal is another which would permit market agencies, dealers and packers to file an irrevocable letter of credit in lieu of a bond.

"We believe the letter of credit proviso will provide greater flexibility to persons who must file a bond and may reduce their costs of doing business," Jones said.

Lancaster District director receives state award

LANCASTER — Lancaster County District Director Robert K. Mowrer of Willow Street has been selected by the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts as the "Outstanding Conservationist" for 1982. The award will be presented at the Association's annual conference Oct. 5.

Mowrer, who has been serving the District as a director since 1968, was introduced to agriculture and conservation through his father — a farm implement dealer in rural Lancaster County.

The retired teacher and engineer for RCA decided to abandon his career at age 55 in order to devote all his time to conservation, especially seeking a state park for Lancaster County. As chairman of a civic committee, Mowrer was instrumental in founding the 224-acre Susquehannock State Park in 1963. The county's only state park is located along the Susquehanna River gorge.

Mowrer served as president of the Lancaster County Park and Open Space Committee which selected the site for the 380-acre Lancaster County Central Park along the Conestoga River. He also was involved in the establishment of Muddy Run Recreation Area by the Philadelphia Electric Company as well as the Middle Creek Wildlife Area by the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Within Conservation District activities, Mowrer helped establish a youth conservation camp. He also helped establish the Lancaster County Conservancy in 1969. The conservancy has set aside the wild and scenic areas of Chickies Rock, a 150-acre site of cliffs along the Susquehanna River used by the Susquehannock Indians as a lookout, and Trout Run, a 45-acre tract of stream that is surrounded by proposed housing developments.

According to District Chairman Aaron Stauffer, another area where Bob Mowrer has become active is farmland preservation:

"As a township supervisor chairman for six years (1958-64), he instituted a planning commission and zoning to protect prime farmlands. In 1979, the county commissioners appointed him to an Agricultural Preservation Task Force which set procedures for reducing loss of prime farmland in Lancaster County."

"Bob Mowrer has dedicated his life to furthering conservation in Lancaster County," the District chairman expressed.

At N.Y. State Fair

Berks steer brings top bid

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Kirk Fisher of Oley, Berks County, was a first-time exhibitor at the recent New York State Fair at Syracuse. The young Pennsylvanian walked away with some handsome prizes and a record-price for his Charolais steer, winner of Quality Beef Carcass Show.

The steer was sold at auction at Miller Court to P&C Super Markets of Syracuse of $5.65 per pound. The steer had a liveweight of 1,080 pounds, a carcass weight of 670 pounds, a ribeye measurement of 14.6 inches, a quality grade of choice minus, and a basic yield grade of three.

The carcass show was judged by Terry Dockerty, Extension meat specialist at Cornell University; the 13 steers in the class were judged on foot by Kenneth Brubaker of West Chester, Pa.

Fisher's steer stood seventh on foot. In addition to the record price, he received a first prize of $500 for the carcass class and a trophy from the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association.

Ten of the steers made the beef carcass evaluation requirements that combine quality and cutability and qualified for the auction at Miller Court which attracts a large audience and media attention.

Second place in the carcass show went to Jeff Fisher of Wyoming, N.Y. for his Simmental steer which sold for $3.05 per pound to Peters Grocery of Syracuse.

AFT visits Lanc. Ag Preserve Board meeting

LANCASTER — Lancaster County is an "unparalleled agricultural area; a national teasure equally as valuable to United States agriculture as the Grand Canyon is to the National Park System," remarked Ed Thompson of the American Farmland Trust last Friday during the meeting of the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board.

The American Farmland Trust is a national, non-profit organization, formed to protect farmland opportunities.

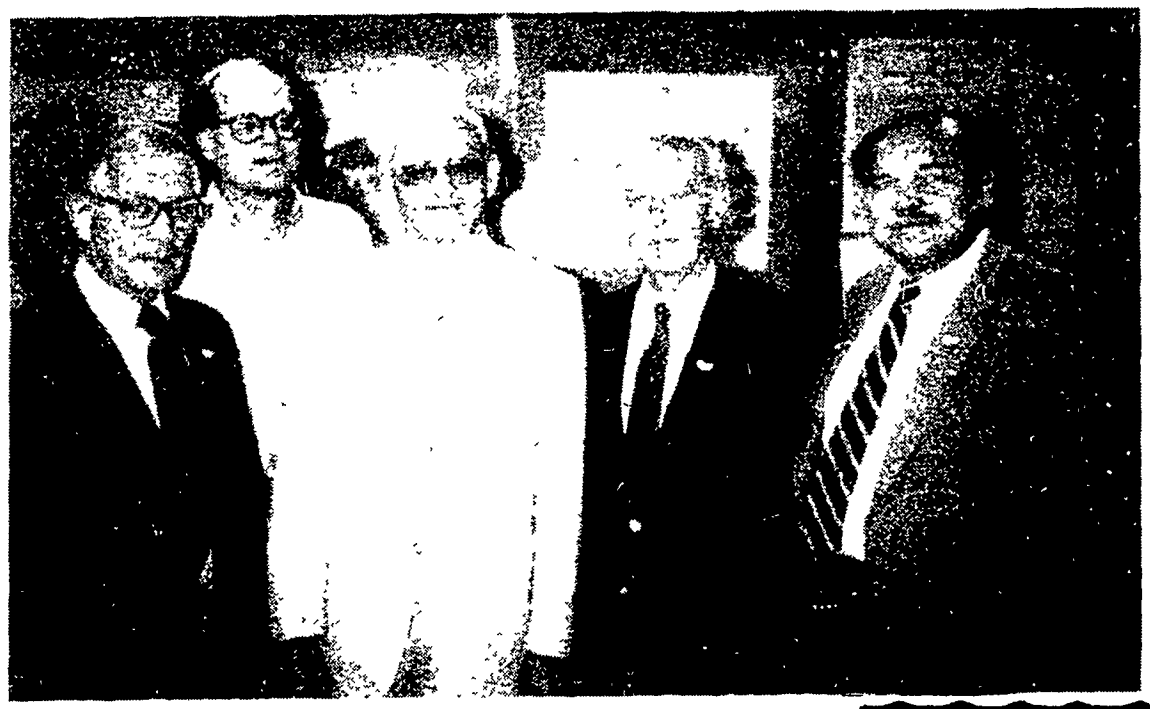
Staff members of the AFT were impressed by statistics like: Lancaster County produces one-seventh of all agricultural products in Pennsylvania; and a 60-acre farm sold for $5,100 per acre (there were four active bidders, all farmers).

The AFT also listened to various members of the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board as they stated their views on farmland preservation. Bill Forrey, representing the Lancaster County Home Builders and developers, stated housing is just as important as farmland. He added that he supports the concept of setting aside large contiguous blocks of land which developers will "stay out of," but in return they would like higher density developments and less opposition to developing non-designated agricultural land. He also questioned whether the Agricultural Preserve Board should be getting into the real estate business.

David Fisher, a New Holland-area farmer, stated that most Amish farmers "want the right to farm, and are not interested in financial reimbursement for keeping their land in agriculture."

Action was taken by the Agricultural Preserve Board to work with County Vo-Ag teachers to prepare a one-week curriculum on farmland preservation with assistance from the AFT. Also, the Board voted to delineate agricultural preserve areas within townships.

Pennsylvania has a branch of the American Farmland Trust, which is cooperating with the Pennsylvania Farmers Association.



Officers of the American Farmland Trust, a national, non-profit organization for the protection of farmland, met with the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board last Friday. Egg producers fight for free trade

WASHINGTON, D.C. — United Egg Association launched its first legislative alert to its membership earlier this month in an effort to generate support for the "investment for free trade" concept among the nation's lawmakers. The concept involves short-term subsidies for egg producers in order to compete in overseas markets with European egg producers who are subsidized by the EEC (European Economic Community) at the rate of 11½ cents per dozen.

UEA President Al Pope noted the industry's disdain for any type of subsidy. However, he countered that this proposal would be a short-term effort in demonstrating the U.S. determination to remove those foreign subsidies and provide open and fair competition for U.S. eggs in the world market.

"U.S. egg producers are the most efficient in the world, yet they cannot compete as individuals or as an industry against the financial resources of foreign governments," said Pope. "Domestic subsidies will go a long way toward tearing down those foreign trade barriers and help reopen those world markets we worked so hard to develop."

Congress has passed enabling legislation, HR 6955, granting the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture authority to spend $175 to $190 million for export assistance. UEA members sent their congressional leaders letter requesting their assistance in providing a directional push for the Secretary of Agriculture in spending the allocated funds on eggs.

In Del. soybean fields

Mexican bean beetle damage on increase

NEWARK, Del. — Economic infestations of Mexican bean beetle are occurring in scattered soybean plantings around Delaware — a sign beetle populations are up over the last two years.

But this doesn't mean farmers should write off the little wasp with the big name — Pediobius foveolatus — released to control the beetles. "The parasite has done a good job for the most part," says University of Delaware Extension pest management specialist Mark Graustein. "It's been most effective where spring release sites (nurse plots) were close enough to provide good cover of the target area."

Graustein blames the weather for the current build-up of MBB numbers. "The climate has been very kind to the pest this year," he says. Compared to 1980 and 1981, when it was so hot and dry many beetles died of desiccation, conditions generally have been moister around the state. On the other hand, the cool, wet start to the growing season made it harder for parasites to become established.

"The beetle is vulnerable to the parasite only in the larval stage, and there was a long lag between emergence of first and second generation MBB larvae this year," Graustein says. Since P. foveolatus must have a host in order to survive, the lag probably reduced its ability to suppress MBB in certain fields.

In spite of this, the entomologist says the control program is working most places. "There appear to be more economic infestations of MBB outside the target area than within," he notes. "More nurse plots might have helped, where a problem does exist."

Delaware's current Mexican bean beetle control program is based on a cooperative effort between the state's Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The USDA provided the parasites. State entomologist Lynn Harrison coordinated the program, setting up snap bean nurse plots on cooperating farms, scouting MBB larvae to learn when to make releases, and making sure enough parasites were released. She also has been actively involved in evaluating the success of the parasite in suppressing MBB populations on soybeans in the release area.

There were 35 release sites in Delaware this year, most of them in the area between Middletown and Harrington west of route 13. A total of 231,000 parasites were released — about 12,000 more than actually needed, based on MBB counts.

Where nurse plots were fairly close together, beetle control has been good. However, beetle infestations are now approaching economic levels in soybeans near or within some release areas. Graustein says he and Harrison feel this is largely because of the weather.

As the third generation of MBB comes on, he expects to see parasitism pick up. Some beetles are emerging now, though peak MBB hatch and larval feeding won't take place for another week or so. This is later than usual — again, probably because of the weather. It's too soon to tell whether or not the delay will have an impact on the population that overwinters.

Time is running out on Delaware's Mexican bean beetle control program, the specialist says. The USDA will probably support it for only one more season. This means growers and grower organizations must consider whether the program is valuable enough to support locally after that. "I personally feel it's worth continuing," Graustein says.

According to Penn State Extension entomologist Stan Gesell, the Mexican bean beetle is in the state but is not yet an "economic problem" for Pennsylvania soybean farmers. "Perhaps in another three to five years it will be if more farmers begin growing soybeans and more acres are planted."

In Maryland, entomologist John Hellman reports MBB damage hasn't been as extensive this year as in previous years. He notes, however, that most of the damage is experienced in the last few weeks of the growing season, when the second generation of the insects attack the plants.

"Cool weather slows MBB's development," Hellman explains. "We expect some injury, but not much."

PURINA DAIRY MINERAL

16% CALCIUM
16% PHOSPHORUS

Plus: Sodium, Chlorine, Magnesium, Sulphur, Potassium, Iron, Copper, Cobalt, Iodine, Zinc, Manganese, Selenium.

Purina Dairy Mineral is formulated especially for cows on grass pasture, hay or haylage and for cows on a heavy feeding program of corn or sorghum silage. All of these roughages are low in calcium as well as phosphorus. It is very important to feed with them a mineral mixture with a 1:1 calcium-phosphorus ration, to supply both elements.

PURINA DAIRY HI-PHOS MINERAL

0% CALCIUM
16% PHOSPHORUS

Plus: Sodium, Chlorine, Magnesium, Sulphur, Potassium, Iron, Copper, Cobalt, Iodine, Zinc, Manganese, Selenium.

Purina Dairy Phos Mineral is formulated to provide cows with the phosphorus they need when they are getting a high calcium, low phosphorus forage such as alfalfa, clover or other legume pasture, hay, haylage or citrus pulp. Dairy Phos Mineral contains 0% calcium, 16% phosphorus and all the rest of the essential trace mineral elements. Dairy Phos Mineral is the product of choice whenever the calcium to phosphorus ratio in the total ration is greater than 2.2:1.

Purina is offering a free pair of Wells-Lamont pigskin gloves, a $10.50 retail value, to farmers/feeders/ranchers who purchase a minimum of 500 lbs. of Purina Minerals per purchase from September 1 - November 30, 1982.
